T. H. Hills testified that on Good Friday night he saw a man resembling Durrant meet a girl resembling the description of Minnie Williams go arm in arm down the street into the church, where they remained.

KILLED BOTH.

Bloody Sequel to a Story of Infidelity.

A Kentuckian's Way of Avenging His Honor.

Prominent Families of Louisville in the Affray.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 30.—In a shooting affray today Arch Brown was shot and killed by Fulton Gordon.

Gordon was shot by Brown and Mrs. Gordon was shot and killed by her husband.

Brown and Gordon's wife were in a house at 1025 Madison street.

Gordon caught them together.

He at once attacked Brown and shot him fatally.

Brown returned the fire, but did not injure Gordon.

Gordon then turned the weapon on his wife and sent a bullet through her stomach, killing her instantly.

Arch Dickson Brown is the son and private secretary to Governor Brown of Kentucky.

The Gordons are highly connected also.

Gordon is under arrest.

Nine shots were fired.

The guilty couple were taken completely by surprise.

Brown had prepared, however, for such a visit and his pistol was lying near.

Before he could reach it the enraged man had commenced firing.

His aim was true and every shot must have taken effect, as Brown's body was riddled.

Brown fired a few shots, staggered to a chair in a corner, sank in it a moment and then fell over dead.

Gordon then turned to his wife and fired at her, striking her in the body.

Though mortally wounded, she was able to get down a step run twenty feet to a cellar.

Nine shots were fired.

Gordon was covered with blood and was thought to have been shot. He is, however, in convulsions.

Mrs. Gordon was Miss Nellie Bush of this city and comes from one of the most prominent families in this city.

She eloped with Gordon about ten years ago and moved to Frankfort.

She was about 30 years old and leaves three children.

On account of the high family connections the murder has caused a great sensation.

Young Brown was recently divorced. It is understood the reason for the divorce was Brown's intimacy with Mrs. Gordon.

A CLOSE FIGHT.

The Civic Case to Be Decided on Demurrer.

Saturday Witnesses the Fight of the Board of Public Works.

The attorneys who are interested in the contest of Hughes and Miller to recover their seats as members of the Board of Public Works are preparing for a big legal battle next Saturday, when the demurrer to the complaint will be heard before the four Superior Judges sitting in bank. This will really be the trial of the case.

George W. Reed, who is one of the attorneys for the defendants, in speaking about the case to a TRIBUNE reporter, today, explained the situation. "The demurrer that will argued Saturday will go to the merits of the case," he said. "We had the complaint put in so that it would raise all the questions involved and they can now be passed on at one hearing. There is no denial to the facts that have been alleged. The facts as set forth in the complaint are agreed to by all parties. It is simply a question of law that is involved. The demurrer that has been entered is a general one, and it is sufficient to bring the case to an issue. You can see, therefore, that there will be no trial. It will simply be a case for argument before the judges. If this demurrer is sustained by the court, why that ends the case so far as the Superior Court is concerned. The plaintiff, however, will have the right to take an appeal to the Supreme Court. If on the other hand the demurrer is overruled, that will settle the case for the defendants in the Superior Court, and in that event we would take an appeal to the Supreme Court. The questions of law involved in the case are very interesting, and they will be fully discussed at the hearing on Saturday. We recognize that the case is of much importance to the city and we are going to try and do our best to win it."

A Sweeping Fire.

A SWELL EVENT.

The "American Duchess" Weds Lord Beresford.

All the Fashionables Present at the Ceremony.

A Brilliant Scene at S. George's Church in London.

LONDON, April 30.—At the fashionable St. George's Church, Hanover Square, at 1 o'clock this afternoon, the widowed Duchess of Marlborough, formerly Mrs. Louis Hammersley of New York, was married to Lord William Beresford, formerly colonel of the Ninth Lancers, who gained the most coveted of all military decorations in Great Britain, the Victoria Cross, by riding back into the thick of the fight at Ulundi to rescue a lancer, whom he placed across his saddle and then cut his way out to safety.

In spite of the statements that the wedding was to be a quiet ceremony, it was the smartest event seen in London for a long time.

The church was crowded with royalty, members of the diplomatic corps, representatives of the various colonies, Governors of different colonial positions, officers of the army and navy and members of the elite of American and English society of London and elsewhere.

In every row from the front, where United States Ambassador and Mrs. Bayard and the Duke of Cambridge occupied the most prominent places, to the back row of pews and to the galleries there was a brilliant mass of color formed by the rich satins and silks of the ladies' costumes.

Shortly before 1 o'clock the bridegroom, attended by his brother, Lord Marcus Beresford, both in faultless fitting frock coats, entered the church, almost unnoticed.

Then followed crowds of members of the aristocracy, until at 1 P. M. promptly the bride's carriage arrived and there was a vigorous pressing forward upon the part of the crowd, and a strong effort upon the part of the police to keep back the crush.

This the policemen succeeded in doing, and the "American Duchess," as the beautiful dowager duchess of Marlborough is known, looking exceedingly handsome in a bridal costume, entered the church leaning on the arm of her stepson, the Duke of Marlborough.

Upon reaching the door they were met by the clergy and the choir, who preceded the procession to the altar.

THE BRIDE'S COSTUME.

The bride was dressed in a dove gray coat and skirt of brocaded satin, with white lace waist coat and cuffs with diamond buttons, white bonnet with gray chiffons and a magnificent white veil.

She carried a large silver prayer book, and when she took her place by his side it was noticeable that she was much taller than Lord William Beresford, who, by the way, looks older than he really is.

The principals took up their positions, with Lord Marcus Beresford, the best man, on the right, the bride and bridegroom in the center and the Duke of Marlborough on the left.

Rev. James Edgar Shepard, honorary chaplain to the Queen, officiated, assisted by Rev. David Anderson, rector of St. George's Church.

The service was fully choral and occupied half an hour.

At its conclusion the party went to the vestry, where the bridal couple were congratulated by their friends.

A GOOD CHOICE.

Lincoln S. Church Selected as Assignee.

The Affairs of the Life and Annuity Association Come Up.

All efforts to wind up the business of the Life and Annuity Association have failed up to date. Charles E. Lloyd was appointed assignee of the insolvent corporation months ago and he made a hot fight to get hold of the $5000 in securities held by the State Treasurer for the association, but he failed. He has been trying to quit his job as assignee for months, but it was not until this morning that he succeeded in having his resignation accepted by the court and granted his discharge. For months of hard work and abuse Mr. Lloyd drew down $50 and he considered himself very lucky to get that much. He says that he is glad to get rid of the tangle and he will take good care never to get into such a snap again.

Judge Greene appointed Deputy District Attorney Lincoln S. Church as assignee to succeed Lloyd. Mr. Church appeared in court and said that he would accept the trust. His bond was fixed at the sum of $5000. Just as soon as the new assignee arranges for his bond, he will assume the duties of his office and make an effort to wind up the business of the defunct concern. His first move will be to try and secure the securities from the State Treasurer that are now so badly tied up. If he can get them he will have them converted into cash at once and divide the money among the many creditors of the association. Until these securities are disposed of the affairs of the Life and Annuity Association cannot be closed up. Mr. Church is looked upon as a good legal fighter, and just such a man is needed for the place. He will have a score of attorneys to fight against, who are trying to get the bulk of the $5000 for their clients.

"I will stay by the works until the last gun is fired even if I never get a cent for my trouble," remarked Mr. Church today after he had taken the oath of assignee.

OSCAR ON LOVE.

The Ex-Apostle Is Now Posing as a Martyr.

He Flatly Denies the Charges Against Him.

Applause Rings Out in Court at One of His Answers.

LONDON, April 30.—Old Bailey was less crowded today than heretofore when the court was opened for what was expected to be the last day of the trial of Oscar Wilde and Alfred Taylor on a charge of serious misdemeanor, etc.

Counsel for the Crown withdrew the charge of conspiracy against Wilde, saying he desired to avoid any difficulty in placing the prisoners on the witness stand.

Sir Edward Clark, Q. C., counsel for the accused, demanded a verdict of not guilty on this count, but the judge refused to allow it.

Sir Edward Clarke in the opening speech for the defense denounced the conduct of a large section of the press, saying it prejudiced the case of his client and imperiled the interests of justice.

Wilde was then placed upon the stand and absolutely denied there was a word of truth in the charges of indecency brought against him.

He answered the questions of Sir Edward Clark in subdued tones.

During the examination of the prisoner by his counsel it was apparent many of Wilde's friends were present.

Sir Edward Clarke claimed that Wilde was a martyr and had accepted a verdict of not guilty in the Queensberry case only because it was evident it could not be properly tried then, but it could now be determined on proper issue, according to counsel.

When Wilde was placed in the dock it was evident that he seemed to have lost all the swagger which disgusted all who witnessed it during the former trial.

C. F. Gill, on behalf of the prosecution, began to cross-examine on the same lines that Sir Edward M. Carson, Q. C., who defended the Marquis of Queensberry, used against the charge of libel.

He quoted from the sonnet to Lord Alfred Douglass, in which occurred the line: "I am that love, but dare not speak its name."

Gill asked what was the nature of the love represented in that poem.

Wilde with marked deliberation and emphasis answered: "It is the love not understood in this century. It is the love of David for Jonathan, a deep spiritual affection, as pure as it is perfect. It is something this age does not understand. It mocks at it and sometimes puts one into the pillory."

As Wilde finished his answer there were loud cheers from the gallery, which called forth a rebuke from the judge, who threatened to eject those who took part in the demonstration.

After a short cross-examination, during which Wild denied everything, Charles Parker was examined and cross-examined.

Children are happy always when mothers use Dr. Price's Baking Powder in pastry, biscuit and cake.

BANQUET FIRST.

The American Horse Victorious at Newmarket.

He Showed His Heels to Crack English Racers.

M. F. Dwyer's Old Gelding Keeps Up His Great Record.

NEWMARKET, April 30.—Unusual interest was taken in the opening of the first Newmarket spring meeting here today.

In addition to the 1000 and 2000 guineas stakes in which the Derby favorites meet, American horses were entered for several events.

The Prince of Wales, Duke of Cambridge and a large party drove here from Sandringham this morning.

Lord Rosebery, the Duke of Portland and a host of other notables were present.

Interest centered in the 2000 guinea trial plate, in which Michael Dwyer's Don Alonzo and Banquet were entered. The former, however, was scratched.

For the first spring 3-year-old stakes, also to be decided today, Foxhall Keene had two entries, a chestnut filly by Amphion, out of Innodale, and a chestnut filly by Barcaldine, out of Stephanotes.

For the visitors' Welter plate, Richard Crocker's Eau De Gallie and Michael F. Dwyer's Banquet were entered. All the American horses were heavily handicapped.

The conditions of the trial plate were as follows: Two thousand guineas trial plate of 200 sovereigns, 3-year olds to carry 8 stones 10 pounds; 4-year olds to carry 10 stones 1 pound. Winner to be sold for 2000 sovereigns. If for 1000 sovereigns, allowed 12 pounds; if for 500 sovereigns, allowed 24 pounds; if for 200 sovereigns, allowed 32 pounds. Entrance fee, 5 sovereigns. Course, Rowley mile.

The result was as follows:

Dwyer's bay gelding Banquet, aged, by Rayon D'Or out of Ella, Simms up, 8 stone, first; Legal Tender, bay colt, by Minting, out of Anreoline, 7 stones, 11 pounds, second; Esmond, bay horse, by Lowland Chief, out of Clarissa, 8 stone, 8 pounds, third.

Seven horses ran.

Chilibos, a 3-year-old chestnut colt, cut out the work, closely followed by Banquet and Legal Tender.

They ran in the order named to the bushes, where Banquet took a clear lead and won in a canter by three lengths.

Three quarters of a length separated Legal Tender and Esmond.

Betting at the post was 5 to 4 against Banquet; 10 to 1 against Legal Tender and 6 to 4 against Esmond.

THE MARQUETTE RIOT.

They are: Paul De Grave, Belgian, skull fractured by a blow from a club; Dan Westerville, body badly bruised and scalp cut open; Chef Vennertelle, legs injured; two other Belgians and three Finlanders, names unknown, various injuries, chiefly scalp wounds.

Charges of contempt of court and deadly assault will be made against thirty men.

All the beatitudes for baking powders are heaped on Dr. Price's, as it's the most perfect made.

REBELS RALLY.

A Lively Set-to With the Spanish Troops.

HAVANA, April 30.—The insurgents routed April 24th by the Spanish troops under Major Tejerizo, reorganized and concentrated in the vicinity of Ramon Yagneres.

They again met the Spanish forces under Tejerizo at Ramon Yagneres, and the rebels are reported to have lost sixty-two killed and many injured.

The Spanish loss was six dead and three wounded.

Cut Off Her Daughters.

The will of Margery Walker, who died in Livermore January 20th, was presented to the Superior Court for probate this afternoon. The deceased left real estate worth $1500. Mrs. Walker cut her two daughters, Eliza Jane Bounredge and Margaret Budsworth, off with $1 apiece. She bequeathed the remainder of her property to her son, William T. Walker. Norman McLeod and Assemblyman Frank R. Fassett are named to act as executors. The latter, however, declines to serve. C. C. Hamilton is attorney for the estate.

TATE'S TREAT.

He Need Not Put Up Alimony Any More.

The Eldest Son Awarded to the Father.

Judge Ellsworth Winds Up a Neatly Fought Case.

Mrs. M. J. Tate got the worst of a legal contest this morning before Judge Ellsworth in the Superior Court, when she attempted to prevent her husband, George W. Tate, from securing an order to have a decree of divorce modified so that he would be relieved of the burden of paying alimony. Tate has been digging up alimony for ten years, and he is tired of the deal.

His divorced wife married again and then she got a second divorce. Tate did not like the idea of paying alimony to another man's wife. He had to put up $30 a month all the same, because the decree of court provided that he had to support his two minor children, the custody of whom had been given to the mother.

When the case was called today, Tate said that he was willing to accept the custody of his son who is 19 years old. Mrs. Tate declared that that would never do as the father had given the boy a mighty kick which sent him down a long flight of stairs. The boy was then called to testify about the kick. He knew that he had bruises on his person and that he had received a kick that will last long in his memory, but he had no recollection that his father wore the boot that was used on that occasion. Young Tate stood by his father for further orders and helped him to win out in the case.

When it came to a decision, Judge Ellsworth ordered that the decree of divorce be modified so that Tate will not have to pay a cent of alimony in the future. The custody of the son was awarded to Tate, who will give him a place in his hotel on Stockton street.

When Tate heard the decree of the court a fine round smile lit up his countenance. He had been paying another man's wife alimony for years, and that is what made him feel so mean. When his friends met him outside the Courthouse they simply remarked, "It's Tate's treat," and Tate treated.

After all the best is the cheapest. This truism explains the ever growing use of Dr. Price's Baking Powder.

WILSON'S WOES.

The Trouble With His Wife Is Settled Now.

An Agreement Made Regarding the Payment of Alimony.

Harvey M. Wilson, the well known Grand Army man, was in the Superior Court this morning to listen to the story told by his wife, Lila Wilson, on her application for a divorce on the ground of failure to provide. Mr Wilson had put in an answer denying the charges, but he failed to put in any proof.

Mrs Wilson told Judge Greene that she had been neglected by her husband for over a year. She used to keep his books for him at one time and assisted him in every way. At that time Wilson was making $400 a month. He was a blacksmith and a trader and the dollars came rolling his way. Then there was a change. Mrs Wilson says that her husband neglected his home and took his books away, so that she could not keep his accounts. He kept late hours and became a sport. For over a year she says that he has only provided her with $7 a month for the support of herself and minor child. The wife declared that she could not get along on this small sum and she was forced to seek aid from her daughter Mrs. Henry Gieschen. The husband of the latter is a son of the late Mrs Collins and has quite a little estate in his own right.

The story told to the Judge was simple and to the point. It was announced that there was no defense to the charges. Then Judge Greene figured up that Mr Wilson had cleaned up $500 profit in his business last year. That was a big fall from what he used to make. The Judge was informed that the parties had agreed on the alimony proposition. Mrs. Wilson consented to take $10 a month permanent alimony, and the order was made to that effect. She was granted her divorce as prayed for in the complaint. The deal seemed to suit Harvey Wilson all right.

HAPPY POLICEMEN.

A Damage Case Against Them Is Dismissed.

Policemen Bert Curtis and Hall B. Rand were a pleased pair this morning when the announcement was made in court that the suit of Miss Margaret M. Hart, a domestic, to recover $10 000 damages for alleged false imprisonment was dismissed. When the case was called for trial the lady was not ready to proceed, so the action was dismissed without prejudice. She claimed that Officer Curtis had arrested her at the West Oakland Home for disturbing the peace without probable cause and that Officer Rand had given her a ride through the streets in the patrol wagon. When the case was called in the Police Court it was dismissed.

PERFECT PEACE.

The Remains of Irving Wood Mills Laid Away.

Many Mourners Present at the Obsequies.

Impressive Services in the Cemetery at Sacramento.

The obsequies of the late Irving W. Mills, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Mills of San Francisco took place yesterday afternoon in Sacramento where the remains of the young man were laid to rest in the city cemetery beside those of his brother Russell who died several years ago.

The remains were borne from San Francisco on a special train of four cars, which also contained a number of intimate friends, both of the deceased and the bereaved family. Among those sympathetic mourners and relatives were Mr and Mrs W H Mills, Miss Della Mills, Miss Bessie Mills, Mrs. Fannie Haswell, William P Haswell, Mrs R E Hoge, Miss Bertha Harrington, Miss Alice Sheehan, Miss Viola Haswell, Charles C Haswell and wife, E F. Haswell and wife, Justice and Mrs McFarland, William F Herrin, Judge and Mrs Slack, H E Huntington, Mr and Mrs James Dunmuir, Mrs William Singer, A N Towne, John P Irish, Mrs J C Stubbs, Miss Stubbs, A D Ford, Miss McFarland, R Wilman, J H Sharp, Mrs A S Hallidie and L Raspe.

The train reached Sacramento shortly after noon where it was met by a number of prominent people who had esteemed the deceased in life. The remains were tenderly borne to the hearse, the pallbearers being James Hobbs, Charles E erman, John LaRue, Will Denman, Ed Sheehan, Thomas Taylor, Howard Herron, Fred Haswell, E T Houghton and William Singer Jr.

The funeral procession comprised a long line of carriages and attracted much attention as it slowly moved through Sacramento to the beautiful city of the dead beyond.

The day was an ideal one, such a day as one might choose to be laid to rest in the bosom of mother earth. The sky was cloudless. The air was laden with the aroma of hundreds of choice flowers and many of these were wrought into beautiful symbols and sent as tributes to the worth of the deceased.

Among those who were represented by these testimonials were Mrs T W Sheehan, Mr and Mrs Peter Bohl, General and Mrs A L Hart, Mr and Mrs J L Jackson, Mr and Mrs Dwight H Miller, Postmaster and Mrs W S Leake, Congressman and Mrs Grove L Johnson, Mr and Mr W C Fitch, Mr and Mrs W H Davis, Colonel and Mrs Hamilton, Mrs C K McCarthy, Colonel and Mrs J B Wright, T E Haswell, Mr and Mrs W F. Knox, Will Shaw, Dr and Mrs G L Simmons and many others.

Near the grave a large pavilion had been erected and beneath the shade which it afforded, the impressive funeral services conducted by Rev Dr Horatio Stebbins was held. They were taken part in by a large number of people.

Several hymns were sung, an address and a brief prayer was offered by Dr Stebbins and then the grave opened to receive the casket.

Mourners and friends then retired from the cemetery and the visitors from San Francisco returned to their homes.

CHANGES COMING

Two Branch Postoffices Are to Be Moved.

Station A is Affected at the Point.

The One at Osgood Bros. Is to Be Moved to Bowman's.

Two changes are to be made in the superintendents and location of postal stations in this city, and will go into effect about the 15th of next month.

The stations affected are those at the Point and Osgood Brothers at the corner of Seventh and Broadway.

The former is known as Station A, and has been in charge of Superintendent Storey. The latter is known as Station C, and has been in charge of Fred S Osgood of the firm mentioned, with whom a special clerk has been employed to attend to the business.

Storey will be succeeded by Reuben McCloud, who is now in the cigar business and has been a clerk in the postal service. The office will be moved from the corner of [illegible] to [illegible] in the same building.

Station C will be removed from Osgood's to Bowman's drug store, on the northwest corner of Ninth and Broadway and be placed under the charge of Mr Bowman.

These changes were made upon the report and recommendation of Postoffice Inspector Irvail.

A TRIBUNE reporter called on Superintendent Osgood this morning and asked him if he knew why the change had been made. Mr. Osgood said that he did not know that any change was to be made, and that the announcement of the reporter was news to him. He said he knew of no reason why a change should take place, unless, perhaps, some people might insist that the location is too far down the street.

Mr. Bowman, when questioned about the matter, said that he supposed the change had been decided upon because the Postoffice Inspector thought the station should be farther up Broadway. He claimed that under a recent change in the postal regulations these stations are now under the direction of Postoffice Inspectors instead of, as formerly, under the supervision of the postmaster of the main office. There will be no decrease in the cost to the Government of maintaining this office, though it is hinted that in the case of that on A the Postal Department will experience a saving of perhaps $30 a year.

AIDING A CHILD.

Mrs. Sanford Descends on the Thalia Saloon.

A Thirteen Year Old Girl Is Cared for by the Barracks.

Mrs Sanford of the Alameda County Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, made an unsuccessful attempt last evening to secure possession of a 13 year-old girl named Amantha Danielson, who is now in the care of Mr and Mrs James Barracks, who run the Thalia saloon on the San Leandro road, near Fitchburg. At the time she made the demand for the girl, a warrant was served on Barracks, and his wife charging them with maintaining a minor child in a house of evil repute. The warrant was issued by Justice Lawrence of East Oakland and was served by Constable Weldon. The complaint was sworn to by Mrs. Sanford.

After the warrant had been served Weldon and the defendants tried out to secure bail and Mrs Sanford made an attempt to secure the girl. She told Mrs Barracks that she was acting under the direction of the District Attorney, and simply desired to take the child temporarily and let the courts determine as to where she should be kept.

Mrs Barracks, however, refused to surrender the child claiming that she is the girl's guardian and foster mother, admitting at the same time that she had nothing to show to substantiate her assertion.

Mrs Sanford says that the girl is not now living at the Thalia saloon but has been quartered in a frame house adjoining, because of the notoriety which the protest against the Barracks occasioned when it was filed with the Supervisors.

The complaint sworn to by Mrs Sanford however alleges that the girl was a resident of the Thalia house on certain dates last month.

Mrs Sanford had no legal document which authorized her to take possession of the girl so she was compelled to leave her in the custody of the Barracks. The case against Barracks and his wife will be heard some day this week.

FOR PROGRESS.

The Good Road Association Is Kept Busy.

Some Suggestions Offered by Mayor Davie.

He Is in Favor of Bonding the City for Improvements.

The Alameda County Good Roads Association held a meeting last night in the rooms of the Reliance Club. There was a fair attendance and a great deal of interest was taken in the proceedings.

John A. Britton, chairman of the association, made a few remarks and then called for the report of the special committee.

Major Fred E. Whitney was called to the chair and presented a report for the committee. He said:

"Your committee, to whom was referred the matter of examining and reporting upon ordinances for maintaining better streets in the city of Oakland, and better roads in the county of Alameda, respectfully report as follows:

"We concur in the report of the committee, read at your last meeting, to whom was referred the question of necessary repairs upon streets. That report discusses to some length the road laws of California, and the acceptance of streets by the City Council, when they are in proper repair, and the difficulty of having proper repairs made by reason of the protests of property owners under the law, and further cites ordinances Nos. 068 and 1833 of the city of Oakland, which it seems, have not been properly enforced where streets are in a condition to endanger persons or property passing thereon, and so forth, and removing tracks and repairing streets where street railway tracks have been abandoned, and leaving to this committee to consider the subject of street repairs when streets have been dug or torn up by water, gas or street railway companies, or by any person."

The report of the committee sets forth in full all the ordinances in Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley relating to the repairing of streets. The committee then continued as follows:

"In Berkeley and Alameda, where these ordinances are carefully enforced by the proper authorities, the streets are in excellent condition and are a credit to these communities. Good citizens make their homes in those places, induced largely by these conditions, which show well-regulated and thrifty municipalities, where heads of families take pleasure in selecting their homes and rearing their children under the most favorable surroundings.

"We venture to say that in no city the size of Oakland west of the Rocky mountains, and certainly in none east thereof, would the municipal authorities allow the streets to remain in such bad condition as they are at present in the 'Athens of the Pacific Coast.'

"It is not the object or aim of the Good Roads Association of Alameda County to burden or antagonize property owners or municipal officers, but it is our desire to call the attention of the public to such facts as will arouse in them a desire to have the proper and necessary steps taken to give us the best ordinances and to require that they be strictly enforced. For that reason we have set out the above ordinances that this association may compare and discuss them and so determine what is best to be done, and after determining the sense of this association, this committee, or another, to whom this matter may be re-referred, may report ordinances accordingly.

"It should be understood by the public that this is not a movement by bicyclists only for their own selfish ends, but it should be, and is joined in by those who travel our streets and roads in or upon all sorts of carriages and vehicles, and good citizens and property-owners generally who take a pride in the good name and good appearance of our city, so favorably situated that it should be, and is bound to become a model city in every respect.

"Many and great improvements have been recently made in our city, not only in its new and magnificent buildings, but in its street railways, water supplies, etc. As the result of some of these improvements our streets and roads are now in the condition before reported. One of the first things noticed by a stranger who visits us for the purpose of making this his home or a place in which to invest capital, is the appearance of our streets and highways, and this association is to be congratulated that it is receiving the support in its good work which is everywhere manifest, and which it certainly deserves."

The report is signed by Major Whitney, L. G. Burpee and George A. Faulkner.

There was much discussion over the report and many suggestions were made in regard to the drafting of new ordinances.

Mayor Davie, who was present at the meeting, was called upon for a few remarks. He said that it was votes that are needed for better streets and not ordinances. An estimate of the cost for putting the streets in good order would be ready for the next meeting. Oakland, he said, has the finest location for boulevards and parks of any city on the face of the earth. He thought the streets should be put in proper repair and then accepted by the city. Streets should be put down that will last for twenty-five years. He is in favor of bonding the city for better roads. The Mayor thought it would be economy to pursue this course and let the future generation pay for the good roads. He explained that it will take a two-thirds vote to bond the city.

"We should not go on indifferently in this matter," said the Mayor. "If it is necessary, let the city buy her own quarry. It will then be a question of labor. What makes Paris, Berlin and Vienna? Fine drives. Don't bring people in here over your backyards. We want to bring the wealthy people to this city. We want to bring people here and give them a place on which they can drive. We cannot expect corporations to furnish streets when the city does not do it. If the city will put in fine streets she will blossom like a rose."

E. C. Sessions made a number of suggestions about good roads and how to secure them. Several others also made suggestions.

The Ordinance Committee was directed to prepare some new laws in regard to the repairing of streets and the meeting then adjourned.

Physicians

prescribe Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites because they find their patients can tolerate it for a long time, as it does not upset the stomach nor derange the digestion like the plain oil.

Scott's Emulsion is as much easier to digest than the plain oil as milk is easier to digest than butter. Besides, the fish-fat taste is taken out of the oil, and it is almost palatable. The way sickly children, emaciated, anæmic and consumptive adults, gain flesh on Scott's Emulsion is very remarkable.

TUESDAY APRIL 30 1895

THE May festival tomorrow for the benefit of Fabiola Hospital, promises to be the most attractive public demonstrations ever held in this city. The gardens, now in full bloom, will contribute floral treasures, so that a great flower festival will be an incident of the occasion. Such a demonstration of rich equipages and such a wealth of decoration as were never seen in Oakland, are the promises for tomorrow. And all this for sweet charity.

THE announcement that the Hibernia Savings and Loan Society will reduce the rate of interest from 7 per cent to 6½ is an indication of the revival of business. It is probable that the rate at that institution, after a short time, will not exceed 6 per cent, which was the rate asked three or four years ago. The stringency in the money market sent up the rates of interest. There is no stringency now. But there are indications of an increasing demand for money at low rates of interest. This concession, and others that are expected, will have much to do in increasing the volume of real estate transactions.

Some Famous Wheat Deals.

One of the great speculative deals in wheat has been going on in Chicago during the last three weeks. According to the telegraphic reports, wheat advanced in that city 9¾ cents a bushel in less than twenty days, the advance being about equal to ½ a cent a day. P. D. Armour is said to be behind the wheat speculation in Chicago. One report figures out that Armour has made not less than $10,000,000 by his wheat transactions during the month of April. As he is still holding his wheat, it is not apparent that he has made any such sum. The calculation is based on the market price in Chicago and the extent of Armour's transactions. These speculative transactions have affected the price of wheat outside of that city. But they do not go to show any permanent advance in the price of wheat that would benefit producers.

Nearly all the great wheat corners that have been made in wheat during the last fifteen years, have resulted in putting the men who made them in a corner. There was the famous Nevada Bank transaction a few years ago, in which Flood and Mackay figured so disastrously. The blame was laid upon the cashier of the bank, who was content to become the target for a consideration that enabled him to go to Europe. Flood and Mackay lost somewhere near $10,000,000. It was the most disastrous wheat deal that had ever been known in this country. According to the reports that were current at the time, James G. Fair was called in to help the Nevada Bank over a crisis, by laying down a million or so of hard money.

It was said at the time that Fair was too shrewd to be caught in any such wheat deal. But, unless all the reports are false, he did invest five or six millions for a wheat corner during the last two years of his life, or put up the money for others. The loss on that transaction is reported to be about half the sum originally invested. These enormous transactions did not result in the failure of the man. Fair was not even put in a corner. He had the money and could afford to play with the wheat market. Now comes the rumor that Smith, the bookkeeper of McGlauflin & Company, who has just disappeared, knew more about Fair's wheat deal than it might be profitable to tell just now. But Fair is dead and the estate never can be settled without going to the bottom of transactions involving the loss of millions.

A few years ago Hutchinson of Chicago was the heaviest grain operator in the country. He was continually making corners in wheat and corn. He was estimated to be worth anywhere from $5,000,000 to $7,000,000. But he has dropped out of sight, apparently without money and without friends. James Keene once made a corner in wheat, and then the market cornered him. Armour's reported transactions have stiffened the price of wheat on this side of the country. If they should result in drawing down the excess in the warehouses it might be a good thing for California. A great many wheat growers have last year's crop in store and have borrowed money to keep it there. All the deep water ships available for grain charters in the harbor of San Francisco, with one exception, are now under charter, and the price of grain charters has recently advanced. Armour's great wheat corner in Chicago is evidently felt on the Pacific coast.

The Poor Millionaires.

Hetty Green, the richest woman in the land is in distress about her taxes. The Assessor has been following her up. According to her own account, she did not live anywhere. She had no home. A room was taken for two or three days in one place, and then there was a flitting to some other place. If Hetty Green lived anywhere it was at Bellows Falls in Vermont. She had lodged in a hotel there. The woman having a fortune of not less than forty millions, had been assessed for $1,540,000 on personal property. The poor woman is homeless in order to avoid the honest payment of taxes.

Not long ago the Gould family of New York, who represent probably not less than seventy millions, protested against being assessed on a considerable amount of personal property in New York. They had chosen a legal residence in a small town somewhere in the country, and they wanted to be taxed there. In short they were hiding from the assessor and tax gatherer. It is these poor millionaires that are always running away from the tax collector. Michael Reese went down from San Francisco to hide in San Mateo county. That county had become at one time the paradise of poor millionaires. The poorest of that fraternity was Reese. He could cheat the city and State out of several thousand dollars of taxes by that device.

Some years ago Mrs. Mark Hopkins, who was then estimated to be worth something like twenty millions, began to hunt for obscure places where she could evade the payment of honest taxes. She had built a modern palace in San Francisco, and was taxed on that property and for the bulk of her securities. The latter she removed to New York. But the Assessor was on her track. She could not stay in that great city and pay taxes with any more comfort than the Goulds and other poor millionaires. And so she went up among the hills of Berkshire and lodged in her native town of Great Barrington, but not until an intimation had been given her that her taxes would be merely nominal.

Are not these homeless millionaires, who are fugitives and wanderers in the earth, entitled to some sympathy? The poor man clings to his home, and generally pays taxes on nearly the full value of everything that he owns. It was the erratic Senator Sprague who said in Congress that there was "nothing so cowardly as a million dollars, except ten million." But when one of these fortunes sums up to forty or fifty millions, then the owner is liable to become homeless. He may have a palace or two in New York and another in some winter [illegible] but then he don't live there. In fact, he don't live anywhere. He can't afford to. He must hide from the Assessor and Tax Collector.

Poor Hetty Green, without any home! And the Goulds, forced to choose some obscure country town! And the millionaires who have no income to speak of when returns are wanted as a basis of the income tax! It is time that the country began to show a little compassion for its homeless millionaires. Hetty Green, for instance, ought to be furnished with a permanent roof over her head. There was once a famous book written about a man without a country. There ought to be another written about millionaires who have no homes, and who are compelled to wander up and down the earth because they are continually persecuted by Assessors and Tax Collectors.

The Nicaragua Canal Figures.

There has been some speculation as to what effect the invasion of Nicaragua by a British force would have on the prospects of the Nicaragua Canal. There may be something in the rumor that the canal company has offered to advance the money to meet the claims of indemnity. Warner Miller, the most active promoter of that enterprise, has been a conspicuous figure of late in efforts to bring about a satisfactory settlement of the difficulty. The Nicaragua Canal treasury has been so low of late that much of the work at one time in progress has been suspended. Perhaps $75,000 could not be more profitably expended just now than in helping Nicaragua out of the present dilemma. Our own countrymen have planned that great ship canal and have begun the work. Several millions have already been expended. Some friendly legislation will yet be needed on the part of Nicaragua. There is a good opportunity to make friends in that direction. Warner Miller is not letting the grass grow under his feet. So far from any disaster to the great canal enterprise on account of British hostility, it now looks as if it might be turned to good account in furthering the interests of the canal company.

Another Art Triumph.

A few months ago young Redmond, a graduate of the Deaf, Dumb and Blind Institution at Berkeley, was sent to Paris to prosecute his art studies. He had already taken the gold medal of the Art Association in San Francisco. Redmond was one of the brightest mutes that ever graduated from the institution at Berkeley. While at the Institution he made such progress in art studies that he was encouraged to take a full course of elementary training at the Art School. After graduating with so much promise, the Directors of the Berkeley institution assisted him to go to Paris, as they had formerly assisted Tilden the sculptor. Redmond has been prosecuting art studies abroad less than two years.

Now comes the word that a painting of his, entitled a "Winter Morning," has been admitted to the Salon in Paris. In the competition several thousand pictures were offered. Only about five hundred were accepted. The admission of a picture to the Salon stamps it at once as a work of great artistic merit. It is a great triumph for the young artist who has already justified all the expectations of his friends. When the young man entered, on examination, one of the art schools of Paris, he was ranked near the head of the list on account of the excellence of his drawing. The elementary training received here was found to be the very best when he and reached this art center of the world. Redmond will remain a year or two more abroad, when he will be fairly on the way to fame and fortune.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

THE contractors have brought on a crisis in San Francisco. Naturally enough, they want money for their supplies. Just as the financial year is closing they decline to take the risk of losing their claims, because they cannot be collected from the revenues of next year. Coal, flour and beef are cash articles. The great city of San Francisco just now does not seem to have credit enough to secure supplies. The great State of California does not make a much better showing for bills of each year. It is beginning to send down warrants for the expenses of public institutions instead of the money.

For several years the revenues of the State have been anticipated about six months ahead. The financial year closes in June. The revenues for next year cannot be drawn upon for the payment of debts incurred this year. Even when there is money in the State Treasury, by an arbitrary ruling at Sacramento it is kept there and the warrants handed over in place of the money. Contractors and all who furnish supplies are made to suffer by this lack of any sound financial policy. The State refuses to pay interest on the warrants, and the discount is so much blood drawn from creditors who have furnished supplies. A [illegible] part of the State [illegible] the only correction [illegible].

Royal Baking Powder makes the bread wholesome. Perfectly leavens without fermentation. Qualities that are peculiar to it alone.

Hylas.

Jar in arm, they bade him rove
Thro the alder's long alcove,
Where the hid spring musically
Gushes to the ample valley.
(There's a bird on the under bough
Fluting evermore and now
"Keep young!" but who knows how?)

Down the woodland corridor,
Odors deepened more and more;
Blossomed dogwood in the briers,
Struck her faint delicious fires,
Miles of April pass'd between
Crevices of closing green,
And the moth, the violet-lover,
By the wellside saw him hover.

Ah, the slippery sylvan dark!
Never after shall he mark
Noisy plowman drinking, drinking,
On his drown-ed cheek down sinking;
Quit of serving is that wild,
Absent and bewitch-ed child,
Unto action, age and danger,
Twice a thousand years a stranger.

Fathoms low the naiads sing
In the birthday welcoming.
Water-white their breasts, and o'er him,
Water-gray, their eyes adore him.
(There's a bird on the under bough
Fluting evermore and now
"Keep young!" but who knows how?)

NOTES AND EXCERPTS.

A prominent Philadelphian who has just returned from a trip to Jamaica brings home the following laughable story: The photographer of the party induced a group of native girls to pose for him. After arranging them to his satisfaction, he prevailed upon one of the other girls to take a peep through the camera. What she saw quite astonished her and she lost no time in imparting to the posers the fact that she had seen them all standing on their heads. The effect was ludicrous. When the photograph was taken, it revealed each maiden frantically clutching her skirts about her knees, while a look of great distress appeared upon each black countenance.

A laundry on wheels is a Chicago enterprise. It is on a van nearly as large as those used by household movers, and contains a stove and an apparatus which holds the water and a washing machine. The husband is the driver and his wife does the work. They drive to a house, wash the articles furnished them and then move on to the next house.

The crossing of Shandar Pass, 12,000 feet high, by British troops is described as "a brilliant exploit," and no doubt it is. It is certainly true, at any rate, that the millennium might come soon if England put half the energy into civilizing work that it does into browbeating weakness whenever it finds it.

A pleasant trait in the character of Lord Randolph Churchill is recorded in the character sketch of him in the Review of Reviews. "The best thing about him," said Mr. Stead, "was his devotion to his mother. Night after night he would go from the House to his mother's side, nor would he sleep till he had told her all the fortunes and misfortunes of the day."

Mrs. Richard Watson Gilder, wife of the editor of the Century Magazine, was once a professional painter, but she has now given up art because she thought she must neglect either it or her family, and she says she hopes none of her three or four daughters will ever have any special talent for anything but being nice women.

A charming story of Robert Louis Stevenson sees the light now for the first time. He was visiting the afternoon [illegible] Consul to Samoa, in Northern Vermont. This gentleman had a little daughter about 11 years old, who very speedily became a devoted friend of the novelist. In [illegible] out her joys and sorrows in existence to her sympathetic listener she confided to Mr. Stevenson the sad fact that she only had two birthdays in her whole life. "How is this?" asked the novelist. "Oh I was born on the 29th of February," she sobbed. The novelist sympathized in words and also in action, and drew up his document: "I, Robert Louis Stevenson, in a sound state of mind and body, having arrived at an age when I no longer have any use for birthdays, do give and bequeath my birthday on the 13th of November to Miss Adelaide [illegible] anniversary will be doubly treasured.

ALL GO!

Fabiola Makes an Appeal.

Tomorrow Is to Be a Gala Day.

A Floral Parade, Horse Meet and Bicycle Races.

The Fabiola May Day fete, which promises to be the event of the year in a social way, will be inaugurated this evening with a great illuminated wheelmen's parade, in which more than a thousand local and visiting cyclers will participate. The parade will be through the principal streets and will form a fitting demonstration in advance of the festivities tomorrow at the Oakland Trotting Park The local clubs are on the qui vive. There is a deal of pride among the cyclers and there will result a struggle for supremacy in the way of artistic designs that will make the turnout a brilliant picture.

Flowers, vari-colored ribbons and lanterns of all sorts of shapes and hues will form the basis of the decorations, which give promise of being gorgeous and beautiful beyond anything ever before attempted.

In the ranks of the gliding riders will be found a full delegation from the Reliance, Acme, Young Men's Christian Association and other local clubs while large contingents will represent Berkeley, Alameda, Haywards and other suburbs. San Francisco and San Jose will be in line, and altogether the scene will be most brilliant.

It is expected that many of the fair sex who delight in the "silent steed" will vie with their male escorts in the beauty of their decorations. That very exclusive organization of lady riders, the Oak City Cyclers, will be one notable features of the big bicycle turnout.

The line of march will be as follows Starting from the Reliance Club building on Seventeenth street and San Pablo avenue, and marching down San Pablo avenue to Broadway, to Eighth, to Washington, to Sixth, to Broadway, to Twelfth, to Jackson, to Lake, to Madison, to Tenth, to Broadway, to Fourteenth, to Franklin, to Twelfth, to Broadway, and disbanding in front of the Acme building on Twelfth street.

The parade will start promptly at 8 o'clock. All clubs and individual riders must be in line by 7.30 o'clock.

George F. Neece, president of the Acme Club Wheelmen, and chairman of the bicycle committee of the fete, will be grand marshal.

And then comes May Day,

TOMORROW'S FESTIVITIES.

There will be thousands to rise on Wednesday morning whose first glance will be directed toward the heavens. A fair day, and all will be well for the first great public festival which Oakland has ever given on such a scale as the Fabiola May Day fete. Everybody will turn their steps toward the trotting park early in the day, for the fete will be on at an early hour in order that the long programme may be concluded by nightfall. All are expectant, and none are more interested than the energetic committee which has devoted so much pains and labor, time and money to the success of the big affair. The comprehensive scope of the fete is best indicated by the committee itself, which includes in its number the leading professional men, attorneys, physicians and bankers of Oakland and many of the city's most prominent merchants. The Executive Committee is composed of the following gentlemen:

R. M Fitzgerald, president; P. E. Bowles, V. G. Hush, S B. McKee, A. A. Moore, C D. Bates Jr., J. W. Finigan Orestes Pierce, Dr. Latham, DeWitt Van Court, P. H. Remillard, Walter Hackett Athearn Folger, Harry Gordon, F. S. Stratton, Harry Meek, W. M. Rank, Charles Neal, W. V. Witcher, Edson Adams, S. P. Alexander, T. L. Barker, S. P. Channell, Frank Pierce, Charles McIvor, J. W Laymance, A. S. Macdonald, E. G. Vinzent, T. G. Harrison.

The sub-committees handling the various departments are as follows:

Finance and executive—R M. Fitzgerald, Frank Pierce, P. E. Bowles.

Bicycle—George F. Neece, A. C. W., Charles E Bates Jr., R. A. C; Henry Gilbert, O. Y. M. C A. C. C.

Advertising—P. H. Remillard, A. W. Baldwin.

Horse—Walter Hackett, W. V. Witcher, Harry Meek, P. W. Pellingall, Monroe Salisbury, Dr. Latham

These committees have been assiduously seconded in their efforts by the ladies of Fabiola Hospital, who embrace the very best families in Oakland. To them has been left much of the labor in arranging for the booths, the decorations and the social features. The list is a long one and suggests at once the wide-spread interest which has been manifested in the affair by Oakland's society set. Among the ladies who have so actively engaged in the arrangements and who will contribute by their presence and labors tomorrow to the enjoyment are Mrs. George McNear, Mrs I L. FEATURES OF THE FETE.

And the fete itself. What will it be? The answer is to be found in the magnificent details that are planned and ready to be executed tomorrow. There will be such a show of magnificent equipages, embellished to the highest extent of the floral decorator's art, that Oakland has ever witnessed It would require columns of space to describe in detail the picture that each of these participants in the great floral parade will exhibit. There are over 200 independent entries, and outside of those who will compete for the trophy there will be many who will add a stunning turnout of some description to the line that will wind about the tracks tomorrow before thousands of delighted spectators. It is no longer a question of how many can be accommodated. The response has been so spontaneous that the committee has fairly been overwhelmed. All they ask today is that those who have entered will carry a big supply of flowers for use in the floral battle that will form a feature of the parade.

Word has come that the Alameda Driving Club will be on hand with seventy-five vehicles and they propose to give their Athenian neighbors a lot to do in winning the trophy. The San Francisco contingent will be largely represented. Some very fine vehicles will come from across the bay. The parade will not lack elements of interest to those few who may not be esthetic enough to appreciate a combination of beautiful women, splendid equipages and brilliant floral decorations. There will be such a display of horseflesh in that parade as will prove a rare treat to everyone, for who does not love a fine horse?

Beside that they are going to give the thousands a special treat in the way of a separate exhibition of blooded stock, such as has never before been witnessed in California. Some of the greatest horses in the world are quartered at the track and they will be on parade tomorrow groomed for a royal reception.

Then there is the racing programme. The contests will be exhilirating to a degree, for they will be gentlemen's events, and some of the best gentlemen riders in Oakland will strive to land the prizes for glory and sweet charity's sake

Special features of the racing will be the trots between Montana, Iago, Shylock and Golden West.

In the free for all race Royal Jib, Fresno, Prince and Lossie have been entered.

In the 2:40 class Carmen and Harry Wilson are listed.

Hon. W. W. Foote will be presiding judge, and E. Hackett and Dr. Latham will be the associate judges.

P. E. Dalton will be timer; Carl H. Abbott, clerk; and Willie Spence, the noted jockey, will be the starter.

THE MORNING FOR THE CHILDREN.

So far as can be foreseen, the morning will be pretty well occupied by the kindergarten and school children in their May Day games and dances. This will form one of the prettiest attractions of the fete and will of itself draw thousands to the park before the great events of the day are under way.

Luncheon will intervene at noon and here will be displayed the careful and skillful devotion that has marked the ladies upon the refreshment committees and the like. Here are the names of this indefatigable corps:

Refreshment and Decoration Committee—Mrs John Yule, Mrs Pedar Sather, Mrs. Remi Chabot, Mrs. R W Gorrill, Mrs. A. A. Barton, Mrs. E B Jerome, Mrs. Q A Chase, Mrs. Wallace Everson, Mrs. W. W. Standeford, Mrs. W. R Davis, Miss May Burnham and the entire board of managers of the hospital. Subcommittees have been appointed as follows.

Refreshments—Mrs. Wallace Everson, Mrs. Robert McChesney, Mrs. Arthur Brown, Mrs. Q A Chase, Mrs E B. Jerome.

The ladies have, by the way, adopted the Fabiola colors, azure and cream white, as the fete colors Thousands of dainty boutonieres, formed of these colors, will be ready for distribution at the grounds.

THE WHEELMEN.

The bicycle races, over which much ado is being made with much reason, will be alternated with the horse races. The wheelmen will be among the strongest attractions on the grounds. Never before in the history of wheeling has such an aggregation of famous cyclers been brought together west of the Rocky Mountains. Here will be seen Bald, Osen, Wells, Terrill, Jones, Foster and others of local and wider note. The races will have an immense interest to all the lovers of the wheel, and there are thousands around the bay who will be on hand to cheer the victor and console the vanquished.

Here has been given an outline of tomorrow's festivities. It is enough to fairly convey the extent of the gala day's fete to every one Such a festival will be a case of "the more, the merrier." It behooves all Oakland to be present and to assist in the entertainment of the thousands who will visit the city tomorrow. Every one is in line for a grand holiday.

FOR THE WHEELMEN'S PARADE.

In connection with the wheelmen's parade tonight, Superintendent A. D. Wilder has ordered a special train for the benefit of the visiting cyclers from San Francisco. It will connect with the 7 o'clock boat from San Francisco, and will come on the Alameda train track to First and Broadway, where it will be met by a committee The return trip will be made at 10 o'clock.

Tickets of admission to the park and also for the grand stand can be obtained at Taft & Pennoyer's in this city and at Doxey's bookstore in the Palace Hotel building, San Francisco.

The music of the day is to be furnished by the United States First Infantry Regiment band from the Presidio, who are coming here by consent of Colonel Shafter. They will arrive on the 9 30 boat, and will remain until the fete is ended.

DELINQUENT NOW,

Customary Last Rush of City Taxpayers.

Apportionments Will Be Prepared for the Various Funds

Yesterday was the last day upon which payment could be made on the second installment of city taxes before they became delinquent Up to 6 o'clock last evening the office of Treasurer Gilpin was besieged with a large crowd of citizens who were a trifle late, but better off by 5 per cent that would have been added to their bills today

A few belated taxpayers drifted into the treasurer's office today and were mulcted 5 per cent for their tardiness.

Deputy Poll Tax Collector Foster was still on deck and no city employe escaped without digging up $2 to the rapacious old gentleman, who kept one eye on his gurnishee and another on the salary warrants as they were presented by the tax out employes.

Yesterday's tax collections were not as heavy as Treasurer Gilpin had hoped They amounted to $20,187 The total receipts upon the second installment will be footed tomorrow The clerks are now busy making the totals and clearing up the work preparatory to making an apportionment of money to the various funds, when another payment upon registered warrants will be made This will probably be done during the early part of next week. The usual monthly work of handling along and preparing balances is occupying most of the attention of the clerks just now

Treasurer Gilpin had an extra force at work during the week They will now be dispensed with

MUCH TO ENJOY.

Frontier Life Portrayed at the Macdonough.

Good Events Are Billed at the Theaters.

The Oratorio "Elijah" to Be Given This Evening.

The Girl I Left Behind Me was greeted with a large house last evening at the Macdonough, and the many stirring incidents of the drama kept the interest keyed to a high pitch. The company is, in the main, excellent. There is little of the overdrawn, anywhere, during the action of the play, and there is opportunity enough for exaggerated climaxes without going beyond the line of naturalness.

The play, on the whole, is all that its admiring critics have said of it. It is an American drama, with a portrayal of life in a Western military frontier post, that appeals to patriotism without exciting ridicule at cheap sentiment and bombastic utterances. The Indian encounters, the last stand of the beleaguered garrison, the thrilling scene between General Kennion and his daughter, the rescue by the Twelfth cavalry, are all parts of one of the most exciting acts that was ever presented to an audience. So carefully is the business and the action handled that it proceeds awakening a thrilling and intense excitement which nearly reaches the breaking point when the happy rescuer comes.

There are some very clever comedy features, and altogether it carries a very meritorious company. There will be only two more performances.

Coming Attractions.

Peter Dailey in A Country Sport, with a clever company of comedians, will be here next Monday and Tuesday evenings.

On Friday evening, May 10th, Herr Fritz Scheel will give a grand operatic concert, in connection with his orchestra of soloists.

The California.

The opening performance of The American Girl, H. Grattan Donnelly's clever play, was given last night at the California to a big house. In the cast are George Osbourne and a strong support, including two wonderful child actors.

The Tivoli.

Offenbach's masterpiece, The Brigands, is the attraction this week at the Tivoli. The opera is one of the great composer's gems and is sung and staged in an excellent manner.

The Orpheum.

The Orpheum is giving its patrons a new bill this week which overflows with novel attractions. There is always something bright and fresh at the Orpheum. Its programmes never weary nor grow stale.

Morosco's

Tom Craven's great English melodrama, with its exciting shipwreck scene, is the attraction at Morosco's this week. It was produced for the first time in the United States. It will prove popular during the week.

"Romeo and Juliet."

Romeo and Juliet, as presented by the charity amateurs at the Macdonough, will be repeated at the Baldwin next Friday night. The travesty scored such an unqualified success that a repetition for the benefit of the Children's Hospital of San Francisco has been granted.

"Elijah."

Mendelssohn's, the grand oratoria, Elijah will be rendered for the first time on this coast at the First Congregational Church this evening in a most impressive manner. The production will be given by the Oakland Oratorio Society, which numbers 250 members. There will be 184 voices in the cast this evening, with an orchestra of thirty-seven pieces. The soloists will be Miss Beatrice Priest, first soprano; Mrs. Eva Wren, second soprano; Mrs. Olive Reed-Batchelder, first contralto; Miss Grace Carroll, second contralto; Alfred Wilkie, first tenor; Henry Fairweather, second tenor; John R. Horton and Harry H. Lawrence, first basses, C. Harding Tebbs, second bass.

There are a few seats yet to be had at Conservatory Hall. More than 800 were sold up to this morning. The officers of the society are:

President, Rev. Charles W. Wendte; vice president, Mrs. Andrew Fine; secretary, Cora W. Jenkins; assistant secretary, Harry Loy; treasurer, A. Mabel Hussey; historian, E. Von Adelung; librarian, H. H. Winslow; conductor, James Hamilton Howe; concert master, Alex T. Stewart; pianist, Blanche Partington; organist, William B. King.

Executive Committee—John L. Howard, Vernon Van Buskirk, A. M. Benham, C. L. Crabtree, John R. Horton.

Guarantors ($100 each)—Q. A. Chase, Hon. George C. Perkins, Mrs. Emma S. Howard, J. L. Howard, Mrs. Isaac L. Requa, James Hamilton Howe, F. M. Smith, W. G. Palmanteer, C. W. Wendte.

The Chorus Committee is composed of the following members: A. M. Benham, chairman, Mrs. Andrew Fine, H. K. Snow, Miss Grace Carroll, J. R. Horton.

The audience this evening will be very fashionable.

THE THALIA LICENSED.

The Testimony Against It Not Deemed Sufficient.

At the session of the Supervisors yesterday afternoon the principal feature was the contest over the granting of a license to sell liquors to James F. Barracks, who runs the Thalia saloon on San Leandro road, near the Fitchburg school.

A protest against the granting of the license had been filed with the Supervisors signed by John G. Skellov, Walter Renwick, N. Johnson, J. M. Moore, E. M. Wood and C. M. Moore. It set forth that the Thalia is not a respectable resort; that Barracks is not a proper person to be given permission to sell liquor, and, finally, that the place is located near the public school and that it endangered the morals of the children, who are obliged to pass it in going to and returning from class.

The protestants were represented at the meeting of the Supervisors yesterday, both in person and by Attorney Meyers. Barracks was represented and had a backing of neighbors and was also represented by his attorney, Thomas F. Garrity.

The Supervisors decided to hear the protest. The protestants placed a number of witnesses on the stand, some of whom testified that the place does not enjoy an irreproachable reputation.

Mr. Garrity also placed people on the stand who testified that the Thalia is a well-conducted and orderly place.

Supervisor Talcott moved that the license be not granted to Barracks. The motion was seconded by Supervisor Johnston. A vote was taken and the result was that a license was granted to Barracks, Supervisors Bailey, Church and Pelouze voting in the affirmative and Supervisors Johnston and Talcott in the negative.

The board then adjourned.

Three Negroes Combat With a Policeman.

One of Them Shot Dead and the Officer Barely Hurt.

CHICAGO, April 30.—In attempting to arrest three colored men at Spring and State streets, late last night, Officer Golden shot and killed one of them instantly, but not until he himself had been twice wounded and Officer McDermott had narrowly escaped a mortal wound in the abdomen.

The wounds were the result of a fusillade of bullets between the colored men, each of whom was armed, and the officers, which aroused the neighborhood and created great excitement for a time.

The two colored men who seemed to be unharmed escaped.

The two officers had been told to look out for three colored men who were suspected of having committed several petty burglaries in that vicinity recently.

When the policemen met these three colored men and attempted to arrest them one drew a revolver and placing the muzzle against McDermott's abdomen fired.

The bullet only tore a hole through the officer's clothing, setting it on fire and slightly grazing the flesh.

At this McDermott drew his own revolver. Two of the men then ran across the street and drawing their revolvers began firing at the officers who returned the fire.

Officer Golden followed the third on a run, firing several shots at him which were returned.

Officer Golden's aim was good and the man fell to the pavement with a bullet through his head. He died instantly.

Officer Golden had received two wounds.

Other policemen, attracted by the shooting, came and searched for the other negroes, but could not find them.

Officer Golden was assisted to a drugstore, when an examination showed that one bullet had passed clear through the right thigh and that another had embedded itself in the calf of the left leg.

The wounds were bandaged and the officer taken to the hospital.

It is not thought that his injuries will prove fatal unless blood poison sets in.

Officer McDermott's coat was perforated four times by bullets, and it is scarcely credible that he escaped without injury. The name of the negro killed is not known.

"JUSTICE TO ALL."

A Correspondent Sticks Up for the Peddlers.

Editor Tribune—SIR: By allowing me a short space in your valuable paper to answer an article headed "No Peddling" in your issue of the 26th inst, I believe that I can express the idea of the majority of the residents of this city.

I cannot do otherwise than to consider this a high piece of injustice to the poor producers on our outskirts, who in these hard times find it very difficult to make an existence for themselves and families from the products of a few acres of land in our county.

Now comes a complaint which I can locate (principally) on Eleventh street, between Broadway and Washington streets, merchants who pay no license to conduct their business, asking that a $50 fee quarterly be exacted from the peddlers with whom it is almost impossible to pay the present $15 quarterly license, but do not complain at it.

It seems to me that this is a decidedly greedy, oppressive and one-sided petition on the part of these wealthy merchants to crowd the poor peddler out of existence, who mostly have families to support, by forcing them outside of the center of the city to the boundary of the fire limits. It is difficult enough for them to make a very poor living when allowed to sell their goods in the center of the city. I cannot see how an intelligent Mayor, Council and members of the Merchants' Exchange can find an excuse for wishing such an ordinance exacted, which cannot but force greater hardship on the poor peddlers.

I am not a peddler, but am in favor of equal rights of gaining a living and justice to all. Yours most respectfully,

JOHN T. JORDAN,
No. 902 Washington street.

PUT IN PLAIN ENGLISH.

An Authority on the Weather Contributes to the General Fund of Knowledge.

The most famous American authority on the weather recently said: "The fatality (after the grip) is most marked when the humidity is at its maximum and there is a sudden fall of temperature." That means in plain English that consequences of grip are most deadly when dampness is followed by sudden cold. How often such a condition of weather has prevailed this winter is known by the official statistics of grip.

Prudent people know how to strengthen themselves after the grip. They will observe the usual precaution necessary in our fickle winter, and they will promptly correct any bodily ailment, no matter how small it is. A trifling chill, a cough and fugitive aches in the back and shoulders linger long, sometimes, after an attack of grip.

They will not be followed by permanent weakness if the body is armed and all its latent energies are roused by that best of all stimulants, Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. Skin, lungs, stomach and bowels are quick to feel the good effects of this whiskey. Those who have been stricken by the grip remember how this stimulant has turned them on the road to health.

It is the crowning merit of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey that it puts the body in a state of defense. Giddiness and headache in the morning and tendency to take cold easily are overcome by this remedy. Strength and buoyancy supplant weakness and depression, so that the dreaded grip leaves no trace behind.

The old saw "forewarned forearmed" would never have lived so long if it were not a gem of wisdom. It applies with great force to the speedy recovery of grip by means of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey.

HITTING AT DR. CHAPMAN.

Spirited Session of Presbyterian Ministers.

There was a lively discussion at the meeting of the Presbyterian Ministerial Union in San Francisco yesterday, which was brought about as a result of the Herron episode. It was decided that hereafter the Programme Committee will not have power to invite visiting celebrities to attend the meetings. The programme must now be made out three months in advance.

Dr. Herron was spoken about by some of the ministers, and finally the union began to discuss Rev. Dr E. S. Chapman of this city, who has been doing evangelical work for some time.

In the course of the discussion Rev. Mr Hunter said "Personally, I do not like Dr. Chapman. I consider him narrow and bigoted. He has nothing but sneers for Yale College. I think the church should strike out and be liberal. Herron and Varley have done a good deal in this line."

In spite of Mr. Hunter's objections it was decided that Dr. Chapman should hold a series of evangelistic meetings in San Francisco in the early fall, and that they should be held under the auspices of his Presbyterian brethren.

Dr. Chapman was formerly pastor of the Brooklyn Presbyterian Church in East Oakland and has lately been evangelizing Los Angeles. During the absence in Europe of Dr. Kummer, pastor of the First Methodist Church of this city, Dr. Chapman will occupy his pulpit.

COTTOLENE.

All that's Yellow is not Cottolene

Was bound to win, and to drive out lard from the kitchens of the world. When housekeepers wish to get rid of the unpleasant features and results of lard, they should get Cottolene, taking care that they are not given cheap counterfeits with imitative names, spuriously compounded to sell in the place of Cottolene.

CHUCK HOLES.

An Easterner Talks About Our Bad Streets.

They Are a Great Detriment to the City.

His Experiences While Taking a Ride Around Town.

Editor Tribune—SIR: My experience has been, since my limited sojourn here, that your people are peculiarly anxious to get the views of a visitor as to the attractions and prospects of your State. That is my excuse for rushing into print. I have been in your city but a short time, but have been charmed by its natural advantages. As a place of residence it is not surpassed by any locality that I have visited in this country or in Europe. Its homes are pleasant and attractive, its people hospitable, and nature has lavished upon it a soil and climate that render all things possible to those who enjoy the beauty and sweetness of existence. I feel confident that those now living here will vouchsafe the foothills from Berkeley to Haywards dotted with suburban residences, and traversed by drives that will be a constant delight to the resident and the visitor.

Having thus expressed my appreciation of your advantages, and, I trust, established the fact of my sympathy and interest in your progress, I hope I may be excused for indulging a little in the traveler's prerogative of fault-finding. A friend of mine who resides here recently took me for a drive to Haywards The drive was delightful after I once reached the country road While crossing the depression that leads to the southern shore of the lake I was in constant fear least the buggy should be smashed and we be spilled to the ground. After ascending the hill upon the east side, the street for fully a mile was not in a fit condition to drive over, and the buggy was in imminent danger of destruction. I have found others of your streets in somewhat similar condition, though they are not so bad.

It is surprising to me at the present day, when every other part of the country is paying so much attention to the construction and maintenance of streets and roads, that I should find this condition of affairs in a city so attractive otherwise. Throughout the southern part of this State I found the streets, and even the country roads, in admirable condition. Throughout the Eastern States the people of the smallest country town would not tolerate the disgrace of such streets. The Eastern visitor, who, like myself, is traveling for pleasure, cannot but receive an impression, perhaps unconsciously, that Southern California is more progressive and a more attractive place to live in when he sees such contrasts. Upon his return home his reports to his friends are necessarily colored by this impression. The Easterner who comes to this State with the idea of buying a home and settling here receives this impression much more strongly and decides to cast his lot in Southern California.

When I expressed these reflections to my friend, he said that there were certain unprogressive fossils who owned the land fronting upon the streets, and under the law these were able to prevent any improvements. If this is the case, it would be a paying investment for the city to buy their land from them, paying any price they may demand, upon the sole condition that they will forthwith emigrate to some more congenial locality. I would suggest that they might find congenial surroundings among the crackers of Georgia or the moonshiners of the Tennessee mountains. AN EASTERNER

SPECIAL WORK.

Important Matters Come Before the Council.

A Complication Regarding the Grant Case.

Complaints of the Condition of Street Car Tracks.

There was a called meeting of the Council last night, at which all the members were present. The chair was occupied by President Mannel.

RESOLUTIONS.

The following resolutions were disposed of:

Extending the time sixty-four days for the improvement of Twenty-fourth street, between Eleventh and Twelfth avenues, under contract with the Piedmont Paving Company. Adopted.

Extending time, by seventy-five days, for the grading, curbing and macadamizing of Walsworth and Oakland avenues, under contract with the Oakland Rock Company. Adopted.

Extending by fourteen days the time for the sewering of Fourteenth avenue and East Eighteenth street, under contract to Cotton Brothers' Company. Adopted.

THE GRANT CASE.

A communication was received from the City Attorney to the effect that the case of George E. Grant vs. the City of Oakland had been set to be heard in the Superior Court on the 30th inst. The case, he said, involves the title to a parcel of land 100x300 feet near the corner of Sixteenth street and Third avenue, which is claimed by Grant. The communication set forth that the burden of proof devolves upon the city to show that the property in question had been dedicated for public use. There is an abstract of the title to the property on file, but it does not show that the place had been dedicated to public use. Mr. Peirsol said he had hunted around for evidence to show dedication, but had been unable to find any.

Councilman Bassett suggested that more time be given in which to secure the necessary evidence.

Councilman Towle suggested ex-City Attorney Johnson tell what he knows about the matter.

Mr. Johnson said the case had been before the City Attorney's office for about ten years. No record of dedication could be found. Years ago he brought suit to recover the property, but Mr. Chabot, who was then alive, had sworn that he was a tenant of Mr. Grant's, and the court then held that the duty of showing dedication devolved upon the city. Mr. Grant had no title to the property in question save a quitclaim deed he had received from a man named Sullivan, who, in early days, was in the habit of issuing quitclaim deeds to anybody who wanted one and to any piece of property which he might want one on. Mr. Johnson stated further that one of the boundaries of Mr. Grant's own property was mentioned in the deed as the "plaza," which is part of the property under consideration. Mr. Johnson said he had a moral belief that, in early days, the parcel in question had been deeded to the city, but he could find neither written nor oral testimony on the subject. Many of the people whom he had spoken to about the matter thought the property had been dedicated to the city, but were unwilling to swear to it.

On motion of Councilman Marshall, the chair appointed Messrs. Marshall and Bassett as a committee to work with the Board of Public Works in securing evidence touching the city's claim to the property in question.

The City Attorney said he had consulted with counsel for Mr. Grant in the premises and that it was agreed that the case would be continued till May 7th.

SECOND AVENUE SEWER.

Councilman Dow then asked what had been done with respect to the sewer on Second avenue.

Councilman Towle said that the legality of the contract for the work with Cotton Brothers' Company, is now before the courts and that as soon as a decision is reached in the matter the contractors would know what to do in the premises.

STREET CAR TRACKS.

Councilman Dow referred to the fact that complaints are frequently made as regards the manner in which the local street railway companies fail to keep their tracks and the roadway near them in good repair. He said that the Council had adopted resolution after resolution instructing the old Board of Public Works to see that the companies in question complied with the ordinance in the manner specified, but the board had actually accomplished nothing. He felt that the present Board of Public Works would do their duty in the premises, as it was desired of them that they should act because the people especially, in his section of the city, are greatly annoyed over the horrible condition of the tracks and streets along which they are run. He then asked the City Attorney to tell what the Board of Public Works is doing in the premises.

City Attorney Peirsol said the Board of Public Works had had conferences with the Haywards line and horse car people on Twelfth street and had been assured that those companies are willing to make the proposed improvement, but that especially on Twelfth street, near the estuary, they could not perform the work without great loss until the city should repair the thoroughfare to the curbs from a point two feet on either side of the outer rail. Without such repairing the improvement that might be made by the railroad companies would not stand.

Councilman Dow said that the railroad companies have no excuse. They must keep the roadway in good condition. If this could not be done by two feet on either side of the track, then the companies should lay down four or six feet of pavement if necessary. He admonished the Board of Public Works that the Council, by means of the passage of a resolution or ordinance would give that board any assistance they might require in carrying out the wishes of the Council in the respect mentioned.

The discussion was informal and no action was taken because the meeting had been called for a special purpose.

Councilman Capell then called the attention of a filled and offensive cesspool at the corner of Fourth avenue and East Eighteenth street, but no action could be taken for the reason above specified.

LIQUOR LICENSES.

Liquor licenses were granted as follows: D. Donovan, 420 Seventh street; Charles Sulfer and Robert Matter, southeast corner of Ninth and Franklin streets; E. R. Rowland, 553 Broadway; Warnecke & Meichels, 603 Broadway; August Grimm, 850 Franklin; J. J. Carroll, 479 Tenth street; C. C. Potter, 1851 San Pablo avenue; Franz & Wemmer, 412 Eighth street; O. F. Rooney, Oakland mole; C. M. Peterson 1160 Seventh street; Isadore Manuel, 212, San Pablo avenue.

On motion of Councilman Heitmann the Council then adjourned.

HUNT WENT TO JAIL.

The Orator Militant Succumbs to the Police.

Captain F. W. Hunt fell into the clutches of the police last evening and was obliged to appear before Judge Wood in the Police Court this morning to answer to a charge of obstructing the streets. The doughty warrior forgot to secure a permit from Mayor Davie yesterday before giving an oration last night at the corner of Tenth street and Broadway. The captain held forth there about 8 o'clock and had a large crowd gathered about him when Officers Scanlan and Andrews reached that portion of their beat. Hunt was requested to exhibit his permit, but being without one was sent to the City Hall where he left three watches in the keeping of Officer Swain before he went into the jail.

Captain Hunt is very wroth over the arrest, but he will not take any legal steps until the Salvation Army members have fought their case to a termination. There is no doubt, however, in the mind of the orator that his right of free speech was rudely trampled upon by the minions of the law, who escorted him to jail. The captain was not ready to proceed and as no complaint was on file, the case went over until tomorrow.

SUNDAY CLOSING.

Clerks to Confer With the Merchants' Exchange.

The Clerks' Association met last night and appointed a committee, comprising E. Bernstein, Ward Pelton and M. W. Isaacs, to confer with the Merchants' Exchange as to the best means of inducing all the merchants of the city to close their stores on Sunday.

This committee will also reply to aspersions which have been cast upon members of the Clerks' Association, through the press, by certain of the merchants who keep their stores open on Sunday.

The Merchants' Exchange will be glad to take hold of the matter, because, certain well informed members say, the greater part of the membership now close their stores on Sunday, and are in favor of observing that day as a day of rest and relaxation.

The exchange members feel that the desired closing can be accomplished with a little persuasion.

COURT CALENDAR.

WEDNESDAY, May 1st.

Department 1, Judge Greene—H. K. Fry vs. J. J. Avilla et al.

Department 2, Judge Frick—No case set.

Department 3, Judge Ellsworth—No case set.

Department 4, Judge Ogden—No case set.

The Humane Society.

The annual meeting of the Alameda County Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children is set by the constitution to take place tomorrow. Owing, however, to the May fiesta the meeting will have to be deferred till later, when an attempt will be made to make the gathering in some respects remarkable. After the routine business shall have been transacted, there will be set speeches by well known citizens and then a reception will be held.

Athletic Turners.

There will be a grand athletic event at the gymnasium of the Oakland Turnverein tonight. There will be present all the members of the local turnverein and their friends, together with the San Francisco, Vorwaerts Mission and Alameda turnvereins. Athletic games and exercises will be indulged in, after which there will be a Kommers in which speeches, recitations, soloes and refreshments will entertain both the home and visiting athletes.

Jordan to Lecture.

President Jordan of Stanford University will give a series of three lectures for the Starr King Fraternity on subjects allied to those on which Mr. Herron preaches, but from a rather different point of view, beginning Thursday of this week and continuing on the two succeeding Thursday evenings. The lectures will be given in the Unitarian Church, and the subject of the first one will be "The Disappearance of Great Men From Public Life."

He Stole Shoes.

Charles Emerson, a thoughtful-looking old man, was found guilty of stealing two pairs of shoes from the front of Broadway stores by Judge Wood in the Police Court this morning. Emerson will appear for sentence tomorrow and the glad tidings of the May Day fiesta will have no joy for him.

Labor Lectures.

Lawrence Gronlund lectured at the Manse at Eighth and Wood streets last night on "The Inevitable Coming of Socialism." He will speak at the same place tonight, his subject being the "Evolution of the Labor Movement."

PRACTICAL.

Mayor Davie Trying to Make Both Ends Meet.

How He Will Try to Avoid a Deficit.

Estimates Asked From the Heads of the Departments.

Mayor Davie is seeking to solve the financial problem that is worrying some of the city officials. From the figures recently furnished by Auditor Snow it was made fully apparent that the utmost economy must be maintained in every department of the city government to save the city from a financial deficit at the close of the present fiscal year.

The report of City Expert York also furnished evidence that the city was in a fair way to fall into financial difficulties unless steps were at once taken to diminish expenditures all along the line.

The Mayor has been looking over the situation, and in order to enlighten himself he has had the head of each department furnish an estimate of what will be the actual requirements of his departments for the two remaining months of the fiscal year. These statements are now being called and tabulated by Secretary MacMullan, and they will form a basis of operation for the working out of the Mayor's plan to keep the city in proper shape until the year is ended. The Mayor has given the subject a great deal of attention. He does not believe a deficit will occur if proper attention is given the expenditures at once.

With the estimates of the officials before him Mayor Davie proposes to give them his closest attention and will carefully compare and keep run of all requisitions that are drawn for supplies, etc. The estimates are based in all instances upon the actual requirements of each department for maintenance. Only salaries, horse feed and such absolutely necessary supplies are included. The expenditures will be kept closely in bounds, so far as the Police, Fire, Street and Health Departments are concerned. These come directly under the immediate supervision of the Mayor, acting in that capacity or as a commissioner of the Board of Public Works or of the Police and Fire Commission.

The Mayor firmly believes that the deficit now staring the city in the face can be overcome if careful attention to detail is given. He will personally supervise all expenditures and will endeavor in conjunction with the heads of departments to prevent any shortage. The Fire and Police Departments have been instructed to secure nothing but such articles as are absolutely needed to maintain their respective departments. The same rule will also apply to the Street and Health Departments.

The Mayor has mapped out his plan of campaign for the next two months in this connection and he is confident that there will be little or no increase in the $15,000 hole now existing in the General fund.

BIELE BEATS THE CASE.

Judge Wood, However, Thinks He Should Be Punished.

Robert Biele was examined in the Police Court this morning on charge of assault with a deadly weapon. Biele had an altercation with a conductor on an Alameda electric car over the payment of fare. Robert flourished a pistol during the row and landed in the city prison. The testimony was insufficient to hold him to answer on the charge, but Judge Wood suggested that a modified charge of exhibiting a weapon in a rude manner might be sustained. He believed Biele should be punished for his conduct.

RIGHTS OF THE BALLOT.

An Important Election Decision in Kansas.

KANSAS CITY, April 30.—At the November elections in Kansas City gross frauds are said to have been committed.

The matter was brought before the Grand Jury, which called on the Recorder of Voters to produce the ballot boxes for their inspection.

The Recorder demurred, and the case was finally taken to the Supreme Court for adjudication.

The court today denied the right of a criminal court to compel the Recorder to produce the ballot boxes.

Giving the Grand Jury a right to inspect ballot boxes, the court holds, would violate the secrecy of the ballot as well as be an infringement of the Constitution.

Ample Security Is Offered for the Payment.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, April 30.—The Nicaraguan Government has formally decided to accede to the compromise proposition for a settlement of the pending trouble.

This decision has been communicated to the authorities at Washington and London.

Nicaragua agrees to pay £15,500 in London fifteen days from the time the British ships leave the harbor of Corinto.

It now remains for Great Britain to to agree to this condition.

Nicaragua's course is regarded as shifting on Great Britain further responsibility for the trouble.

Most positive assurances of the payment of the money have been given.

THE FIGHT FOR SILVER.

Missouri Democrats Are on a Square Stand.

MARSHALL, Mo., April 30.—The Democratic Central Committee of Saline county has passed resolutions in favor of free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold at the ratio of 16 to 1 by the United States, calling a convention of Democrats May 27th to express the sentiment of the party, and favoring a State convention for the purpose of making public a declaration as to the party policy for the campaign of 1896, and to repudiate the gold bug bonded debt policy of the Cleveland administration.

A REPRESENTATIVE CAUCUS.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., April 30.—Thirty-five of the fifty-eight Democratic members of the State House of Representatives met in caucus late last night and adopted a resolution favoring the free coinage of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1. The vote stood: Ayes, 22; nays, 9; not voting, 4.

The caucus precipitated a discussion, which will probably result in holding a State convention.

The Tammany Brave Weds Senator Murphy's Daughter.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—The wedding of Hugh J. Grant, ex-Mayor of New York, and Miss Julia M. Murphy, daughter of Senator Murphy of New York, took place at the residence of the bride's parents today.

Cardinal Gibbons had granted a special dispensation allowing the ceremony to take place at home, as the bride desired to avoid the publicity incident to a church wedding.

For the same reason the calling of the the bans was omitted.

Archbishop Corrigan performed the ceremony.

PALE AND THIN.

Confinement Is Telling Perceptibly on Durrant.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 30.—The preliminary examination of Theodore Durrant for the murder of Minnie Williams was resumed this morning.

The prisoner looked pale and thin, the confinement telling on him.

Dr. J. S. Barrett, who performed the autopsy, testified that the girl died of asphyxiation, caused by forcing rags down her throat and hemorrhage, caused by severed arteries at her wrists. The other wounds had been inflicted after death.

T. H. Hills testified that on Good Friday night he saw a man resembling Durrant meet a girl resembling the description of Minnie Williams go arm in arm down the street into the church, where they remained.

KILLED BOTH.

Bloody Sequel to a Story of Infidelity.

A Kentuckian's Way of Avenging His Honor.

Prominent Families of Louisville in the Affray.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 30.—In a shooting affray today Arch Brown was shot and killed by Fulton Gordon.

Gordon was shot by Brown and Mrs. Gordon was shot and killed by her husband.

Brown and Gordon's wife were in a house at 1025 Madison street.

Gordon caught them together.

He at once attacked Brown and shot him fatally.

Brown returned the fire, but did not injure Gordon.

Gordon then turned the weapon on his wife and sent a bullet through her stomach, killing her instantly.

Arch Dickson Brown is the son and private secretary to Governor Brown of Kentucky.

The Gordons are highly connected also.

Gordon is under arrest.

Nine shots were fired.

The guilty couple were taken completely by surprise.

Brown had prepared, however, for such a visit and his pistol was lying near.

Before he could reach it the enraged man had commenced firing.

His aim was true and every shot must have taken effect, as Brown's body was riddled.

Brown fired a few shots, staggered to a chair in a corner, sank in it a moment and then fell over dead.

Gordon then turned to his wife and fired at her, striking her in the body.

Though mortally wounded, she was able to get down a step run twenty feet to a cellar.

Nine shots were fired.

Gordon was covered with blood and was thought to have been shot. He is, however, in convulsions.

Mrs. Gordon was Miss Nellie Bush of this city and comes from one of the most prominent families in this city.

She eloped with Gordon about ten years ago and moved to Frankfort.

She was about 30 years old and leaves three children.

On account of the high family connections the murder has caused a great sensation.

Young Brown was recently divorced.

It is understood the reason for the divorce was Brown's intimacy with Mrs. Gordon.

A CLOSE FIGHT.

The Civic Case to Be Decided on Demurrer.

Saturday Witnesses the Fight of the Board of Public Works.

The attorneys who are interested in the contest of Hughes and Miller to recover their seats as members of the Board of Public Works are preparing for a big legal battle next Saturday, when the demurrer to the complaint will be heard before the four Superior Judges sitting in banc. This will really be the trial of the case.

George W. Reed, who is one of the attorneys for the defendants, in speaking about the case to a TRIBUNE reporter, today, explained the situation. "The demurrer that will argued Saturday will go to the merits of the case," he said; "We had the complaint put in so that it would raise all the questions involved and they can now be passed on at one hearing. There is no denial to the facts that have been alleged. The facts as set forth in the complaint are agreed to by all parties. It is simply a question of law that is involved. The demurrer that has been entered is a general one, and it is sufficient to bring the case to an issue. You can see, therefore, that there will be no trial. It will simply be a case for argument before the judges. If this demurrer is sustained by the court, why that ends the case so far as the Superior Court is concerned. The plaintiff, however, will have the right to take an appeal to the Supreme Court. If on the other hand the demurrer is overruled, that will settle the case for the defendants in the Superior Court, and in that event we would take an appeal to the Supreme Court. The questions of law involved in the case are very interesting, and they will be fully discussed at the hearing on Saturday. We recognize that the case is of much importance to the city and we are going to try and do our best to win it."

A Sweeping Fire.

A SWELL EVENT.

The "American Duchess" Weds Lord Beresford.

All the Fashionables Present at the Ceremony.

A Brilliant Scene at S. George's Church in London.

LONDON, April 30.—At the fashionable St. George's Church, Hanover Square, at 1 o'clock this afternoon, the widowed Duchess of Marlborough, formerly Mrs. Louis Hammersley of New York, was married to Lord William Beresford, formerly colonel of the Ninth Lancers, who gained the most coveted of all military decorations in Great Britain, the Victoria Cross, by riding back into the thick of the fight at Ulundi to rescue a lancer, whom he placed across his saddle and then cut his way out to safety.

In spite of the statements that the wedding was to be a quiet ceremony, it was the smartest event seen in London for a long time.

The church was crowded with royalty, members of the diplomatic corps, representatives of the various colonies, Governors of different colonial positions, officers of the army and navy and members of the elite of American and English society of London and elsewhere.

In every row from the front, where United States Ambassador and Mrs. Bayard and the Duke of Cambridge occupied the most prominent places, to the back row of pews and to the galleries there was a brilliant mass of color formed by the rich satins and silks of the ladies' costumes.

Shortly before 1 o'clock the bridegroom, attended by his brother, Lord Marcus Beresford, both in faultless fitting frock coats, entered the church, almost unnoticed.

Then followed crowds of members of the aristocracy, until at 1 P. M. promptly the bride's carriage arrived and there was a vigorous pressing forward upon the part of the crowd, and a strong effort upon the part of the police to keep back the crush.

This the policemen succeeded in doing, and the "American Duchess," as the beautiful dowager duchess of Marlborough is known, looking exceedingly handsome in a bridal costume, entered the church leaning on the arm of her stepson, the Duke of Marlborough.

Upon reaching the door they were met by the clergy and the choir, who preceded the procession to the altar.

THE BRIDE'S COSTUME.

The bride was dressed in a dove gray coat and skirt of brocaded satin, with white lace waist coat and cuffs with diamond buttons, white bonnet with gray chiffons and a magnificent white veil.

She carried a large silver prayer book, and when she took her place by his side it was noticeable that she was much taller than Lord William Beresford, who, by the way, looks older than he really is.

The principals took up their positions, with Lord Marcus Beresford, the best man, on the right, the bride and bridegroom in the center and the Duke of Marlborough on the left.

Rev. James Edgar Shepard, honorary chaplain to the Queen, officiated, assisted by Rev. David Anderson, rector of St. George's Church.

The service was fully choral and occupied half an hour.

At its conclusion the party went to the vestry, where the bridal couple were congratulated by their friends.

A GOOD CHOICE.

Lincoln S. Church Selected as Assignee.

The Affairs of the Life and Annuity Association Come Up.

All efforts to wind up the business of the Life and Annuity Association have failed up to date. Charles E. Lloyd was appointed assignee of the insolvent corporation months ago and he made a hot fight to get hold of the $5000 in securities held by the State Treasurer for the association, but he failed. He has been trying to quit his job as assignee for months, but it was not until this morning that he succeeded in having his resignation accepted by the court and granted his discharge. For months of hard work and abuse Mr. Lloyd drew down $50 and he considered himself very lucky to get that much. He says that he is glad to get rid of the tangle and he will take good care never to get into such a snap again.

Judge Greene appointed Deputy District Attorney Lincoln S. Church as assignee to succeed Lloyd. Mr. Church appeared in court and said that he would accept the trust. His bond was fixed at the sum of $5000. Just as soon as the new assignee arranges for his bond, he will assume the duties of his office and make an effort to wind up the business of the defunct concern. His first move will be to try and secure the securities from the State Treasurer that are now so badly tied up. If he can get them he will have them converted into cash at once and divide the money among the many creditors of the association. Until these securities are disposed of the affairs of the Life and Annuity Association cannot be closed up. Mr. Church is looked upon as a good legal fighter, and just such a man is needed for the place. He will have a score of attorneys to fight against, who are trying to get the bulk of the $5000 for their clients.

"I will stay by the works until the last gun is fired, even if I never get a cent for my trouble," remarked Mr. Church today after he had taken the oath of assignee.

OSCAR ON LOVE.

The Ex-Apostle Is Now Posing as a Martyr.

He Flatly Denies the Charges Against Him.

Applause Rings Out in Court at One of His Answers.

LONDON, April 30.—Old Bailey was less crowded today than heretofore when the court was opened for what was expected to be the last day of the trial of Oscar Wilde and Alfred Taylor on a charge of serious misdemeanor, etc.

Counsel for the Crown withdrew the charge of conspiracy against Wilde, saying he desired to avoid any difficulty in placing the prisoners on the witness stand.

Sir Edward Clark, Q. C., counsel for the accused, demanded a verdict of not guilty on this count, but the judge refused to allow it.

Sir Edward Clarke in the opening speech for the defense denounced the conduct of a large section of the press, saying it prejudiced the case of his client and imperilled the interests of justice.

Wilde was then placed upon the stand and absolutely denied there was a word of truth in the charges of indecency brought against him.

He answered the questions of Sir Edward Clark in subdued tones.

During the examination of the prisoner by his counsel it was apparent many of Wilde's friends were present.

Sir Edward Clarke claimed that Wilde was a martyr and had accepted a verdict of not guilty in the Queensberry case only because it was evident it could not be properly tried then, but it could now be determined on proper issue, according to counsel.

When Wilde was placed in the dock it was evident that he seemed to have lost all the swagger which disgusted all who witnessed it during the former trial.

C. F. Gill, on behalf of the prosecution, began to cross-examine on the same lines that Sir Edward M. Carson, Q. C., who defended the Marquis of Queensberry, used against the charge of libel.

He quoted from the sonnet to Lord Alfred Douglass, in which occurred the line: "I am that love, but dare not speak its name."

Gill asked what was the nature of the love represented in that poem.

Wilde with marked deliberation and emphasis answered: "It is the love not understood in this century. It is the love of David for Jonathan, a deep spiritual affection, as pure as it is perfect. It is something this age does not understand. It mocks at it and sometimes puts one into the pillory."

As Wilde finished his answer there were loud cheers from the gallery, which called forth a rebuke from the judge, who threatened to eject those who took part in the demonstration.

After a short cross-examination, during which Wild denied everything, Charles Parker was examined and cross-examined.

Children are happy always when mothers use Dr. Price's Baking Powder in pastry, biscuit and cake.

BANQUET FIRST.

The American Horse Victorious at Newmarket.

He Showed His Heels to Crack English Racers.

M. F. Dwyer's Old Gelding Keeps Up His Great Record.

NEWMARKET, April 30.—Unusual interest was taken in the opening of the first Newmarket spring meeting here today.

In addition to the 1000 and 2000 guineas stakes in which the Derby favorites meet, American horses were entered for several events.

The Prince of Wales, Duke of Cambridge and a large party drove here from Sandringham this morning.

Lord Rosebery, the Duke of Portland and a host of other notables were present.

Interest centered in the 2000 guinea trial plate, in which Michael Dwyer's Don Alonzo and Banquet were entered. The former, however, was scratched.

For the first spring 2-year-old stakes, also to be decided today, Foxhall Keene had two entries, a chestnut filly by Amphion, out of Innodate, and a chestnut filly by Barcaldine, out of Stephanetes.

For the visitors' Welter plate, Richard Crocker's Eau De Gallie and Michael F. Dwyer's Banquet were entered. All the American horses were heavily handicapped.

The conditions of the trial plate were as follows: Two thousand guineas trial plate of 200 sovereigns, 3-year olds to carry 8 stones 10 pounds; 4-year olds to carry 10 stones 1 pound. Winner to be sold for 2000 sovereigns. If for 1000 sovereigns, allowed 12 pounds; if for 500 sovereigns, allowed 24 pounds; if for 200 sovereigns, allowed 32 pounds. Entrance fee, 5 sovereigns. Course, Rowley mile.

The result was as follows:

Dwyer's bay gelding Banquet, aged, by Rayon D'Or out of Ella, Simms up, 8 stone, first; Legal Tender, bay colt, by Minting, out of Aureoline, 7 stones, 11 pounds, second; Esmond, bay horse, by Lowland Chief, out of Clarissa, 8 stone, 8 pounds, third.

Seven horses ran.

Chillbos, a 3-year-old chestnut colt, cut out the work, closely followed by Banquet and Legal Tender.

They ran in the order named to the bushes, where Banquet took a clear lead and won in a canter by three lengths.

Three quarters of a length separated Legal Tender and Esmond.

Betting at the post was 5 to 4 against Banquet; 10 to 1 against Legal Tender and 6 to 4 against Esmond.

THE MARQUETTE RIOT.

Eight Men Badly Hurt in the Row on the Docks.

MARQUETTE, Mich., April 30.—Eight men were seriously injured in yesterday's riot at the ore docks.

They are: Paul De Grave, Belgian, skull fractured by a blow from a club; Dan Westerville, body badly bruised and scalp cut open; Chief Vonmertelle, legs injured; two other Belgians and three Finlanders, names unknown, various injuries, chiefly scalp wounds.

Charges of contempt of court and deadly assault will be made against thirty men.

All the beatitudes for baking powders are heaped on Dr. Price's, as it's the most perfect made.

REBELS RALLY.

A Lively Set-to With the Spanish Troops.

HAVANA, April 30.—The insurgents routed April 24th by the Spanish troops under Major Tejerizo, reorganized and concentrated in the vicinity of Ramon Yagueres.

They again met the Spanish forces under Tejerizo at Ramon Yagueres, and the rebels are reported to have lost sixty-two killed and many injured.

The Spanish loss was six dead and three wounded.

Cut Off Her Daughters.

The will of Margery Walker, who died in Livermore January 20th, was presented to the Superior Court for probate this afternoon. The deceased left real estate worth $1500. Mrs. Walker cut her two daughters, Eliza Jane Bounredge and Margaret Budsworth, off with $1 apiece. She bequeathed the remainder of her property to her son, William T. Walker. Norman McLeod and Assemblyman Frank R. Fassett are named to act as executors. The latter, however, declines to serve. C. C. Hamilton is attorney for the estate.

TATE'S TREAT.

He Need Not Put Up Alimony Any More.

The Eldest Son Awarded to the Father.

Judge Ellsworth Winds Up a Neatly Fought Case.

Mrs. M. J. Tate got the worst of a legal contest this morning before Judge Ellsworth in the Superior Court, when she attempted to prevent her husband, George W. Tate, from securing an order to have a decree of divorce modified so that he would be relieved of the burden of paying alimony. Tate has been digging up alimony for ten years, and he is tired of the deal.

His divorced wife married again and then she got a second divorce. Tate did not like the idea of paying alimony to another man's wife. He had to put up $30 a month all the same, because the decree of court provided that he had to support his two minor children, the custody of whom had been given to the mother.

When the case was called today, Tate said that he was willing to accept the custody of his son who is 19 years old. Mrs. Tate declared that that would never do as the father had given the boy a mighty kick which sent him down a long flight of stairs. The boy was then called to testify about the kick. He knew that he had bruises on his person and that he had received a kick that will last long in his memory, but he had no recollection that his father wore the boot that was used on that occasion. Young Tate stood by his father for further orders and helped him to win out in the case.

When it came to a decision, Judge Ellsworth ordered that the decree of divorce be modified so that Tate will not have to pay a cent of alimony in the future. The custody of the son was awarded to Tate, who will give him a place in his hotel on Stockton street.

When Tate heard the decree of the court a fine round smile lit up his countenance. He had been paying another man's wife alimony for years, and that is what made him feel so mean. When his friends met him outside the Courthouse they simply remarked: "It's Tate's treat," and Tate treated.

After all the best is the cheapest. This truism explains the ever growing use of Dr. Price's Baking Powder.

WILSON'S WOES.

The Trouble With His Wife Is Settled Now.

An Agreement Made Regarding the Payment of Alimony.

Harvey M. Wilson, the well known Grand Army man, was in the Superior Court this morning to listen to the story told by his wife, Ella Wilson on her application for a divorce on the ground of failure to provide. Mr. Wilson had put in an answer denying the charges, but he failed to put in any proof.

Mrs. Wilson told Judge Greene that she had been neglected by her husband for over a year. She used to keep his books for him at one time and assisted him in every way. At that time Wilson was making $100 a month. He was a blacksmith and a trader and the dollars came rolling his way. Then there was a change. Mrs. Wilson says that her husband neglected his home and took his books away, so that she could not keep his accounts. He kept late hours and became a sport. For over a year she says that he has only provided her with $9 a month for the support of herself and minor child. The wife declared that she could not get along on this small sum and she was forced to seek aid from her daughter Mrs. Henry Gieschen. The husband of the latter is a son of the late Mrs. Collins and has quite a little estate in his own right.

The story told to the Judge was simple and to the point. It was announced that there was no defense to the charges. Then Judge Greene figured up that Mr. Wilson had cleaned up $500 profit in his business last year. That was a big fall from what he used to make. The Judge was informed that the parties had agreed on the alimony proposition. Mrs. Wilson consented to take $15 a month permanent alimony, and the order was made to that effect. She was granted her divorce as prayed for in the complaint. The deal seemed to suit Harvey Wilson all right.

HAPPY POLICEMEN.

A Damage Case Against Them Is Dismissed.

Policemen Bert Curtis and Hall B. Rand were a pleased pair this morning when the announcement was made in court that the suit of Miss Margaret M. Hart, a domestic, to recover $10 000 damages for alleged false imprisonment was dismissed. When the case was called for trial the lady was not ready to proceed, so the action was dismissed without prejudice. She claimed that Officer Curtis had arrested her at the West Oakland Home for disturbing the peace without probable cause and that Officer Rand had given her a ride through the streets in the patrol wagon. When the case was called in the Police Court it was dismissed.

PERFECT PEACE.

The Remains of Irving Wood Mills Laid Away.

Many Mourners Present at the Obsequies.

Impressive Services in the Cemetery at Sacramento.

The obsequies of the late Irving W. Mills, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Mills of San Francisco, took place yesterday afternoon in Sacramento, where the remains of the young man were laid to rest in the city cemetery beside those of his brother Russell who died several years ago.

The remains were borne from San Francisco on a special train of four cars, which also contained a number of intimate friends, both of the deceased and the bereaved family. Among those sympathetic mourners and relatives were Mr and Mrs W. H. Mills, Miss Delia Mills, Miss Bessie Mills, Mrs. Fannie Haswell, William P Haswell, Mrs R R Hoge, Miss Bertha Houghton, Miss Alice Sheehan, Miss Viola Haswell, Charles C Haswell and wife, E L Haswell and wife, Justice and Mrs McFarland, William F Herrin, Judge and Mrs Slack, H F Huntington, Mr and Mrs James Denman, Mrs William Singer, A. N Towne, John P Irish, Mrs J C Stubbs, Miss Stubbs, A B Ford, Miss McFarland, R Wileman, J H Sharpe, Mrs A. S Hallidie and L Tes Iero.

The train reached Sacramento shortly after noon where it was met by a number of prominent people who had esteemed the deceased in life. The remains were tenderly borne to the hearse the pallbearers being James Hobbs, Charles Eberman, John LaRue, Will Denman, J d Sheehan, Thomas Taylor, Howard Herron, Fred Haswell, E T Houghton and William Singer Jr.

The funeral procession comprised a long line of carriages and attracted much attention as it slowly moved through Sacramento to the beautiful city of the dead beyond.

The day was an ideal one, such a day as one might choose to be laid to rest in the bosom of mother earth. The sky was cloudless. The air was laden with the aroma of hundreds of choice flowers, and many of these were wrought into beautiful symbols and sent as tributes to the worth of the deceased.

Among those who were represented by these testimonials were Mrs. T W Sheehan, Mr and Mrs Peter Bohl, General and Mrs A L Hart, Mr and Mrs J L Jackson, Mr and Mrs Dwight H Miller, Postmaster and Mrs W S Leake, Congressman and Mrs Grove L Johnson, Mr and Mrs W C Fitch, Mr and Mrs W H Davis, Colonel and Mrs Hamilton, Mrs C K McClatchy, Colonel and Mrs J B Wright, F D Haswell, Mr. and Mrs W F Knox, Will Shaw, Dr and Mrs G. L Simmons and many others.

Near the grave a large pavilion had been erected and beneath the shade which it afforded, the impressive funeral services conducted by Rev Dr Horatio Stebbins was held. They were taken part in by a large number of people.

Several hymns were sung, an address and a brief prayer was offered by Dr Stebbins, and then the grave opened to receive the casket.

Mourners and friends then retired from the cemetery, and the visitors from San Francisco returned to their homes.

CHANGES COMING

Two Branch Postoffices Are to Be Moved.

Station A is Affected at the Point.

The One at Osgood Bros. Is to Be Moved to Bowman's.

Two changes are to be made in the superintendents and location of postal stations in this city, and will go into effect about the 15th of next month.

The stations affected are those at the Point and Osgood Brothers at the corner of Seventh and Broadway.

The former is known as Station A, and has been in charge of Superintendent Storey. The latter is known as Station C, and has been in charge of Fred S Osgood of the firm mentioned, with whom a special clerk has been employed to attend to the business.

Storey will be succeeded by Reuben McCloud, who is now in the cigar business and has been a clerk in the postal service. The office will be moved from the corner of [illegible] and Seventh street to a store a few doors east in the same building.

Station C will be removed from Osgood's to Bowman's drug store, on the northwest corner of Ninth and Broadway, and be placed under the charge of Mr Bowman.

These changes were made upon the report and recommendation of Postoffice Inspector Thrall.

A TRIBUNE reporter called on Superintendent Osgood this morning and asked him if he knew why the change had been made. Mr. Osgood said that he did not know that any change was to be made, and that the announcement of the reporter was news to him. He said he knew of no reason why a change should take place, unless, perhaps, some people might insist that the location is too far down the street.

Mr. Bowman, when questioned about the matter, said that he supposed the change had been decided upon because the Postoffice Inspector thought the station should be farther up Broadway. He claimed that under a recent change in the postal regulations these stations are now under the direction of Postoffice Inspectors instead of, as formerly, under the supervision of the postmaster of the main office. There will be no decrease in the cost to the Government of maintaining this office, though it is hinted that in the case of Station A the Postal Department will experience a saving of perhaps $50 a year.

AIDING A CHILD.

Mrs. Sanford Descends on the Thalia Saloon.

A Thirteen Year Old Girl Is Cared for by the Barracks.

Mrs Sanford of the Alameda County Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, made an unsuccessful attempt last evening to secure possession of a 13 year-old girl named Amantha Danielson, who is now in the care of Mr. and Mrs. James Barracks, who run the Thalia saloon on the San Leandro road, near Fitchburg. At the time she made the demand for the girl, a warrant was served on Barracks, and his wife charging them with maintaining a minor child in a house of evil repute. The warrant was issued by Justice Lawrence of East Oakland and was served by Constable Weldon. The complaint was sworn to by Mrs Sanford.

After the warrant had been served Weldon and the defendants started out to secure bail and Mrs Sanford made an attempt to secure the girl. She told Mrs Barracks that she was acting under the direction of the District Attorney, and simply desired to take the child temporarily and let the courts determine as to where she should be kept.

Mrs. Barracks, however, refused to surrender the child claiming that she is the girl's guardian and foster mother, admitting at the same time that she had nothing to show to substantiate her assertion.

Mrs Sanford says that the girl is not now living at the Thalia saloon but has been quartered in a frame house adjoining, because of the notoriety which the protest against the Barracks occasioned when it was filed with the Supervisors.

The complaint sworn to by Mrs Sanford however, alleges that the girl was a resident of the Thalia house on certain dates last month.

Mrs Sanford had no legal document which authorized her to take possession of the girl, so she was compelled to leave it in the custody of the Barracks. The case against Barracks and his wife will be heard some day this week.

FOR PROGRESS.

The Good Road Association Is Kept Busy.

Some Suggestions Offered by Mayor Davie.

He Is in Favor of Bonding the City for Improvements.

The Alameda County Good Roads Association held a meeting last night in the rooms of the Reliance Club. There was a fair attendance and a great deal of interest was taken in the proceedings.

John A. Britton, chairman of the association, made a few remarks and then called for the report of the special committee.

Major Fred E. Whitney was called to the chair and presented a report for the committee. He said:

"Your committee, to whom was referred the matter of examining and reporting upon ordinances for maintaining better streets in the city of Oakland, and better roads in the county of Alameda, respectfully report as follows:

"We concur in the report of the committee, read at your last meeting, to whom was referred the question of necessary repairs upon streets. That report discusses to some length the road laws of California, and the acceptance of streets by the City Council, when they are in proper repair, and the difficulty of having proper repairs made by reason of the protests of property owners under the law, and further cites ordinances Nos. 968 and 1333 of the city of Oakland, which it seems, have not been properly enforced where streets are in a condition to endanger persons or property passing thereon, and so forth, and removing tracks and repairing streets where street railway tracks have been abandoned, and leaving to this committee to consider the subject of street repairs when streets have been dug or torn up by water, gas or street railway companies, or by any person."

The report of the committee sets forth in full all the ordinances in Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley relating to the repairing of streets. The committee then continued as follows:

"In Berkeley and Alameda, where these ordinances are carefully enforced by the proper authorities, the streets are in excellent condition and are a credit to these communities. Good citizens make their homes in those places, induced largely by these conditions, which show well-regulated and thrifty municipalities, where heads of families take pleasure in selecting their homes and rearing their children under the most favorable surroundings.

"We venture to say that in no city the size of Oakland west of the Rocky mountains, and certainly in none east thereof, would the municipal authorities allow the streets to remain in such bad condition as they are at present in the 'Athens of the Pacific Coast.'

"It is not the object or aim of the Good Roads Association of Alameda County to burden or antagonize property owners or municipal officers, but it is our desire to call the attention of the public to such facts as will arouse in them a desire to have the proper and necessary steps taken to give us the best ordinances and to require that they be strictly enforced. For that reason we have set out the above ordinances that this association may compare and discuss them and so determine what is best to be done, and after determining the sense of this association, this committee, or another, to whom this matter may be re-referred, may report ordinances accordingly.

"It should be understood by the public that this is not a movement by bicyclists only for their own selfish ends, but it should be, and is joined in by those who travel our streets and roads in or upon all sorts of carriages and vehicles, and good citizens and property-owners generally who take a pride in the good name and good appearance of our city, so favorably situated that it should be, and is bound to become a model city in every respect.

"Many and great improvements have been recently made in our city, not only in its new and magnificent buildings, but in its street railways, water supplies, etc. As the result of some of these improvements our streets and roads are now in the condition before reported. One of the first things noticed by a stranger who visits us for the purpose of making this his home or a place in which to invest capital, is the appearance of our streets and highways, and this association is to be congratulated that it is receiving the support in its good work which is everywhere manifest, and which it certainly deserves."

The report is signed by Major Whitney, L. G. Burpee and George A. Faulkner.

There was much discussion over the report and many suggestions were made in regard to the drafting of new ordinances.

Mayor Davie, who was present at the meeting, was called upon for a few remarks. He said that it was votes that are needed for better streets and not ordinances. An estimate of the cost for putting the streets in good order would be ready for the next meeting. Oakland, he said, has the finest location for boulevards and parks of any city on the face of the earth. He thought the streets should be put in proper repair and then accepted by the city. Streets should be put down that will last for twenty-five years. He is in favor of bonding the city for better roads. The Mayor thought it would be economy to pursue this course and let the future generation pay for the good roads. He explained that it will take a two-thirds vote to bond the city.

"We should not go on indifferently in this matter," said the Mayor. "If it is necessary, let the city buy her own quarry. It will then be a question of labor. What makes Paris, Berlin and Vienna? Fine drives. Don't bring people in here over your backyards. We want to bring the wealthy people to this city. We want to bring people here and give them a place on which they can drive. We cannot expect corporations to furnish streets when the city does not do it. If the city will put in fine streets she will blossom like a rose."

E. C. Sessions made a number of suggestions about good roads and how to secure them. Several others also made suggestions.

The Ordinance Committee was directed to prepare some new laws in regard to the repairing of streets and the meeting then adjourned.

Physicians

prescribe Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites because they find their patients can tolerate it for a long time, as it does not upset the stomach nor derange the digestion like the plain oil.

Scott's Emulsion is as much easier to digest than the plain oil as milk is easier to digest than butter. Besides, the fish-fat taste is taken out of the oil, and it is almost palatable. The way sickly children, emaciated, anæmic and consumptive adults, gain flesh on Scott's Emulsion is very remarkable.

TUESDAY APRIL 30 1895

THE May festival tomorrow for the benefit of Fabiola Hospital, promises to be the most attractive public demonstrations ever held in this city. The gardens, now in full bloom, will contribute floral treasures, so that a great flower festival will be an incident of the occasion. Such a demonstration of rich equipages and such a wealth of decoration as were never seen in Oakland, are the promises for tomorrow. And all this for sweet charity.

THE announcement that the Hibernia Savings and Loan Society will reduce the rate of interest from 7 per cent to 6½ is an indication of the revival of business. It is probable that the rate at that institution, after a short time, will not exceed 6 per cent, which was the rate asked three or four years ago. The stringency in the money market sent up the rates of interest. There is no stringency now. But there are indications of an increasing demand for money at low rates of interest. This concession, and others that are expected, will have much to do in increasing the volume of real estate transaction.

Some Famous Wheat Deals.

One of the great speculative deals in wheat has been going on in Chicago during the last three weeks. According to the telegraphic reports, wheat advanced in that city 9¾ cents a bushel in less than twenty days, the advance being about equal to ½ a cent a day. P. D. Armour is said to be behind the wheat speculation in Chicago. One report figures out that Armour has made not less than $10,000,000 by his wheat transactions during the month of April. As he is still holding his wheat, it is not apparent that he has made any such sum. The calculation is based on the market price in Chicago and the extent of Armour's transactions. These speculative transactions have affected the price of wheat outside of that city. But they do not go to show any permanent advance in the price of wheat that would benefit producers.

Nearly all the great wheat corners that have been made in wheat during the last fifteen years, have resulted in putting the men who made them in a corner. There was the famous Nevada Bank transaction a few years ago, in which Flood and Mackay figured so disastrously. The blame was laid upon the cashier of the bank, who was content to become the target for a consideration that enabled him to go to Europe. Flood and Mackay lost somewhere near $10,000,000. It was the most disastrous wheat deal that had ever been known in this country. According to the reports that were current at the time, James G. Fair was called in to help the Nevada Bank over a crisis, by laying down a million or so of hard money.

It was said at the time that Fair was too shrewd to be caught in any such wheat deal. But, unless all the reports are false, he did invest five or six millions for a wheat corner during the last two years of his life, or put up the money for others. The loss on that transaction is reported to be about half the sum originally invested. These enormous transactions did not result in the failure of the man. Fair was not even put in a corner. He had the money and could afford to play with the wheat market. Now comes the rumor that Smith, the bookkeeper of McGlauflin & Company, who has just disappeared, knew more about Fair's wheat deal than it might be profitable to tell just now. But Fair is dead and the estate never can be settled without going to the bottom of transactions involving the loss of millions.

A few years ago Hutchinson of Chicago was the heaviest grain operator in the country. He was continuously making corners in wheat and corn. He was estimated to be worth anywhere from $5,000,000 to $7,000,000. But he has dropped out of sight, apparently without money and without friends. James Keene once made a corner in wheat, and then the market cornered him. Armour's reported transactions have stiffened the price of wheat on this side of the country. If they should result in drawing down the excess in the warehouses it might be a good thing for California. A great many wheat growers have last year's crop in store and have borrowed money to keep it there. All the deep water ships available for grain charters in the harbor of San Francisco, with one exception, are now under charter, and the price of grain charters has recently advanced. Armour's great wheat corner in Chicago is evidently felt on the Pacific coast.

The Poor Millionaires.

Hetty Green, the richest woman in the land is in distress about her taxes. The Assessor has been following her up. According to her own account, she did not live anywhere. She had no home. A room was taken for two or three days in one place, and then there was a flittering to some other place. If Hetty Green lived anywhere it was at Bellows Falls in Vermont. She had lodged in a hotel there. The woman having a fortune of not less than forty millions, had been assessed for $1,540,000 on personal property. The poor woman is homeless in order to avoid the honest payment of taxes.

Not long ago the Gould family of New York, who represent probably not less than seventy millions, protested against being assessed on a considerable amount of personal property in New York. They had chosen a legal residence in a small town somewhere in the country, and they wanted to be taxed there. In short they were hiding from the assessor and tax gatherer. It is these poor millionaires that are always running away from the tax collector. Michael Reese went down from San Francisco to hide in San Mateo county. That county had become at one time the paradise of poor millionaires. The poorest of that fraternity was Reese. He could cheat the city and State out of several thousand dollars of taxes by that device.

Some years ago Mrs. Mark Hopkins, who was then estimated to be worth something like twenty millions, began to hunt for obscure places where she could evade the payment of honest taxes. She had built a modern palace in San Francisco, and was taxed on that property and for the bulk of her securities. The latter she removed to New York. But the Assessor was on her track. She could not stay in that great city and pay taxes with any more comfort than the Goulds and other poor millionaires. And so she went up among the hills of Berkshire and lodged in her native town of Great Barrington, but not until an intimation had been given her that her taxes would be merely nominal.

Are not these homeless millionaires, who are fugitives and wanderers in the earth, entitled to some sympathy? The poor man clings to his home, and generally pays taxes on nearly the full value of everything that he owns. It was the erratic Senator Sprague who said in Congress that there was "nothing so cowardly as a million dollars, except ten million." But when one of these fortunes sums up to forty or fifty millions, then the owner is liable to become homeless. He may have a palace or two in New York and another at some watering place, but then he don't live there. In fact, he don't live anywhere. He can't afford to. He must hide from the Assessor and Tax Collector.

Poor Hetty Green, without any home! And the Goulds, forced to choose some obscure country town! And the millionaires who have no income to speak of when returns are wanted as a basis of the income tax! It is time that the country began to show a little compassion for its homeless millionaires. Hetty Green, for instance, ought to be furnished with a permanent roof over her head. There was once a famous book written about a man without a country. There ought to be another written about millionaires who have no homes, and who are compelled to wander up and down the earth because they are continually persecuted by Assessors and Tax Collectors.

The Nicaragua Canal Figures

There has been some speculation as to what effect the invasion of Nicaragua by a British force would have on the prospects of the Nicaragua Canal. There may be something in the rumor that the canal company has offered to advance the money to meet the claims of indemnity. Warner Miller, the most active promoter of that enterprise, has been a conspicuous figure of late in efforts to bring about a satisfactory settlement of the difficulty. The Nicaragua Canal treasury has been so low of late that much of the work at one time in progress has been suspended. Perhaps $75,000 could not be more profitably expended just now than in helping Nicaragua out of the present dilemma. Our own countrymen have planned that great ship canal and have begun the work. Several millions have already been expended. Some friendly legislation will yet be needed on the part of Nicaragua. There is a good opportunity to make friends in that direction. Warner Miller is not letting the grass grow under his feet. So far from any disaster to the great canal enterprise on account of British hostility, it now looks as if it might be turned to good account in furthering the interests of the canal company.

Another Art Triumph

A few months ago young Redmond, a graduate of the Deaf, Dumb and Blind Institution at Berkeley, was sent to Paris to prosecute his art studies. He had already taken the gold medal of the Art Association in San Francisco. Redmond was one of the brightest mutes that ever graduated from the institution at Berkeley. While at the Institution he made such progress in art studies that he was encouraged to take a full course of elementary training at the Art School. After graduating with so much promise, the Directors of the Berkeley institution assisted him to go to Paris, as they had formerly assisted Tilden the sculptor. Redmond has been prosecuting art studies abroad less than two years.

Now comes the word that a painting of his, entitled a "Winter Morning," has been admitted to the Salon in Paris. In the competition several thousand pictures were offered. Only about five hundred were accepted. The admission of a picture to the Salon stamps it at once as a work of great artistic merit. It is a great triumph for the young artist who has already justified all the expectations of his friends. When the young man entered, on examination, one of the art schools of Paris, he was ranked near the head of the list on account of the excellence of his drawing. The elementary training received here was found to be the very best when he had reached this art center of the world. Redmond will remain a year or two more abroad, when he will be fairly on the way to fame and fortune.

THE contractors have brought on a crisis in San Francisco. Naturally enough, they want money for their supplies. Just as the financial year is closing they decline to take the risk of losing their claims, because they cannot be collected from the revenues of next year. Coal, flour and beef are cash articles. The great city of San Francisco just now does not seem to have credit enough to secure supplies. The great State of California does not make a much better showing for half of each year. It is beginning to send down warrants for the expenses of public institutions instead of the money.

For several years the revenues of the State have been anticipated about six months ahead. The financial year closes in June. The revenues for next year cannot be drawn upon for the payment of debts incurred this year. Even when there is money in the State Treasury, by an arbitrary ruling at Sacramento, it is kept there and the warrants handed over in place of the money. Contractors and all who furnish supplies are made to suffer by this lack of any sound financial policy. The State refuses to pay interest on the warrants, and the discount is so much blood drawn from creditors who have furnished supplies. A [illegible] part of the State in [illegible] is the only correction for such evils.

Hylas.

Jar in arm, they bade him rove
Thro the alder's long alcove,
Where the hid spring musically
Gushes to the ample valley
(There's a bird on the under bough
Fluting evermore and now
"Keep young!" but who knows how?)

Down the woodland corridor,
Odors deepened more and more,
Blossomed dogwood in the briers,
Struck her faint delicious fires,
Miles of April passed between
Crevices of closing green,
And the moth, the violet-lover,
By the wellside saw him hover.

Ah, the slippery sylvan dark!
Never after shall he mark
Noisy plowman drinking, drinking,
On his drown-ed cheek down sinking,
Quit of serving is that wild
Absent and bewitch-ed child,
Unto action, age and danger
Twice a thousand years a stranger,

Fathoms low the naiads sing
In the birthday welcoming,
Water-white their breasts, and o'er him,
Water-gray their eyes adore him
(There's a bird on the under bough
Fluting evermore and now
"Keep young!" but who knows how?)
—Louise Imogen Guiney.

NOTES AND EXCERPTS.

A prominent Philadelphian who has just returned from a trip to Jamaica brings home the following laughable story: The photographer of the party induced a group of native girls to pose for him. After arranging them to his satisfaction, he prevailed upon one of the other girls to take a peep through the camera. What she saw quite astonished her and she lost no time in imparting to the posers the fact that she had seen them all standing on their heads. The effect was ludicrous. When the photograph was taken, it revealed each maiden frantically clutching her skirts about her knees, while a look of great distress appeared upon each black countenance.

A laundry on wheels is a Chicago enterprise. It is on a van nearly as large as those used by household movers, and contains a stove and an apparatus which holds the water and a washing machine. The husband is the driver and his wife does the work. They drive to a house, wash the articles furnished them and then move on to the next house.

The crossing of Shandar Pass, 12,000 feet high, by British troops is described as "a brilliant exploit," and no doubt it is. It is certainly true, at any rate, that the millennium might come soon if England put half the energy into civilizing work that it does into brow-beating weakness whenever it finds it.

A pleasant trait in the character of Lord Randolph Churchill is recorded in the character sketch of him in the Review of Reviews. "The best thing about him," said Mr. Stead, "was his devotion to his mother. Night after night he would go from the House to his mother's side, nor would he sleep till he had told her all the fortunes and misfortunes of the day."

Mrs. Richard Watson Gilder, wife of the editor of the Century Magazine, was once a professional painter, but she has now given up art because she thought she must neglect either it or her family, and she says she hopes none of her three or four daughters will ever have any special talent for anything but being nice women.

A charming story of Robert Louis Stevenson sees the light now for the first time. He was visiting the afterward Consul to Samoa, in Northern Vermont. This gentleman had a little daughter about 11 years old, who very speedily became a devoted friend of the novelist. In pouring out her joys and sorrows in existence to her sympathetic listener she confided to Mr. Stevenson the sad fact that she only had two birthdays in her whole life. "How is that?" asked the novelist. "Oh, I was born on the 29th of February," she sobbed. The novelist sympathized in words and also in action, and drew up his document: "I, Robert Louis Stevenson, in a sound state of mind and body, having arrived at an age when I no longer have any use for birthdays, do give and bequeath my birthday on the 13th of November to Miss Adelaide [illegible] to be hers [illegible] he wishes. [illegible]" [illegible] year through several years, and now the anniversary will be doubly treasured.

Fabiola Makes an Appeal.

Tomorrow Is to Be a Gala Day.

A Floral Parade, Horse Meet and Bicycle Races.

The Fabiola May Day fete, which promises to be the event of the year in a social way, will be inaugurated this evening with a great illuminated wheelmen's parade, in which more than a thousand local and visiting cyclers will participate. The parade will be through the principal streets and will form a fitting demonstration in advance of the festivities tomorrow at the Oakland Trotting Park. The local clubs are on the qui vive. There is a deal of pride among the cyclers and there will result a struggle for supremacy in the way of artistic designs that will make the turnout a brilliant picture.

Flowers, vari-colored ribbons and lanterns of all sorts of shapes and hues will form the basis of the decorations, which give promise of being gorgeous and beautiful beyond anything ever before attempted.

In the ranks of the gliding riders will be found a full delegation from the Reliance, Acme, Young Men's Christian Association and other local clubs, while large contingents will represent Berkeley, Alameda, Haywards and other suburbs. San Francisco and San Jose will be in line, and altogether the scene will be most brilliant.

It is expected that many of the fair sex who delight in the "silent steed" will vie with their male escorts in the beauty of their decorations. That very exclusive organization of lady riders, the Oak City Cyclers, will be one notable features of the big bicycle turnout.

The line of march will be as follows: Starting from the Reliance Club building on Seventeenth street and San Pablo avenue, and marching down San Pablo avenue to Broadway, to Eighth, to Washington, to Sixth, to Broadway, to Twelfth, to Jackson, to Lake, to Madison, to Tenth, to Broadway, to Fourteenth, to Franklin, to Twelfth, to Broadway, and disbanding in front of the Acme building on Twelfth street.

The parade will start promptly at 8 o'clock. All clubs and individual riders must be in line by 7:30 o'clock.

George F. Neece, president of the Acme Club Wheelmen, and chairman of the bicycle committee of the fete, will be grand marshal.

And then comes May Day.

TOMORROW'S FESTIVITIES.

There will be thousands to rise on Wednesday morning whose first glance will be directed toward the heavens. A fair day, and all will be well for the first great public festival which Oakland has ever given on such a scale as the Fabiola May Day fete. Everybody will turn their steps toward the trotting park early in the day, for the fete will be on at an early hour in order that the long programme may be concluded by nightfall. All are expectant, and none are more interested than the energetic committee which has devoted so much pains and labor, time and money to the success of the big affair. The comprehensive scope of the fete is best indicated by the committee itself, which includes in its number the leading professional men, attorneys, physicians and bankers of Oakland and many of the city's most prominent merchants. The Executive Committee is composed of the following gentlemen:

R. M. Fitzgerald, president; P. E. Bowles, V. G. Hush, S. B. McKee, A. A. Moore, O. D. Bates Jr., J. W. Finigan, Orestes Pierce, Dr. Latham, DeWitt Van Court, P. H. These committees have been assiduously seconded in their efforts by the ladies of Fabiola Hospital, who embrace the very best families in Oakland. To them has been left much of the labor in arranging for the booths, the decorations and the social features. The list is a long one and suggests at once the wide-spread interest which has been manifested in the affair by Oakland's society set. FEATURES OF THE FETE.

And the fete itself. What will it be? The answer is to be found in the magnificent details that are planned and ready to be executed tomorrow. There will be such a show of magnificent equipages, embellished to the highest extent of the floral decorator's art, that Oakland has ever witnessed. It would require columns of space to describe in detail the picture that each of these participants in the great floral parade will exhibit. There are over 200 independent entries, and outside of those who will compete for the trophy there will be many who will add a stunning turnout of some description to the line that will wind about the tracks tomorrow before thousands of delighted spectators. It is no longer a question of how many can be accommodated. The response has been so spontaneous that the committee has fairly been overwhelmed. All they ask today is that those who have entered will carry a big supply of flowers for use in the floral battle that will form a feature of the parade.

Word has come that the Alameda Driving Club will be on hand with seventy-five vehicles and they propose to give their Athenian neighbors a lot to do in winning the trophy. The San Francisco contingent will be largely represented. Some very fine vehicles will come from across the bay. The parade will not lack elements of interest to those few who may not be esthetic enough to appreciate a combination of beautiful women, splendid equipages and brilliant floral decorations. There will be such a display of horseflesh in that parade as will prove a rare treat to everyone, for who does not love a fine horse?

Beside that they are going to give the thousands a special treat in the way of a separate exhibition of blooded stock, such as has never before been witnessed in California. Some of the greatest horses in the world are quartered at the track and they will be on parade tomorrow groomed for a royal reception.

Then there is the racing programme. The contests will be exhilirating to a degree, for they will be gentlemen's events, and some of the best gentlemen riders in Oakland will strive to land the prizes for glory and sweet charity's sake.

Special features of the racing will be the trots between Montana, Iago, Shylock and Golden West.

In the free for all race Royal Jib, Fresno, Prince and Lossie have been entered.

In the 2:40 class Carmen and Harry Wilson are listed.

Hon. W. W. Foote will be presiding judge, and E. Hackett and Dr. Latham will be the associate judges.

P. E. Dalton will be timer; Carl H. Abbott, clerk; and Willie Spence, the noted jockey, will be the starter.

THE MORNING FOR THE CHILDREN.

So far as can be foreseen, the morning will be pretty well occupied by the kindergarten and school children in their May Day games and dances. This will form one of the prettiest attractions of the fete and will of itself draw thousands to the park before the great events of the day are under way.

Luncheon will intervene at noon and here will be displayed the careful and skillful devotion that has marked the ladies upon the refreshment committees and the like. Here are the names of this indefatigable corps:

Refreshment and Decoration Committee—Mrs. John Yule, Mrs. Pedar Sather, Mrs. Remi Chabot, Mrs. R. W. Gorrill, Mrs. A. A. Barton, Mrs. E. B. Jerome, Mrs. Q. A. Chase, Mrs. Wallace Everson, Mrs. W. W. Standeford, Mrs. W. R. Davis, Miss May Burnham and the entire board of managers of the hospital. Subcommittees have been appointed as follows:

Candy—Mrs. T. G. Harrison, Miss May Burnham, Mrs. William Gruenhagen.

Refreshments—Mrs. Wallace Everson, Mrs. Robert McChesney, Mrs. Arthur Brown, Mrs. Q. A. Chase, Mrs. E. B. Jerome.

Charcuterie Buffet—Mrs. Remi Chabot, Mrs. R. W. Gorrill.

The ladies have, by the way, adopted the Fabiola colors, azure and cream white, as the fete colors. Thousands of dainty boutonieres, formed of these colors, will be ready for distribution at the grounds.

THE FLORAL PARADE.

An idea may be had of the extent of the floral parade by a glance over a few of the prominent entries:

Mrs. Senator Perkins and Miss May Perkins—Antique oak carriage four-in-hand, decorated with roses, forget-me-nots and yellow and blue ribbons.

Miss Pansy Perkins—White Shetland pony covered with pink roses.

Mrs. R. W. Gorrill—A double carriage drawn by white horses and bedecked with yellow and white marguerites. Four young ladies in yellow costumes will be the occupants.

Mrs. Alexander McBean—An English drag drawn by black horses and decorated with marigolds and black and yellow ribbons.

Mrs. Emelie M. Chabot—Carriage festooned in pink and white and Miss Kate Chabot will ride a roan horse fancifully ornamented with snowballs.

Mrs. P. N. Remillard—Carriage drawn by two blacks and decorated with yellow and marguerites.

Mrs. F. H. Meyers—Phaeton with two black horses decked in yellow and black.

Mrs. M. J. Thompson, Miss Burdge and Miss W. Burdge—A rockaway drawn by black horses and decorated with palms and tropical plants.

Mrs. C. George Bull—Yellow and white effects and roses and snowballs on her dog cart.

Mrs. A. L. Neal—Cart, one horse, white roses, lavender.

Mrs. Gordon M. Stolp—Trap, two black horses, Marguerites, white.

Mrs. S. M. Gilman—Phaeton, one white horse, pink and white roses with green.

Mrs. E. Hackett—Buckboard, hawthorne, pink.

Grand Marshal W. R. Thomas promises to have his aides a feature of the parade. They will be decked with a floral equipment that will rival Flora's bower itself. The aides are: J. H. Ames, John A. Adams, Bert Brayton, E. H. Benjamin, Samuel Breck Jr., L. G. Burpee, F. E. Brigham, A. H. Breed, D. D. Barnard, Harry Beaner, I. S. Blake, Charles Bon, John A. Brittan, Dr. Blood, Donald Campbell, C. THE WHEELMEN.

The bicycle races, over which much ado is being made with much reason, will be alternated with the horse races. The wheelmen will be among the strongest attractions on the grounds. Never before in the history of wheeling has such an aggregation of famous cyclers been brought together west of the Rocky Mountains. Here will be seen Bald, Osen, Wells, Terrill, Jones, Foster and others of local and wider note. The races will have an immense interest to all the lovers of the wheel, and there are thousands around the bay who will be on hand to cheer the victor and console the vanquished.

Here has been given an outline of tomorrow's festivities. It is enough to fairly convey the extent of the gala day's fete to every one. Such a festival will be a case of "the more, the merrier." It behooves all Oakland to be present and to assist in the entertainment of the thousands who will visit the city tomorrow. Every one is in line for a grand holiday.

FOR THE WHEELMEN'S PARADE.

In connection with the wheelmen's parade tonight, Superintendent A. D. Wilder has ordered a special train for the benefit of the visiting cyclers from San Francisco. It will connect with the 7 o'clock boat from San Francisco, and will come on the Alameda train track to First and Broadway, where it will be met by a committee. The return trip will be made at 10 o'clock.

Tickets of admission to the park and also for the grand stand can be obtained at Taft & Pennoyer's in this city and at Doxey's bookstore in the Palace Hotel building, San Francisco.

The music of the day is to be furnished by the United States First Infantry Regiment band from the Presidio, who are coming here by consent of Colonel Shafter. They will arrive on the 10:30 boat, and will remain until the fete is ended.

Gifts to Fool the Public.

The condemning of alum as an unwholesome ingredient in baking powders by the Government authorities as well as by physicians generally, has not deterred manufacturers of such powders from foisting them on an unsuspecting public. Following is a partial list of the alum powders found in the stores:

"Calumet," "Chicago Yeast," "Kenton," "Grant's Bon Bon," "Hotel," "Taylor's One Spoon," "Climax," "Snow Puff," "Snow Ball," "Giant," "Milk," "Crown," "Unrivaled," "Silver Star," "Davis' O. K.," "Forest City," "Monarch," "K. C.," "Loyal," "Manhattan," "Crystal," "Hatchet," "Home," "Echo," "Perfection," "Rocket," "Town Talk," "Vienna," "White Rose," etc.

It is safe to reject all brands with a prize. All powders sold at twenty-five cents or less a pound are sure to be made of alum. Dr. Wiley, the Government Chemist, in his official examination of baking powders at the World's Fair, threw out all "alum powders," classing them as unwholesome.

DELINQUENT NOW,

Customary Last Rush of City Taxpayers.

Apportionments Will Be Prepared for the Various Funds.

Yesterday was the last day upon which payment could be made on the second installment of city taxes before they became delinquent. Up to 6 o'clock last evening the office of Treasurer Gilpin was besieged with a large crowd of citizens who were a trifle late, but better off by 5 per cent that would have been added to their bills today.

A few belated taxpayers drifted into the Treasurer's office today and were mulcted 5 per cent for their tardiness.

Deputy Poll Tax Collector Foster was still on deck and no city employe escaped without digging up $2 to the rapacious old gentleman, who kept one eye on his garnishes and another on the salary warrants as they were presented by anxious employes.

Yesterday's tax collections were not as heavy as Treasurer Gilpin had hoped. They amounted to $20,187. The total receipts upon the second installment will be footed tomorrow. The clerks are now busy making the totals and clearing up the work propiratory to making an apportionment of money to the various funds, when another payment upon registered warrants will be made. This will probably be done during the early part of next week. The usual monthly work of handling salary warrants and preparing balances is occupying most of the attention of the clerks just now.

Treasurer Gilpin had an extra force at work during the week. They will now be disposed with.

MUCH TO ENJOY.

Frontier Life Portrayed at the Macdonough.

Good Events Are Billed at the Theaters.

The Oratorio "Elijah" to Be Given This Evening.

The Girl I Left Behind Me was greeted with a large house last evening at the Macdonough, and the many stirring incidents of the drama kept the interest keyed to a high pitch. The company is, in the main, excellent. There is little of the overdrawn, anywhere, during the action of the play, and there is opportunity enough for exaggerated climaxes without going beyond the line of naturalness.

The play, on the whole, is all that its admiring critics have said of it. It is an American drama, with a portrayal of life in a Western military frontier post, that appeals to patriotism without exciting ridicule at cheap sentiment and bombastic utterances. The Indian encounters, the last stand of the beleaguered garrison, the thrilling scene between General Kennion and his daughter, the rescue by the Twelfth cavalry, are all parts of one of the most exciting acts that was ever presented to an audience. So carefully is the business and the action handled that it proceeds awakening a thrilling and intense excitement which nearly reaches the breaking point when the happy rescuer comes.

There are some very clever comedy features, and altogether it carries a very meritorious company. There will be only two more performances.

Coming Attractions.

Peter Dailey in A Country Sport, with a clever company of comedians, will be here next Monday and Tuesday evenings.

On Friday evening, May 10th, Herr Fritz Scheel will give a grand operatic concert, in connection with his orchestra of soloists.

The California.

The opening performance of The American Girl, H. Grattan Donnelly's clever play, was given last night at the California to a big house. In the cast are George Osbourne and a strong support, including two wonderful child actors.

The Tivoli.

Offenbach's masterpiece, The Brigands, is the attraction this week at the Tivoli. The opera is one of the great composer's gems and is sung and staged in an excellent manner.

The Orpheum.

The Orpheum is giving its patrons a new bill this week which overflows with novel attractions. There is always something bright and fresh at the Orpheum. Its programmes never weary nor grow stale.

Morosco's.

Tom Craven's great English melodrama, with its exciting shipwreck scene, is the attraction at Morosco's this week. It was produced for the first time in the United States. It will prove popular during the week.

"Romeo and Juliet."

Romeo and Juliet, as presented by the charity amateurs at the Macdonough, will be repeated at the Baldwin next Friday night. The travesty scored such an unqualified success that a repetition for the benefit of the Children's Hospital of San Francisco has been granted.

"Elijah."

Mendelssohn's, the grand oratorio, Elijah will be rendered for the first time on this coast at the First Congregational Church this evening in a most impressive manner. The production will be given by the Oakland Oratorio Society, which numbers 250 members. There will be 184 voices in the cast this evening, with an orchestra of thirty-seven pieces. The soloists will be Miss Beatrice Priest, first soprano; Mrs. Eva Wren, second soprano; Mrs. Olive Reed-Batchelder, first contralto; Miss Grace Carroll, second contralto; Alfred Wilkie, first tenor; Henri Fairweather, second tenor; John R. Horton and Harry H. Lawrence, first basses; C. Harding Tebbs, second bass.

There are a few seats yet to be had at Conservatory Hall. More than 800 were sold up to this morning. The officers of the society are:

President, Rev. Charles W. Wendte; vice president, Mrs. Andrew Fine; secretary, Cora W. Jenkins; assistant secretary, Harry Loy; treasurer, A. Mabel Hussey; historian, E. Von Adelung; librarian, H. H. Winslow; conductor, James Hamilton Howe; concert master, Alex T. Stewart; pianist, Blanche Partington; organist, William B. King.

Executive Committee—John L. Howard, Vernon Van Buskirk, A. M. Benham, C. L. Crabtree, John R. Horton.

Guarantors ($100 each)—Q. A. Chase, Hon. George C. Perkins, Mrs. Emma S. Howard, J. L. Howard, Mrs. Isaac L. Requa, James Hamilton Howe, F. M. Smith, W. G. Palmantier, C. W. Wendte.

The Chorus Committee is composed of the following members: A. M. Benham, chairman; Mrs. Andrew Fine, H. K. Snow, Miss Grace Carroll, J. R. Horton.

The audience this evening will be very fashionable.

THE THALIA LICENSED.

The Testimony Against It Not Deemed Sufficient.

At the session of the Supervisors yesterday afternoon the principal feature was the contest over the granting of a license to sell liquors to James F. Barracks, who runs the Thalia saloon on San Leandro road, near the Fitchburg school.

A protest against the granting of the license had been filed with the Supervisors signed by John G. Skelley, Walter Renwick, N. Johnson, J. M. Moore, E. M. Wood and C. M. Moore. It set forth that the Thalia is not a respectable resort; that Barracks is not a proper person to be given permission to sell liquor, and, finally, that the place is located near the public school and that it endangered the morals of the children, who are obliged to pass it in going to and returning from class.

The protestants were represented at the meeting of the Supervisors yesterday, both in person and by Attorney Meyers. Barracks was represented and had a backing of neighbors and was also represented by his attorney, Thomas F. Garrity.

The Supervisors decided to hear the protest. The protestants placed a number of witnesses on the stand, some of whom testified that the place does not enjoy an irreproachable reputation.

Mr. Garrity also placed people on the stand who testified that the Thalia is a well-conducted and orderly place.

Supervisor Talcott moved that the license be not granted to Barracks. The motion was seconded by Supervisor Johnston. A vote was taken and the result was that a license was granted to Barracks, Supervisors Bailey, Church and Pelouze voting in the affirmative and Supervisors Johnston and Talcott in the negative.

The board then adjourned.

"JUSTICE TO ALL."

A Correspondent Sticks Up for the Peddlers.

Editor Tribune—SIR: By allowing me a short space in your valuable paper to answer an article headed "No Peddling" in your issue of the 26th inst, I believe that I can express the idea of the majority of the residents of this city.

I cannot do otherwise than to consider this a high piece of injustice to the poor producers on our outskirts, who in these hard times find it very difficult to make an existence for themselves and families from the products of a few acres of land in our county.

Now comes a complaint which I can locate (principally) on Eleventh street, between Broadway and Washington streets, merchants who pay no license to conduct their business, asking that a $50 fee quarterly be exacted from the peddlers with whom it is almost impossible to pay the present $15 quarterly license, but do not complain at it.

It seems to me that this is a decidedly greedy, oppressive and one-sided petition on the part of these wealthy merchants to crowd the poor peddler out of existence, who mostly have families to support, by forcing them outside of the center of the city to the boundary of the fire limits. It is difficult enough for them to make a very poor living when allowed to sell their goods in the center of the city. I cannot see how an intelligent Mayor, Council and members of the Merchants' Exchange can find an excuse for wishing such an ordinance enacted, which cannot but force greater hardship on the poor peddlers.

I am not a peddler, but am in favor of equal rights of gaining a living and justice to all. Yours most respectfully,

JOHN T. JORDAN,
No. 962 Washington street.

PISTOLS POP.

A Battle Fought on the Streets of Chicago.

Three Negroes Combat With a Policeman.

One of Them Shot Dead and the Officer Barely Hurt.

CHICAGO, April 30.—In attempting to arrest three colored men at Spring and State streets, late last night, Officer Golden shot and killed one of them instantly, but not until he himself had been twice wounded and Officer McDermott had narrowly escaped a mortal wound in the abdomen.

The wounds were the result of a fusillade of bullets between the colored men, each of whom was armed, and the officers, which aroused the neighborhood and created great excitement for a time.

The two colored men who seemed to be unharmed escaped.

The two officers had been told to look out for three colored men who were suspected of having committed several petty burglaries in that vicinity recently.

When the policemen met these three colored men and attempted to arrest them one drew a revolver and placing the muzzle against McDermott's abdomen fired.

The bullet only tore a hole through the officer's clothing, setting it on fire and slightly grazing the flesh.

At this McDermott drew his own revolver. Two of the men then ran across the street and drawing their revolvers began firing at the officers who returned the fire.

Officer Golden followed the third on a run, firing several shots at him which were returned.

Officer Golden's aim was good and the man fell to the pavement with a bullet through his head. He died instantly.

Officer Golden had received two wounds.

Other policemen, attracted by the shooting, came and searched for the other negroes, but could not find them.

Officer Golden was assisted to the drugstore, when an examination showed that one bullet had passed clear through the right thigh and that another had embedded itself in the calf of the left leg.

The wounds were bandaged and the officer taken to the hospital.

It is not thought that his injuries will prove fatal unless blood poison sets in.

Officer McDermott's coat was perforated four times by bullets, and it is scarcely credible that he escaped without injury. The name of the negro killed is not known.

PUT IN PLAIN ENGLISH.

An Authority on the Weather Contributes to the General Fund of Knowledge.

The most famous American authority on the weather recently said: "The fatality (after the grip) is most marked when the humidity is at its maximum and there is a sudden fall of temperature." That means in plain English that consequences of grip are most deadly when dampness is followed by sudden cold. How often such a condition of weather has prevailed this winter is shown by the official statistics of grip.

Prudent people know how to strengthen themselves after the grip. They will observe the usual precaution necessary in our fickle winter, and they will promptly correct any bodily ailment, no matter how small it is. A trifling chill, a cough and fugitive aches in the back and shoulders linger long, sometimes, after an attack of grip.

They will not be followed by permanent weakness if the body is warmed and all its latent energies are roused by that best of all stimulants, Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. Skin, lungs, stomach and bowels are quick to feel the good effects of this whiskey. Those who have been stricken by the grip, remember how this stimulant has turned them on the road to health.

It is the crowning merit of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey that it puts the body in a state of defense. Giddiness and headache in the morning and tendency to take cold easily are overcome by this remedy. Strength and buoyancy supplant weakness and depression, so that the dreaded grip leaves no trace behind.

The old saw "forewarned, forearmed" would never have lived so long if it were not a gem of wisdom. It applies with great force to the speedy recovery of grip by means of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey.

HITTING AT DR. CHAPMAN.

Spirited Session of Presbyterian Ministers.

There was a lively discussion at the meeting of the Presbyterian Ministerial Union in San Francisco yesterday, which was brought about as a result of the Herron episode. It was decided that hereafter the Programme Committee will not have power to invite visiting celebrities to attend the meetings. The programme must now be made out three months in advance.

Dr. Herron was spoken about by some of the ministers, and finally the union began to discuss Rev. Dr. E. S. Chapman of this city, who has been doing evangelical work for some time.

In the course of the discussion Rev. Mr. Hunter said: "Personally, I do not like Dr. Chapman. I consider him narrow and bigoted. He has nothing but sneers for Yale College. I think the church should strike out and be liberal. Herron and Varley have done a good deal in this line."

In spite of Mr. Hunter's objections it was decided that Dr. Chapman should hold a series of evangelistic meetings in San Francisco in the early fall, and that they should be held under the auspices of his Presbyterian brethren.

Dr. Chapman was formerly pastor of the Brooklyn Presbyterian Church in East Oakland and has lately been evangelizing Los Angeles. During the absence in Europe of Dr. Kummer, pastor of the First Methodist Church of this city, Dr. Chapman will occupy his pulpit.

CHUCK HOLES.

An Easterner Talks About Our Bad Streets.

They Are a Great Detriment to the City.

His Experiences While Taking a Ride Around Town.

Editor Tribune—SIR: My experience has been, since my limited sojourn here, that your people are peculiarly anxious to get the views of a visitor as to the attractions and prospects of your State. That is my excuse for rushing into print. I have been in your city but a short time, but have been charmed by its natural advantages. As a place of residence it is not surpassed by any locality that I have visited in this country or in Europe. Its homes are pleasant and attractive, its people hospitable, and nature has lavished upon it a soil and climate that render all things possible to those who enjoy the beauty and sweetness of existence. I feel confident that those now living here will yet see the foothills from Berkeley to Haywards dotted with suburban residences, and traversed by drives that will be a constant delight to the resident and the visitor.

Having thus expressed my appreciation of your advantages, and, I trust, established the fact of my sympathy and interest in your progress, I hope I may be excused for indulging a little in the traveler's prerogative of fault-finding. A friend of mine who resides here recently took me for a drive to Haywards. The drive was delightful after I once reached the country road. While crossing the depression that skirts the southern shore of the lake I was in constant fear least the buggy should be smashed and we be spilled to the ground. After ascending the hill upon the east side, the street for fully a mile was not in a fit condition to drive over, and the buggy was in imminent danger of destruction. I have found others of your streets in somewhat similar condition, though they are not so bad.

It is surprising to me at the present day, when every other part of the country is paying so much attention to the construction and maintenance of streets and roads, that I should find this condition of affairs in a city so attractive otherwise. Throughout the southern part of this State I found the streets, and even the country roads, in admirable condition. Throughout the Eastern States the people of the smallest country town would not tolerate the disgrace of such streets. The Eastern visitor, who, like myself, is traveling for pleasure, cannot but receive an impression, perhaps unconsciously, that Southern California is more progressive and a more attractive place to live in when he sees such contrasts. Upon his return home his reports to his friends are necessarily colored by this impression. The Easterner who comes to this State with the idea of buying a home and settling here receives this impression much more strongly and decides to cast his lot in Southern California.

When I expressed these reflections to my friend, he said that there were certain unprogressive fossils who owned the land fronting upon the streets, and under the law these were able to prevent any improvements. If this is the case, it would be a paying investment for the city to buy their land from them, paying any price they may demand, upon the sole condition that they will forthwith emigrate to some more congenial locality. I would suggest that they might find congenial surroundings among the crackers of Georgia or the moonshiners of the Tennessee mountains.

SPECIAL WORK.

Important Matters Come Before the Council.

A Complication Regarding the Grant Case.

Complaints of the Condition of Street Car Tracks.

There was a called meeting of the Council last night, at which all the members were present. The chair was occupied by President Manuel.

RESOLUTIONS.

The following resolutions were disposed of:

Extending the time sixty-four days for the improvement of Twenty-fourth street, between Eleventh and Twelfth avenues, under contract with the Piedmont Paving Company. Adopted.

Extending time, by seventy-five days, for the grading, curbing and macadamizing of Walsworth and Oakland avenues, under contract with the Oakland Rock Company. Adopted.

Extending by fourteen days the time for the sewering of Fourteenth avenue and East Eighteenth street, under contract to Cotton Brothers' Company. Adopted.

THE GRANT CASE.

A communication was received from the City Attorney to the effect that the case of George E. Grant vs. the City of Oakland had been set to be heard in the Superior Court on the 30th inst. The case, he said, involves the title to a parcel of land 100x300 feet near the corner of Sixteenth street and Third avenue, which is claimed by Grant. The communication set forth that the burden of proof devolves upon the city to show that the property in question had been dedicated for public use. There is an abstract of the title to the property on file, but it does not show that the place had been dedicated to public use. Mr. Peirsol said he had hunted around for evidence to show dedication, but had been unable to find any.

Councilman Bassett suggested that more time be given in which to secure the necessary evidence.

Councilman Towle suggested ex-City Attorney Johnson tell what he knows about the matter.

Mr. Johnson said the case had been before the City Attorney's office for about ten years. No record of dedication could be found. Years ago he brought suit to recover the property, but Mr. Chabot, who was then alive, had sworn that he was a tenant of Mr. Grant's, and the court then held that the duty of showing dedication devolved upon the city. Mr. Grant had no title to the property in question save a quitclaim deed he had received from a man named Sullivan, who, in early days, was in the habit of issuing quitclaim deeds to anybody who wanted one and to any piece of property which he might want one on. Mr. Johnson stated further that one of the boundaries of Mr. Grant's own property was mentioned in the deed as the "plaza," which is part of the property under consideration. Mr. Johnson said he had a moral belief that, in early days, the parcel in question had been deeded to the city, but he could find neither written nor oral testimony on the subject. Many of the people whom he had spoken to about the matter thought the property had been dedicated to the city, but were unwilling to swear to it.

On motion of Councilman Marshall, the chair appointed Messrs. Marshall and Bassett as a committee to work with the Board of Public Works in securing evidence touching the city's claim to the property in question.

The City Attorney said he had consulted with counsel for Mr. Grant in the premises and that it was agreed that the case would be continued till May 7th.

SECOND AVENUE SEWER.

Councilman Dow then asked what had been done with respect to the sewer on Second avenue.

Councilman Towle said that the legality of the contract for the work with Cotton Brothers' Company, is now before the courts and that as soon as a decision is reached in the matter the contractors would know what to do in the premises.

STREET CAR TRACKS.

Councilman Dow referred to the fact that complaints are frequently made as regards the manner in which the local street railway companies fail to keep their tracks and the roadway near them in good repair. He said that the Council had adopted resolution after resolution instructing the old Board of Public Works to see that the companies in question complied with the ordinance in the manner specified, but the board had actually accomplished nothing. He felt that the present Board of Public Works would do their duty in the premises, as it was desired of them that they should act because the people especially, in his section of the city, are greatly annoyed over the horrible condition of the tracks and streets along which they are run. He then asked the City Attorney to tell what the Board of Public Works is doing in the premises.

City Attorney Peirsol said the Board of Public Works had had conferences with the Haywards line and horse car people on Twelfth street and had been assured that those companies are willing to make the proposed improvement, but that especially on Twelfth street, near the estuary, they could not perform the work without great loss until the city should repair the thoroughfare to the curbs from a point two feet on either side of the outer rail. Without such repairing the improvement that might be made by the railroad companies would not stand.

Councilman Dow said that the railroad companies have no excuse. They must keep the roadway in good condition. If this could not be done by two feet on either side of the track, then the companies should lay down four or six feet of pavement if necessary. He admonished the Board of Public Works that the Council, by means of the passage of a resolution or ordinance would give that board any assistance they might require in carrying out the wishes of the Council in the respect mentioned.

The discussion was informal and no action was taken because the meeting had been called for a special purpose.

Councilman Capeli then called the attention of a filled and offensive cesspool at the corner of Fourth avenue and East Eighteenth street, but no action could be taken for the reason above specified.

LIQUOR LICENSES.

Liquor licenses were granted as follows: D. Donovan, 420 Seventh street; Charles Sulter and Robert Matter, southeast corner of Ninth and Franklin streets; E. R. Rowland, 553 Broadway; Waraacke & Meichels, 603 Broadway; August Grimm, 850 Franklin; J. J. Carroll, 479 Tenth street; O. C. Potter, 1851 San Pablo avenue; Franz & Wemmer, 412 Eighth street; O. F. Rooney, Oakland mole; C. M. Peterson 1160 Seventh street; Isadore Manuel, 212, San Pablo avenue.

On motion of Councilman Heitmann the Council then adjourned.

HUNT WENT TO JAIL.

The Orator Militant Succumbs to the Police.

Captain F. W. Hunt fell into the clutches of the police last evening and was obliged to appear before Judge Wood in the Police Court this morning to answer to a charge of obstructing the streets. The doughty warrior forgot to secure a permit from Mayor Davie yesterday before giving an oration last night at the corner of Tenth street and Broadway. The captain held forth there about 8 o'clock and had a large crowd gathered about him when Officers Scanlan and Andrews reached that portion of their beat. Hunt was requested to exhibit his permit, but being without one was sent to the City Hall where he left three watches in the keeping of Officer Swain before he went into the jail.

Captain Hunt is very wroth over the arrest, but he will not take any legal steps until the Salvation Army members have fought their case to a termination. There is no doubt, however, in the mind of the orator that his right of free speech was rudely trampled upon by the minions of the law, who escorted him to jail. The captain was not ready to proceed and as no complaint was on file, the case went over until tomorrow.

SUNDAY CLOSING.

Clerks to Confer With the Merchants' Exchange.

The Clerks' Association met last night and appointed a committee, comprising E. Bernstein, Ward Pelton and M. W. Isaacs, to confer with the Merchants' Exchange as to the best means of inducing all the merchants of the city to close their stores on Sunday.

This committee will also reply to aspersions which have been cast upon members of the Clerks' Association, through the press, by certain of the merchants who keep their stores open on Sunday.

The Merchants' Exchange will be glad to take hold of the matter, because, certain well informed members say, the greater part of the membership now close their stores on Sunday, and are in favor of observing that day as a day of rest and relaxation.

The exchange members feel that the desired closing can be accomplished with a little persuasion.

COURT CALENDAR.

The Humane Society.

The annual meeting of the Alameda County Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children is set by the constitution to take place tomorrow. Owing, however, to the May fiesta the meeting will have to be deferred till later, when an attempt will be made to make the gathering in some respects remarkable. After the routine business shall have been transacted, there will be set speeches by well known citizens and then a reception will be held.

Athletic Turners.

There will be a grand athletic event at the gymnasium of the Oakland Turnverein tonight. There will be present all the members of the local turnverein and their friends, together with the San Francisco, Vorwaerts Mission and Alameda turnvereins. Athletic games and exercises will be indulged in, after which there will be a Kommers in which speeches, recitations, solos and refreshments will entertain both the home and visiting athletes.

Jordan to Lecture.

President Jordan of Stanford University will give a series of three lectures for the Starr King Fraternity on subjects allied to those on which Mr. Herron preaches, but from a rather different point of view, beginning Thursday of this week and continuing on the two succeeding Thursday evenings. The lectures will be given in the Unitarian Church, and the subject of the first one will be "The Disappearance of Great Men From Public Life."

He Stole Shoes.

Charles Emerson, a thoughtful-looking old man, was found guilty of stealing two pairs of shoes from the front of Broadway stores by Judge Wood in the Police Court this morning. Emerson will appear for sentence tomorrow and the glad tidings of the May Day fiesta will have no joy for him.

Labor Lectures.

Lawrence Gronlund lectured at the Manse at Eighth and Wood streets last night on "The Inevitable Coming of Socialism." He will speak at the same place tonight, his subject being the "Evolution of the Labor Movement."

I find the ROYAL BAKING POWDER superior to all the others in every respect. It is purest and strongest.

PRACTICAL.

Mayor Davie Trying to Make Both Ends Meet.

How He Will Try to Avoid a Deficit.

Estimates Asked From the Heads of the Departments.

Mayor Davie is seeking to solve the financial problem that is worrying some of the city officials. From the figures recently furnished by Auditor Snow it was made fully apparent that the utmost economy must be maintained in every department of the city government to save the city from a financial deficit at the close of the present fiscal year.

The report of City Expert York also furnished evidence that the city was in a fair way to fall into financial difficulties unless steps were at once taken to diminish expenditures all along the line.

The Mayor has been looking over the situation, and in order to enlighten himself he has had the head of each department furnish an estimate of what will be the actual requirements of his departments for the two remaining months of the fiscal year. These statements are now being called and tabulated by Secretary MacMullan, and they will form a basis of operation for the working out of the Mayor's plan to keep the city in proper shape until the year is ended. The Mayor has given the subject a great deal of attention. He does not believe a deficit will occur if proper attention is given the expenditures at once.

With the estimates of the officials before him Mayor Davie proposes to give them his closest attention and will carefully compare and keep run of all requisitions that are drawn for supplies, etc. The estimates are based in all instances upon the actual requirements of each department for maintenance. Only salaries, horse feed and such absolutely necessary supplies are included. The expenditures will be kept closely in bounds, so far as the Police, Fire, Street and Health Departments are concerned. These come directly under the immediate supervision of the Mayor, acting in that capacity or as a commissioner of the Board of Public Works or of the Police and Fire Commission.

The Mayor firmly believes that the deficit now staring the city in the face can be overcome if careful attention to detail is given. He will personally supervise all expenditures and will endeavor in conjunction with the heads of departments to prevent any shortage. The Fire and Police Departments have been instructed to secure nothing but such articles as are absolutely needed to maintain their respective departments. The same rule will also apply to the Street and Health Departments.

The Mayor has mapped out his plan of campaign for the next two months in this connection and he is confident that there will be little or no increase in the $15,000 hole now existing in the General fund.

BIELE BEATS THE CASE.

Judge Wood, However, Thinks He Should Be Punished.

Robert Biele was examined in the Police Court this morning on charge of assault with a deadly weapon. Biele had an altercation with a conductor on an Alameda electric car over the payment of fare. Robert flourished a pistol during the row and landed in the city prison. The testimony was insufficient to hold him to answer on the charge, but Judge Wood suggested that a modified charge of exhibiting a weapon in a rude manner might be sustained. He believed Biele should be punished for his conduct.

RIGHTS OF THE BALLOT.

An Important Election Decision in Kansas.

KANSAS CITY, April 30.—At the November elections in Kansas City gross frauds are said to have been committed.

The matter was brought before the Grand Jury, which called on the Recorder of Voters to produce the ballot boxes for their inspection.

The Recorder demurred, and the case was finally taken to the Supreme Court for adjudication.

The court today denied the right of a criminal court to compel the Recorder to produce the ballot boxes.

Giving the Grand Jury a right to inspect ballot boxes, the court holds, would violate the secrecy of the ballot as well as be an infringement of the Constitution.

Ample Security Is Offered for the Payment.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, April 30.—The Nicaraguan Government has formally decided to accede to the compromise proposition for a settlement of the pending trouble.

This decision has been communicated to the authorities at Washington and London.

Nicaragua agrees to pay £15,500 in London fifteen days from the time the British ships leave the harbor of Corinto.

It now remains for Great Britain to to agree to this condition.

Nicaragua's course is regarded as shifting on Great Britain further responsibility for the trouble.

Most positive assurances of the payment of the money have been given.

THE FIGHT FOR SILVER.

Missouri Democrats Are on a Square Stand.

MARSHALL, Mo., April 30.—The Democratic Central Committee of Saline county has passed resolutions in favor of free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold at the ratio of 16 to 1 by the United States, calling a convention of Democrats May 27th to express the sentiment of the party, and favoring a State convention for the purpose of making public a declaration as to the party policy for the campaign of 1896, and to repudiate the gold bug bonded debt policy of the Cleveland administration.

A REPRESENTATIVE CAUCUS.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., April 30.—Thirty-five of the fifty-eight Democratic members of the State House of Representatives met in caucus late last night and adopted a resolution favoring the free coinage of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1. The vote stood: Ayes, 22; nays, 9; not voting, 4.

The caucus precipitated a discussion, which will probably result in holding a State convention.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—The wedding of Hugh J. Grant, ex-Mayor of New York, and Miss Julia M. Murphy, daughter of Senator Murphy of New York, took place at the residence of the bride's parents today.

Cardinal Gibbons had granted a special dispensation allowing the ceremony to take place at home, as the bride desired to avoid the publicity incident to a church wedding.

For the same reason the calling of the the bans was omitted.

PALE AND THIN.

Confinement Is Telling Perceptibly on Durrant.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 30.—The preliminary examination of Theodore Durrant for the murder of Minnie Williams was resumed this morning.

The prisoner looked pale and thin, the confinement telling on him.

T. H. Hills testified that on Good Friday night he saw a man resembling Durrant meet a girl resembling the description of Minnie Williams go arm in arm down the street into the church, where they remained.

KILLED BOTH.

Bloody Sequel to a Story of Infidelity.

A Kentuckian's Way of Avenging His Honor.

Prominent Families of Louisville in the Affray.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 30.—In a shooting affray today Arch Brown was shot and killed by Fulton Gordon.

Gordon was shot by Brown and Mrs. Gordon was shot and killed by her husband.

Brown and Gordon's wife were in a house at 1025 Madison street.

Gordon caught them together.

He at once attacked Brown and shot him fatally.

Brown returned the fire, but did not injure Gordon.

Gordon then turned the weapon on his wife and sent a bullet through her stomach, killing her instantly.

Arch Dickson Brown is the son and private secretary to Governor Brown of Kentucky.

The Gordons are highly connected also.

Gordon is under arrest.

Nine shots were fired.

The guilty couple were taken completely by surprise.

Brown had prepared, however, for such a visit and his pistol was lying near.

Before he could reach it the enraged man had commenced firing.

His aim was true and every shot must have taken effect, as Brown's body was riddled.

Brown fired a few shots, staggered to a chair in a corner, sank in it a moment and then fell over dead.

Gordon then turned to his wife and fired at her, striking her in the body.

Though mortally wounded, she was able to get down a step run twenty feet to a cellar.

Nine shots were fired.

Gordon was covered with blood and was thought to have been shot. He is, however, in convulsions.

Mrs. Gordon was Miss Nellie Bush of this city and comes from one of the most prominent families in this city.

She eloped with Gordon about ten years ago and moved to Frankfort.

She was about 30 years old and leaves three children.

On account of the high family connections the murder has caused a great sensation.

Young Brown was recently divorced.

It is understood the reason for the divorce was Brown's intimacy with Mrs. Gordon.

Ohio Miners on Strike.

A CLOSE FIGHT.

The Civic Case to Be Decided on Demurrer.

Saturday Witnesses the Fight of the Board of Public Works.

The attorneys who are interested in the contest of Hughes and Miller to recover their seats as members of the Board of Public Works are preparing for a big legal battle next Saturday, when the demurrer to the complaint will be heard before the four Superior Judges sitting in banc. This will really be the trial of the case.

George W. Reed, who is one of the attorneys for the defendants, in speaking about the case to a TRIBUNE reporter, today, explained the situation. "The demurrer that will argued Saturday will go to the merits of the case," he said: "We had the complaint put in so that it would raise all the questions involved and they can now be passed on at one hearing. There is no denial to the facts that have been alleged. The facts as set forth in the complaint are agreed to by all parties. It is simply a question of law that is involved. The demurrer that has been entered is a general one, and it is sufficient to bring the case to an issue. You can see, therefore, that there will be no trial. It will simply be a case for argument before the judges. If this demurrer is sustained by the court, why that ends the case so far as the Superior Court is concerned. The plaintiff, however, will have the right to take an appeal to the Supreme Court. If on the other hand the demurrer is overruled, that will settle the case for the defendants in the Superior Court, and in that event we would take an appeal to the Supreme Court. The questions of law involved in the case are very interesting, and they will be fully discussed at the hearing on Saturday. We recognize that the case is of much importance to the city and we are going to try and do our best to win it."

A Sweeping Fire.

BRESLAU, Prussia, April 30.—At Breslauker today, sixty-five houses were burned and eighty families rendered homeless. Three persons perished and many are reported missing.

A SWELL EVENT.

The "American Duchess" Weds Lord Beresford.

All the Fashionables Present at the Ceremony.

A Brilliant Scene at S. George's Church in London.

LONDON, April 30.—At the fashionable St. George's Church, Hanover Square, at 1 o'clock this afternoon, the widowed Duchess of Marlborough, formerly Mrs. Louis Hammersley of New York, was married to Lord William Beresford, formerly colonel of the Ninth Lancers, who gained the most coveted of all military decorations in Great Britain, the Victoria Cross, by riding back into the thick of the fight at Ulundi to rescue a lancer, whom he placed across his saddle and then cut his way out to safety.

In spite of the statements that the wedding was to be a quiet ceremony, it was the smartest event seen in London for a long time.

The church was crowded with royalty, members of the diplomatic corps, representatives of the various colonies, Governors of different colonial positions, officers of the army and navy and members of the elite of American and English society of London and elsewhere.

In every row from the front, where United States Ambassador and Mrs. Bayard and the Duke of Cambridge occupied the most prominent places, to the back row of pews and to the galleries there was a brilliant mass of color formed by the rich satins and silks of the ladies' costumes.

Shortly before 1 o'clock the bridegroom, attended by his brother, Lord Marcus Beresford, both in faultless fitting frock coats, entered the church, almost unnoticed.

Then followed crowds of members of the aristocracy, until at 1 P. M. promptly the bride's carriage arrived and there was a vigorous pressing forward upon the part of the crowd, and a strong effort upon the part of the police to keep back the crush.

This the policemen succeeded in doing, and the "American Duchess," as the beautiful dowager duchess of Marlborough is known, looking exceedingly handsome in a bridal costume, entered the church leaning on the arm of her stepson, the Duke of Marlborough.

Upon reaching the door they were met by the clergy and the choir, who preceded the procession to the altar.

THE BRIDE'S COSTUME.

The bride was dressed in a dove gray coat and skirt of brocaded satin, with white lace waist coat and cuffs with diamond buttons, white bonnet with gray chiffons and a magnificent white veil.

She carried a large silver prayer book, and when she took her place by his side it was noticeable that she was much taller than Lord William Beresford, who, by the way, looks older than he really is.

The principals took up their positions, with Lord Marcus Beresford, the best man, on the right, the bride and bridegroom in the center and the Duke of Marlborough on the left.

Rev. James Edgar Shepard, honorary chaplain to the Queen, officiated, assisted by Rev. David Anderson, rector of St. George's Church.

The service was fully choral and occupied half an hour.

At its conclusion the party went to the vestry, where the bridal couple were congratulated by their friends.

A GOOD CHOICE.

Lincoln S. Church Selected as Assignee.

The Affairs of the Life and Annuity Association Come Up.

All efforts to wind up the business of the Life and Annuity Association have failed up to date. Charles E. Lloyd was appointed assignee of the insolvent corporation months ago and he made a hot fight to get hold of the $5000 in securities held by the State Treasurer for the association, but he failed. He has been trying to quit his job as assignee for months, but it was not until this morning that he succeeded in having his resignation accepted by the court and granted his discharge. For months of hard work and abuse Mr. Lloyd drew down $50 and he considered himself very lucky to get that much. He says that he is glad to get rid of the tangle and he will take good care never to get into such a snap again.

Judge Greene appointed Deputy District Attorney Lincoln S. Church as assignee to succeed Lloyd. Mr. Church appeared in court and said that he would accept the trust. His bond was fixed at the sum of $5000. Just as soon as the new assignee arranges for his bond, he will assume the duties of his office and make an effort to wind up the business of the defunct concern. His first move will be to try and secure the securities from the State Treasurer that are now so badly tied up. If he can get them he will have them converted into cash at once and divide the money among the many creditors of the association. Until these securities are disposed of the affairs of the Life and Annuity Association cannot be closed up. Mr. Church is looked upon as a good legal fighter, and just such a man is needed for the place. He will have a score of attorneys to fight against, who are trying to get the bulk of the $5000 for their clients.

"I will stay by the works until the last gun is fired even if I never get a cent for my trouble," remarked Mr. Church today after he had taken the oath of assignee.

OSCAR ON LOVE.

The Ex-Apostle Is Now Posing as a Martyr.

He Flatly Denies the Charges Against Him.

Applause Rings Out in Court at One of His Answers.

LONDON, April 30.—Old Bailey was less crowded today than heretofore when the court was opened for what was expected to be the last day of the trial of Oscar Wilde and Alfred Taylor on a charge of serious misdemeanor, etc.

Counsel for the Crown withdrew the charge of conspiracy against Wilde, saying he desired to avoid any difficulty in placing the prisoners on the witness stand.

Sir Edward Clark, Q. C., counsel for the accused, demanded a verdict of not guilty on this count, but the judge refused to allow it.

Sir Edward Clarke in the opening speech for the defense denounced the conduct of a large section of the press, saying it prejudiced the case of his client and imperiled the interests of justice.

Wilde was then placed upon the stand and absolutely denied there was a word of truth in the charges of indecency brought against him.

He answered the questions of Sir Edward Clark in subdued tones.

During the examination of the prisoner by his counsel it was apparent many of Wilde's friends were present.

Sir Edward Clarke claimed that Wilde was a martyr and had accepted a verdict of not guilty in the Queensberry case only because it was evident it could not be properly tried then, but it could now be determined on proper issue, according to counsel.

When Wilde was placed in the dock it was evident that he seemed to have lost all the swagger which disgusted all who witnessed it during the former trial.

C. F. Gill, on behalf of the prosecution, began to cross-examine on the same lines that Sir Edward M. Carson, Q. C., who defended the Marquis of Queensberry, used against the charge of libel.

He quoted from the sonnet to Lord Alfred Douglass, in which occurred the line: "I am that love, but dare not speak its name."

Gill asked what was the nature of the love represented in that poem.

Wilde with marked deliberation and emphasis answered: "It is the love not understood in this century. It is the love of David for Jonathan, a deep spiritual affection, as pure as it is perfect. It is something this age does not understand. It mocks at it and sometimes puts one into the pillory."

As Wilde finished his answer there were loud cheers from the gallery, which called forth a rebuke from the judge, who threatened to eject those who took part in the demonstration.

After a short cross-examination, during which Wild denied everything, Charles Parker was examined and cross-examined.

Children are happy always when mothers use Dr. Price's Baking Powder in pastry, biscuit and cake.

Playing the Maniac.

VALLEJO, Cal., April 30.—"Spud" Murphy, the escaped convict from Fairfield, recaptured by Under Sheriff Robinson, Saturday night, on the train coming from Cordelia, is playing the insane dodge. He has stripped the clothing from his body and paces his cell like a wild animal.

A Double Tragedy.

BRAZIL, Ind., April 30. — James Young, janitor of the Courthouse, shot and killed his wife at Hoosierville today. He then drove to the Courthouse and shot himself dead.

A Boat Goes Down.

ASTORIA, Or., April 30.—The naptha launch Tillie sank today. James Dulley and Barney Dulley were drowned. Three others were in the launch at the time, but they managed to swim ashore.

BALTIMORE, April 30.—Three hundred coatmakers, members of the United Garment Makers of the United States, opposed to the sweating system, are out on strike.

BANQUET FIRST.

The American Horse Victorious at Newmarket.

He Showed His Heels to Crack English Racers.

M. F. Dwyer's Old Gelding Keeps Up His Great Record.

NEWMARKET, April 30.—Unusual interest was taken in the opening of the first Newmarket spring meeting here today.

In addition to the 1000 and 2000 guineas stakes in which the Derby favorites meet, American horses were entered for several events.

The Prince of Wales, Duke of Cambridge and a large party drove here from Sandringham this morning.

Lord Rosebery, the Duke of Portland and a host of other notables were present.

Interest centered in the 2000 guinea trial plate, in which Michael Dwyer's Don Alonzo and Banquet were entered. The former, however, was scratched.

For the first spring 2-year-old stakes, also to be decided today, Foxhall Keene had two entries, a chestnut filly by Amphion, out of Innodale, and a chestnut filly by Barcaldine, out of Stephanetes.

For the visitors' Welter plate, Richard Crocker's Eau De Gallie and Michael F. Dwyer's Banquet were entered. All the American horses were heavily handicapped.

The conditions of the trial plate were as follows: Two thousand guineas trial plate of 200 sovereigns, 3-year olds to carry 8 stones 10 pounds; 4-year olds to carry 10 stones 1 pound. Winner to be sold for 2000 sovereigns. If for 1000 sovereigns, allowed 12 pounds; if for 500 sovereigns, allowed 24 pounds; if for 200 sovereigns, allowed 32 pounds. Entrance fee, 5 sovereigns. Course, Rowley mile.

The result was as follows:

Dwyer's bay gelding Banquet, aged, by Rayon D'Or out of Ella, Simons up, 8 stone, first; Legal Tender, bay colt, by Minting, out of Aureoline, 7 stones, 11 pounds, second; Esmond, bay horse, by Lowland Chief, out of Clarissa, 8 stone, 8 pounds, third.

Seven horses ran.

Chilibos, a 3-year-old chestnut colt, cut out the work, closely followed by Banquet and Legal Tender.

They ran in the order named to the bushes, where Banquet took a clear lead and won in a canter by three lengths.

Three quarters of a length separated Legal Tender and Esmond.

Betting at the post was 5 to 4 against Banquet; 10 to 1 against Legal Tender and 6 to 4 against Esmond.

THE MARQUETTE RIOT.

Eight Men Badly Hurt in the Row on the Docks.

MARQUETTE, Mich., April 30.—Eight men were seriously injured in yesterday's riot at the ore docks.

They are: Paul De Grave, Belgian, skull fractured by a blow from a club; Dan Westerville, body badly bruised and scalp cut open; Chef Veumertelle, legs injured; two other Belgians and three Finlanders, names unknown, various injuries, chiefly scalp wounds.

Charges of contempt of court and deadly assault will be made against thirty men.

All the beatitudes for baking powders are heaped on Dr. Price's, as it's the most perfect made.

REBELS RALLY.

A Livevy Set-to With the Spanish Troops.

HAVANA, April 30. — The insurgents routed April 24th by the Spanish troops under Major Tejerizo, reorganized and concentrated in the vicinity of Ramon Yagueres.

They again met the Spanish forces under Tejerizo at Ramon Yagueres, and the rebels are reported to have lost sixty-two killed and many injured.

The Spanish loss was six dead and three wounded.

Cut Off Her Daughters.

The will of Margery Walker, who died in Livermore January 20th, was presented to the Superior Court for probate this afternoon. The deceased left real estate worth $1500. Mrs. Walker cut her two daughters, Eliza Jane Bonnredge and Margaret Budsworth, off with $1 apiece. She bequeathed the remainder of her property to her son, William T. Walker. Norman McLeod and Assemblyman Frank R. Fassett are named to act as executors. The latter, however, declines to serve. C. C. Hamilton is attorney for the estate.

TATE'S TREAT.

He Need Not Put Up Alimony Any More.

The Eldest Son Awarded to the Father.

Judge Ellsworth Winds Up a Neatly Fought Case.

Mrs. M. J. Tate got the worst of a legal contest this morning before Judge Ellsworth in the Superior Court, when she attempted to prevent her husband, George W. Tate, from securing an order to have a decree of divorce modified so that he would be relieved of the burden of paying alimony. Tate has been digging up alimony for ten years, and he is tired of the deal.

His divorced wife married again and then she got a second divorce. Tate did not like the idea of paying alimony to another man's wife. He had to put up $30 a month all the same, because the decree of court provided that he had to support his two minor children, the custody of whom had been given to the mother.

When the case was called today, Tate said that he was willing to accept the custody of his son who is 19 years old. Mrs. Tate declared that that would never do as the father had given the boy a mighty kick which sent him down a long flight of stairs. The boy was then called to testify about the kick. He knew that he had bruises on his person and that he had received a kick that will last long in his memory, but he had no recollection that his father wore the boot that was used on that occasion. Young Tate stood by his father for further orders and helped him to win out in the case.

When it came to a decision, Judge Ellsworth ordered that the decree of divorce be modified so that Tate will not have to pay a cent of alimony in the future. The custody of the son was awarded to Tato, who will give him a place in his hotel on Stockton street.

When Tate heard the decree of the court a fine round smile lit up his countenance. He had been paying another man's wife alimony for years, and that is what made him feel so mean. When his friends met him outside the Courthouse they simply remarked: "It's Tate's treat," and Tate treated.

After all the best is the cheapest. This truism explains the ever growing use of Dr. Price's Baking Powder.

WILSON'S WOES.

The Trouble With His Wife Is Settled Now.

An Agreement Made Regarding the Payment of Alimony.

Harvey M. Wilson, the well known Grand Army man, was in the Superior Court this morning to listen to the story told by his wife, Ella Wilson, on her application for a divorce on the ground of failure to provide. Mr. Wilson had put in an answer denying the charges, but he failed to put in any proof.

Mrs. Wilson told Judge Greene that she had been neglected by her husband for over a year. She used to keep his books for him at one time and assisted him in every way. At that time Wilson was making $400 a month. He was a blacksmith and a trader and the dollars came rolling his way. Then there was a change. Mrs. Wilson says that her husband neglected his home and took his books away, so that she could not keep his accounts. He kept late hours and became a sport. For over a year she says that he has only provided her with $8 a month for the support of herself and minor child. The wife declared that she could not get along on this small sum and she was forced to seek aid from her daughter, Mrs. Henry Gieschen. The husband of the latter is a son of the late Mrs. Collins and has quite a little estate in his own right.

The story told to the Judge was simple and to the point. It was announced that there was no defense to the charges. Then Judge Greene figured up that Mr. Wilson had cleaned up $500 profit in his business last year. That was a big fall from what he used to make. The Judge was informed that the parties had agreed on the alimony proposition. Mrs. Wilson consented to take $15 a month permanent alimony, and the order was made to that effect. She was granted her divorce as prayed for in the complaint. The deal seemed to suit Harvey Wilson all right.

HAPPY POLICEMEN.

A Damage Case Against Them Is Dismissed.

Policemen Bert Curtis and Hall B. Rand were a pleased pair this morning when the announcement was made in court that the suit of Miss Margaret M. Hart, a domestic, to recover $10,000 damages for alleged false imprisonment was dismissed. When the case was called for trial the lady was not ready to proceed, so the action was dismissed without prejudice. She claimed that Officer Curtis had arrested her at the West Oakland Home for disturbing the peace without probable cause and that Officer Rand had given her a ride through the streets in the patrol wagon. When the case was called in the Police Court it was dismissed.

PERFECT PEACE.

The Remains of Irving Wood Mills Laid Away.

Many Mourners Present at the Obsequies.

Impressive Services in the Cemetery at Sacramento.

The obsequies of the late Irving W. Mills, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Mills of San Francisco, took place yesterday afternoon in Sacramento, where the remains of the young man were laid to rest in the city cemetery beside those of his brother Russell, who died several years ago.

The remains were borne from San Francisco on a special train of four cars, which also contained a number of intimate friends, both of the deceased and the bereaved family. Among those sympathetic mourners and relatives were Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Mills, Miss Della Mills, Miss Bessie Mills, Mrs. Fannie Haswell, William P. Haswell, Mrs. R. R. Hoge, Miss Bertha Houghton, Miss Alice Sheehan, Miss Viola Haswell, Charles C. Haswell and wife, E. F. Haswell and wife, Justice and Mrs. McFarland, William F. Herrin, Judge and Mrs. Slack, H. E. Huntington, Mr. and Mrs. James Denman, Mrs. William Singer, A. N. Towne, John P. Irish, Mrs. J. C. Stubbs, Miss Stubbs, A. B. Ford, Miss McFarland, R. Wilkman, J. H. Sharpe, Mrs. A. S. Hallidie and L. Tassiers.

The train reached Sacramento shortly after noon, where it was met by a number of prominent people who had esteemed the deceased in life. The remains were tenderly borne to the hearse, the pallbearers being James Hobbs, Charles Efferman, John LaRue, Will Denman, Ed Sheehan, Thomas Taylor, Howard Herron, Fred Haswell, E. T. Houghton and William Singer Jr.

The funeral procession comprised a long line of carriages and attracted much attention as it slowly moved through Sacramento to the beautiful city of the dead beyond.

The day was an ideal one, such a day as one might choose to be laid to rest in the bosom of mother earth. The sky was cloudless. The air was laden with the aroma of hundreds of choice flowers, and many of these were wrought into beautiful symbols and sent as tributes to the worth of the deceased.

Among those who were represented by these testimonials were: Mrs. T. W Sheehan, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Bohl, General and Mrs. A. L. Hart, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight H. Miller, Postmaster and Mrs. W. S. Leake, Congressman and Mrs. Grove L. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Fitch, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Davis, Colonel and Mrs. Hamilton, Mrs. C. K. McClatchy, Colonel and Mrs. J. B. Wright, F. E. Haswell, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Knox, Will Shaw, Dr. and Mrs. G. L. Simmons and many others.

Near the grave a large pavilion had been erected and beneath the shade which it afforded, the impressive funeral services, conducted by Rev. Dr. Horatio Stebbins was held. They were taken part in by a large number of people.

Several hymns were sung, an address and a brief prayer was offered by Dr. Stebbins, and then the grave opened to receive the casket.

Mourners and friends then retired from the cemetery, and the visitors from San Francisco returned to their homes.

CHANGES COMING

Two Branch Postoffices Are to Be Moved.

Station A Is Affected at the Point.

The One at Osgood Bros. Is to Be Moved to Bowman's.

Two changes are to be made in the superintendents and location of postal stations in this city, and will go into effect about the 15th of next month.

The stations affected are those at the Point and Osgood Brothers at the corner of Seventh and Broadway.

The former is known as Station A, and has been in charge of Superintendent Storey. The latter is known as Station C, and has been in charge of Fred S. Osgood of the firm mentioned, although a special clerk has been employed to attend to the business.

Storey will be succeeded by Reuben McCloud, who is now in the cigar business and has been a clerk in the postal service. The office will be moved from the corner of Pine and Seventh streets to a store a few doors east in the James building.

Station C will be removed from Osgood's to Bowman's drug store, on the northwest corner of Ninth and Broadway, and be placed under the charge of Mr. Bowman.

These changes were made upon the report and recommendation of Postoffice Inspector Thrall.

A TRIBUNE reporter called on Superintendent Osgood this morning and asked him if he knew why the change had been made. Mr. Osgood said that he did not know that any change was to be made, and that the announcement of the reporter was news to him. He said he knew of no reason why a change should take place, unless, perhaps, some people might insist that the location is too far down the street.

Mr. Bowman, when questioned about the matter, said that he supposed the change had been decided upon because the Postoffice Inspector thought the station should be farther up Broadway. He claimed that under a recent change in the postal regulations these stations are now under the direction of Postoffice Inspectors instead of, as formerly, under the supervision of the postmaster of the main office. There will be no decrease in the cost to the Government of maintaining this office, though it is hinted that in the case of Station A the Postal Department will experience a saving of perhaps $50 a year.

AIDING A CHILD.

Mrs. Sanford Descends on the Thalia Saloon.

A Thirteen Year Old Girl Is Cared for by the Barracks.

Mrs. Sanford of the Alameda County Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, made an unsuccessful attempt last evening to secure possession of a 13-year-old girl, named Amantha Danielson, who is now in the care of Mr. and Mrs. James Barracks, who run the Thalia saloon on the San Leandro road, near Fitchburg. At the time she made the demand for the girl, a warrant was served on Barracks, and his wife charging them with maintaining a minor child in a house of evil repute. The warrant was issued by Justice Lawrence of East Oakland and was served by Constable Weldon. The complaint was sworn to by Mrs. Sanford.

After the warrant had been served, Weldon and the defendant started out to secure bail and Mrs. Sanford made an attempt to secure the girl. She told Mrs. Barracks that she was acting under the direction of the District Attorney, and simply desired to take the child temporarily and let the courts determine as to where she should be kept.

Mrs. Barracks, however, refused to surrender the child, claiming that she is the girl's guardian and foster mother, admitting at the same time that she had nothing to show to substantiate her association.

Mrs. Sanford says that the girl is not now living at the Thalia saloon, but has been quartered in a frame house adjoining, because of the notoriety when the protest against the Barracks occasioned when it was filed with the Supervisors.

The complaint sworn to by Mrs. Sanford, however, alleges that the girl was a resident of the Thalia house on certain dates last month.

Mrs. Sanford had no legal document which authorized her to take possession of the girl, so she was compelled to leave her in the custody of the Barracks. The case against Barracks and his wife will be heard some day this week.

FOR PROGRESS.

The Good Road Association Is Kept Busy.

Some Suggestions Offered by Mayor Davie.

He Is in Favor of Bonding the City for Improvements.

The Alameda County Good Roads Association held a meeting last night in the rooms of the Reliance Club. There was a fair attendance and a great deal of interest was taken in the proceedings.

John A. Britton, chairman of the association, made a few remarks and then called for the report of the special committee.

Major Fred E. Whitney was called to the chair and presented a report for the committee. He said:

"Your committee, to whom was referred the matter of examining and reporting upon ordinances for maintaining better streets in the city of Oakland, and better roads in the county of Alameda, respectfully report as follows:

"We concur in the report of the committee, read at your last meeting, to whom was referred the question of necessary repairs upon streets. That report discusses to some length the road laws of California, and the acceptance of streets by the City Council, when they are in proper repair, and the difficulty of having proper repairs made by reason of the protests of property owners under the law, and further cites ordinances Nos. 968 and 1833 of the city of Oakland, which it seems, have not been properly enforced where streets are in a condition to endanger persons or property passing thereon, and so forth, and removing tracks and repairing streets where street railway tracks have been abandoned, and leaving to this committee to consider the subject of street repairs when streets have been dug or torn up by water, gas or street railway companies, or by any person."

The report of the committee sets forth in full all the ordinances in Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley relating to the repairing of streets. The committee then continued as follows:

"In Berkeley and Alameda, where these ordinances are carefully enforced by the proper authorities, the streets are in excellent condition and are a credit to these communities. Good citizens make their homes in those places, induced largely by these conditions, which show well-regulated and thrifty municipalities, where heads of families take pleasure in selecting their homes and rearing their children under the most favorable surroundings.

"We venture to say that in no city the size of Oakland west of the Rocky mountains, and certainly in none east thereof, would the municipal authorities allow the streets to remain in such bad condition as they are at present in the 'Athens of the Pacific Coast.'

"It is not the object or aim of the Good Roads Association of Alameda County to burden or antagonize property owners or municipal officers, but it is our desire to call the attention of the public to such facts as will arouse in them a desire to have the proper and necessary steps taken to give us the best ordinances and to require that they be strictly enforced. For that reason we have set out the above ordinances that this association may compare and discuss them and so determine what is best to be done, and after determining the sense of this association, this committee, or another, to whom this matter may be re-referred, may report ordinances accordingly.

"It should be understood by the public that this is not a movement by bicyclists only for their own selfish ends, but it should be, and is joined in by those who travel our streets and roads in or upon all sorts of carriages and vehicles, and good citizens and property-owners generally who take a pride in the good name and good appearance of our city, so favorably situated that it should be, and is bound to become a model city in every respect.

"Many and great improvements have been recently made in our city, not only in its new and magnificent buildings, but in its street railways, water supplies, etc. As the result of some of these improvements our streets and roads are now in the condition before reported. One of the first things noticed by a stranger who visits us for the purpose of making this his home or a place in which to invest capital, is the appearance of our streets and highways, and this association is to be congratulated that it is receiving the support in its good work which is everywhere manifest, and which it certainly deserves."

The report is signed by Major Whitney, L. G. Burpee and George A. Faulkner.

There was much discussion over the report and many suggestions were made in regard to the drafting of new ordinances.

Mayor Davie, who was present at the meeting, was called upon for a few remarks. He said that it was votes that are needed for better streets and not ordinances. An estimate of the cost for putting the streets in good order would be ready for the next meeting. Oakland, he said, has the finest location for boulevards and parks of any city on the face of the earth. He thought the streets should be put in proper repair and then accepted by the city. Streets should be put down that will last for twenty-five years. He is in favor of bonding the city for better roads. The Mayor thought it would be economy to pursue this course and let the future generation pay for the good roads. He explained that it will take a two-thirds vote to bond the city.

"We should not go on indifferently in this matter," said the Mayor. "If it is necessary, let the city buy her own quarry. It will then be a question of labor. What makes Paris, Berlin and Vienna? Fine drives. Don't bring people in here over your backyards. We want to bring the wealthy people to this city. We want to bring people here and give them a place on which they can drive. We cannot expect corporations to furnish streets when the city does not do it. If the city will put in fine streets she will blossom like a rose."

E. C. Sessions made a number of suggestions about good roads and how to secure them. Several others also made suggestions.

The Ordinance Committee was directed to prepare some new laws in regard to the repairing of streets and the meeting then adjourned.

Physicians

prescribe Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites because they find their patients can tolerate it for a long time, as it does not upset the stomach nor derange the digestion like the plain oil.

Scott's Emulsion is as much easier to digest than the plain oil as milk is easier to digest than butter. Besides, the fish-fat taste is taken out of the oil, and it is almost palatable. The way sickly children, emaciated, anæmic and consumptive adults, gain flesh on Scott's Emulsion is very remarkable.

Don't be persuaded to accept a substitute!

TUESDAY APRIL 30 1895

THE May festival tomorrow for the benefit of Fabiola Hospital, promises to be the most attractive public demonstrations ever held in this city. The gardens, now in full bloom, will contribute floral treasures, so that a great flower festival will be an incident of the occasion. Such a demonstration of rich equipages and such a wealth of decoration as were never seen in Oakland, are the premises for tomorrow. And all this for sweet charity.

THE announcement that the Hibernia Savings and Loan Society will reduce the rate of interest from 7 per cent to 6½ is an indication of the revival of business. It is probable that the rate at that institution, after a short time, will not exceed 6 per cent, which was the rate asked three or four years ago. The stringency in the money market sent up the rates of interest. There is no stringency now. But there are indications of an increasing demand for money at low rates of interest. This concession, and others that are expected, will have much to do in increasing the volume of real estate transactions.

Some Famous Wheat Deals.

One of the great speculative deals in wheat has been going on in Chicago during the last three weeks. According to the telegraphic reports, wheat advanced in that city 9¾ cents a bushel in less than twenty days, the advance being about equal to ½ a cent a day. P. D. Armour is said to be behind the wheat speculation in Chicago. One report figures out that Armour has made not less than $10,000,000 by his wheat transactions during the month of April. As he is still holding his wheat, it is not apparent that he has made any such sum. The calculation is based on the market price in Chicago and the extent of Armour's transactions. These speculative transactions have affected the price of wheat outside of that city. But they do not go to show any permanent advance in the price of wheat that would benefit producers.

Nearly all the great wheat corners that have been made in wheat during the last fifteen years, have resulted in putting the men who made them in a corner. There was the famous Nevada Bank transaction a few years ago, in which Flood and Mackay figured so disastrously. The blame was laid upon the cashier of the bank, who was content to become the target for a consideration that enabled him to go to Europe. Flood and Mackay lost somewhere near $10,000,000. It was the most disastrous wheat deal that had ever been known in this country. According to the reports that were current at the time, James G. Fair was called in to help the Nevada Bank over a crisis, by laying down a million or so of hard money.

It was said at the time that Fair was too shrewd to be caught in any such wheat deal. But, unless all the reports are false, he did invest five or six millions for a wheat corner during the last two years of his life, or put up the money for others. The loss on that transaction is reported to be about half the sum originally invested. These enormous transactions did not result in the failure of the man. Fair was not even put in a corner. He had the money and could afford to play with the wheat market. Now comes the rumor that Smith, the bookkeeper of McGlaufin & Company, who has just disappeared, knew more about Fair's wheat deal than it might be profitable to tell just now. But Fair is dead and the estate never can be settled without going to the bottom of transactions involving the loss of millions.

A few years ago Hutchinson of Chicago was the heaviest grain operator in the country. He was continually making corners in wheat and corn. He was estimated to be worth anywhere from $5,000,000 to $7,000,000. But he has dropped out of sight, apparently without money and without friends. James Keene once made a corner in wheat, and then the market cornered him. Armour's reported transactions have stiffened the price of wheat on this side of the country. If they should result in drawing down the excess in the warehouses it might be a good thing for California. A great many wheat growers have last year's crop in store and have borrowed money to keep it there. All the deep water ships available for grain charters in the harbor of San Francisco, with one exception, are now under charter, and the price of grain charters has recently advanced. Armour's great wheat corner in Chicago is evidently felt on the Pacific coast.

The Poor Millionaires

Hetty Green, the richest woman in the land is in distress about her taxes. The Assessor has been following her up. According to her own account, she did not live anywhere. She had no home A room was taken for two or three days in one place, and then there was a flittering to some other place. If Hetty Green lived anywhere it was at Bellows Falls in Vermont. She had lodged in a hotel there. The woman having a fortune of not less than forty millions, had been assessed for $1,540,000 on personal property. The poor woman is homeless in order to avoid the honest payment of taxes.

Not long ago the Gould family of New York, who represent probably not less than seventy millions, protested against being assessed on a considerable amount of personal property in New York. They had chosen a legal residence in a small town somewhere in the country, and they wanted to be taxed there. In short they were hiding from the assessor and tax gatherer. It is these poor millionaires that are always running away from the tax collector. Michael Reese went down from San Francisco to hide in San Mateo county. That county had become at one time the paradise of poor millionaires. The poorest of that fraternity was Reese. He could cheat the city and State out of several thousand dollars of taxes by that device.

Some years ago Mrs. Mark Hopkins, who was then estimated to be worth something like twenty millions, began to hunt for obscure places where she could evade the payment of honest taxes. She had built a modern palace in San Francisco, and was taxed on that property and for the bulk of her securities. The latter she removed to New York. But the Assessor was on her track. She could not stay in that great city and pay taxes with any more comfort than the Goulds and other poor millionaires. And so she went up among the hills of Berkshire and lodged in her native town of Great Barrington, but not until an intimation had been given her that her taxes would be merely nominal.

Are not these homeless millionaires, who are fugitives and wanderers in the earth, entitled to some sympathy? The poor man clings to his home, and generally pays taxes on nearly the full value of everything that he owns. It was the erratic Senator Sprague who said in Congress that there was "nothing so cowardly as a million dollars, except ten million." But when one of these fortunes sums up to forty or fifty millions, then the owner is liable to become homeless He may have a palace or two in New York and another in some water ing pl ce, but then he don't live there. In fact, he don't live anywhere. He can't afford to He must hide from the Assessor and Tax Collector.

Poor Hetty Green, without any home! And the Goulds, forced to choose some obscure country town! And the millionaires who have no income to speak of when returns are wanted as a basis of the income tax! It is time that the country began to show a little compassion for its homeless millionaires. Hetty Green, for instance, ought to be furnished with a permanent roof over her head. There was once a famous book written about a man without a country. There ought to be another written about millionaires who have no homes, and who are compelled to wander up and down the earth because they are continually persecuted by Assessors and Tax Collectors.

The Nicaragua Canal Figures.

There has been some speculation as to what effect the invasion of Nicaragua by a British force would have on the prospects of the Nicaragua Canal. There may be something in the rumor that the canal company has offered to advance the money to meet the claims of indemnity. Warner Miller, the most active promoter of that enterprise, has been a conspicuous figure of late in efforts to bring about a satisfactory settlement of the difficulty. The Nicaragua Canal treasury has been so low of late that much of the work at one time in progress has been suspended. Perhaps $75,000 could not be more profitably expended just now than in helping Nicaragua out of the present dilemma. Our own countrymen have planned that great ship canal and have begun the work. Several millions have already been expended. Some friendly legislation will yet be needed on the part of Nicaragua. There is a good opportunity to make friends in that direction. Warner Miller is not letting the grass grow under his feet. So far from any disaster to the great canal enterprise on account of British hostility, it now looks as if it might be turned to good account in furthering the interests of the canal company.

Another Art Triumph

A few months ago young Redmond, a graduate of the Deaf, Dumb and Blind Institution at Berkeley, was sent to Paris to prosecute his art studies. He had already taken the gold medal of the Art Association in San Francisco. Redmond was one of the brightest mutes that ever graduated from the Institution at Berkeley. While at the Institution he made such progress in art studies that he was encouraged to take a full course of elementary training at the Art School. After graduating with so much promise, the Directors of the Berkeley Institution assisted him to go to Paris, as they had formerly assisted Tilden the sculptor. Redmond has been prosecuting art studies abroad less than two years.

Now comes the word that a painting of his, entitled a "Winter Morning," has been admitted to the Salon in Paris. In the competition several thousand pictures were offered. Only about five hundred were accepted. The admission of a picture to the Salon stamps it at once as a work of great artistic merit. It is a great triumph for the young artist who has already justified all the expectations of his friends. When the young man entered, on examination, one of the art schools of Paris, he was ranked near the head of the list on account of the excellence of his drawing. The elementary training received here was found to be the very best when he had reached this art center of the world. Redmond will remain a year or two more abroad, when he will be fairly on the way to fame and fortune.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

THE contractors have brought on a crisis in San Francisco. Naturally enough, they want money for their supplies. Just as the financial year is closing they decline to take the risk of losing their claims, because they cannot be collected from the revenues of next year. Coal, flour and beef are cash articles The great city of San Francisco just now does not seem to have credit enough to secure supplies. The great State of California does not make a much better showing for half of each year. It is beginning to send down warrants for the expenses of public institutions instead of the money.

For several years the revenues of the State have been anticipated about six months ahead. The financial year closes in June The revenues for next year cannot be drawn upon for the payment of debts incurred this year Even when there is money in the State treasury, by an arbitrary ruling at Sacramento, it is kept there and the warrants handed over in place of the money. Contractors and all who furnish supplies are made to suffer by this lack of any sound financial policy. The State refuses to pay interest on the warrants, and the discount is so much blood drawn from creditors who have furnished supplies. A het's financial reform in the part of the State and municipalities, is the only correction for these evils.

Royal Baking Powder makes hot bread wholesome. Perfectly leavens without fermentation. Qualities that are peculiar to it alone.

Hylas

Jar in arm, they bade him rove
Thro the alder's long alcove,
Where the hid spring musically
Gushes to the ample valley.
(There's a bird on the under bough
Fluting evermore and now
"Keep young!" but who knows how?)

Down the woodland corridor,
Odors deepened more and more:
Blossomed dogwood in the briers,
Struck her faint delicious fires.
Miles of April pass d between
Crevices of closing green,
And the moth, the violet-lover,
By the wellside saw him hover.

Ah, the slippery sylvan dark!
Never after shall he mark
Noisy plowman drinking, drinking,
On his drown-ed cheek down sinking,
Quit of serving is that wild
Absent and bewitch-ed child,
Unto action, age and danger,
Twice a thousand years a stranger,

Fathoms low the naiads sing
In the birthday welcoming
Water-white their breasts, and o'er him,
Water-gray, their eyes adore him.
(There's a bird on the under bough
Fluting evermore and now
"Keep young!" but who knows how?)

NOTES AND EXCERPTS.

A prominent Philadelphian who has just returned from a trip to Jamaica brings home the following laughable story: The photographer of the party induced a group of native girls to pose for him. After arranging them to his satisfaction, he prevailed upon one of the other girls to take a peep through the camera. What she saw quite astonished her and she lost no time in imparting to the posers the fact that she had seen them all standing on their heads. The effect was ludicrous. When the photograph was taken, it revealed each maiden frantically clutching her skirts about her knees, while a look of great distress appeared upon each black countenance.

A laundry on wheels is a Chicago enterprise. It is on a van nearly as large as those used by household movers, and contains a stove and an apparatus which holds the water and a washing machine. The husband is the driver and his wife does the work. They drive to a house, wash the articles furnished them and then move on to the next house.

The crossing of Shandar Pass, 12,000 feet high, by British troops is described as "a brilliant exploit," and no doubt it is. It is certainly true, at any rate, that the millennium might come soon if England put half the energy into civilizing work that it does into browbeating weakness whenever it finds it.

A pleasant trait in the character of Lord Randolph Churchill is recorded in the character sketch of him in the Review of Reviews. "The best thing about him," said Mr. Stead, "was his devotion to his mother. Night after night he would go from the House to his mother's side, nor would he sleep till he had told her all the fortunes and misfortunes of the day."

Mrs Richard Watson Gilder, wife of the editor of the Century Magazine, was once a professional painter, but she has now given up art because she thought she must neglect either it or her family, and she says she hopes none of her three or four daughters will ever have any special talent for anything but being nice women.

A charming story of Robert Louis Stevenson sees the light now for the first time He was visiting the afterward Consul to Samoa, in Northern Vermont. This gentleman had a little daughter about 11 years old, who very speedily became a devoted friend of the novelist. In pouring out her joys and sorrows in existence to her sympathetic listener she confided to Mr. Stevenson the sad fact that she only had two birthdays in her whole life. "How is that?" asked the novelist "Oh, I was born on the 29th of February," she sobbed. The novelist sympathized in words and also in action, and drew up this document: "I, Robert Louis Stevenson, in a sound state of mind and body, having arrived at an age when I no longer have any use for birthdays, do give and bequeath my birthday on the 13th of November to Miss Adelaide [illegible] ... It is stated that the appreciation once a year through several years, this now the anniversary will be doubly treasured.

Fabiola Makes an Appeal.

Tomorrow Is to Be a Gala Day.

Grand Entertainment at the Trotting Park.

A Floral Parade, Horse Meet and Bicycle Races.

The Fabiola May Day fete, which promises to be the event of the year in a social way, will be inaugurated this evening with a great illuminated wheelmen's parade, in which more than a thousand local and visiting cyclers will participate. The parade will be through the principal streets and will form a fitting demonstration in advance of the festivities tomorrow at the Oakland Trotting Park. The local clubs are on the qui vive. There is a deal of pride among the cyclers and there will result a struggle for supremacy in the way of artistic designs that will make the turnout a brilliant picture.

Flowers, vari-colored ribbons and lanterns of all sorts of shapes and hues will form the basis of the decorations, which give promise of being gorgeous and beautiful beyond anything ever before attempted.

In the ranks of the gliding riders will be found a full delegation from the Reliance, Acme, Young Men's Christian Association and other local clubs, while large contingents will represent Berkeley, Alameda, Haywards and other suburbs. San Francisco and San Jose will be in line, and altogether the scene will be most brilliant.

It is expected that many of the fair sex who delight in the "silent steed" will vie with their male escorts in the beauty of their decorations. That very exclusive organization of lady riders, the Oak City Cyclers, will be one notable features of the big bicycle turnout.

The line of march will be as follows: Starting from the Reliance Club building on Seventeenth street and San Pablo avenue, and marching down San Pablo avenue to Broadway, to Eighth, to Washington, to Sixth, to Broadway, to Twelfth, to Jackson, to Lake, to Madison, to Tenth, to Broadway, to Fourteenth, to Franklin, to Twelfth, to Broadway, and disbanding in front of the Acme building on Twelfth street.

The parade will start promptly at 8 o'clock. All clubs and individual riders must be in line by 7:30 o'clock.

George F. Neece, president of the Acme Club Wheelmen, and chairman of the bicycle committee of the fete, will be grand marshal.

And then comes May Day.

TOMORROW'S FESTIVITIES.

There will be thousands to rise on Wednesday morning whose first glance will be directed toward the heavens. A fair day, and all will be well for the first great public festival which Oakland has ever given on such a scale as the Fabiola May Day fete. Everybody will turn their steps toward the trotting park early in the day, for the fete will be on at an early hour in order that the long programme may be concluded by nightfall. All are expectant, and none are more interested than the energetic committee which has devoted so much pains and labor, time and money to the success of the big affair. The comprehensive scope of the fete is best indicated by the committee itself, which includes in its number the leading professional men, attorneys, physicians and bankers of Oakland and many of the city's most prominent merchants. The Executive Committee is composed of the following gentlemen:

R. M. Fitzgerald, president; P. E. Bowles, V. G. Hush, S. B. McKee, A. A. Moore, C. D. Bates Jr., J. W. Finigan, Orestes Pierce, Dr. Latham, DeWitt Van Court, P. H. The sub-committees handling the various departments are as follows:

Finance and executive—R. M. Fitzgerald, Frank Pierce, P. E. Bowles.

Bicycle—George F. Neece, A. C. W.; Charles E. Bates Jr., R. A. C.; Henry Gilbert, O. Y. M. C. A. C. C.

Advertising—P. H. Remillard, A. W. Baldwin.

Horse—Walter Hackett, W. V. Witcher, Horry Meek, P. W. Bellingall, Monroe Salisbury, Dr. Latham.

These committees have been assiduously seconded in their efforts by the ladies of Fabiola Hospital, who embrace the very best families in Oakland. To them has been left much of the labor in arranging for the booths, the decorations and the social features. The list is a long one and suggests at once the wide-spread interest which has been manifested in the affair by Oakland's society set. Among the ladies who have so actively engaged in the arrangements and who will contribute by their presence and labors tomorrow to the enjoyment are Mrs. George McNear, Mrs. I. L. Requa, Mrs. Edson Adams, Mrs. E. C. Selfridge, Mrs. D. E. Hughes, Mrs. R. W. Kirkham, Mrs. W. W. Crane, Mrs. Samuel Woods, Mrs. Edwin Harris, Mrs. A. Lilienerantz, Mrs. W. W. FEATURES OF THE FETE.

And the fete itself. What will it be? The answer is to be found in the magnificent details that are planned and ready to be executed tomorrow. There will be such a show of magnificent equipages, embellished to the highest extent of the floral decorator's art, that Oakland has ever witnessed. It would require columns of space to describe in detail the picture that each of these participants in the great floral parade will exhibit. There are over 200 independent entries, and outside of those who will compete for the trophy there will be many who will add a stunning turnout of some description to the line that will wind about the tracks tomorrow before thousands of delighted spectators. It is no longer a question of how many can be accommodated. The response has been so spontaneous that the committee has fairly been overwhelmed. All they ask today is that those who have entered will carry a big supply of flowers for use in the floral battle that will form a feature of the parade.

Word has come that the Alameda Driving Club will be on hand with seventy-five vehicles and they propose to give their Athenian neighbors a lot to do in winning the trophy. The San Francisco contingent will be largely represented. Some very fine vehicles will come from across the bay. The parade will not lack elements of interest to those few who may not be esthetic enough to appreciate a combination of beautiful women, splendid equipages and brilliant floral decorations. There will be such a display of horseflesh in that parade as will prove a rare treat to everyone, for who does not love a fine horse?

Beside that they are going to give the thousands a special treat in the way of a separate exhibition of blooded stock, such as has never before been witnessed in California. Some of the greatest horses in the world are quartered at the track and they will be on parade tomorrow groomed for a royal reception.

Then there is the racing programme. The contests will be exhilirating to a degree, for they will be gentlemen's events, and some of the best gentlemen riders in Oakland will strive to land the prizes for glory and sweet charity's sake.

Special features of the racing will be the trots between Montana, Iago, Shylock and Golden West.

In the free for all race Royal Jib, Fresno, Prince and Lossie have been entered.

In the 2:40 class Carmen and Harry Wilson are listed.

Hon. W. W. Foote will be presiding judge, and E. Hackett and Dr. Latham will be the associate judges.

P. E. Dalton will be timer; Carl H. Abbott, clerk; and Willie Spence, the noted jockey, will be the starter.

THE MORNING FOR THE CHILDREN.

So far as can be foreseen, the morning will be pretty well occupied by the kindergarten and school children in their May Day games and dances. This will form one of the prettiest attractions of the fete and will of itself draw thousands to the park before the great events of the day are under way.

Luncheon will intervene at noon and here will be displayed the careful and skillful devotion that has marked the ladies upon the refreshment committees and the like. Here are the names of this indefatigable corps:

Refreshment and Decoration Committee—Mrs. John Yule, Mrs. Peder Sather, Mrs. Remi Chabot, Mrs. R. W. Gorrill, Mrs. A. A. Barton, Mrs. E. B. Jerome, Mrs. Q. A. Chase, Mrs. Wallace Everson, Mrs. W. W. Standeford, Mrs. W. R. Davis, Miss May Burnham and the entire board of managers of the hospital. Subcommittees have been appointed as follows:

Candy—Mrs. T. G. Harrison, Miss May Burnham, Mrs. William Gruenhagen.

Refreshments—Mrs. Wallace Everson, Mrs. Robert McChesney, Mrs. Arthur Brown, Mrs. Q. A. Chase, Mrs. E. B. Jerome.

Charcuterie Buffet—Mrs. Remi Chabot, Mrs. R. W. Gorrill.

The ladies have, by the way, adopted the Fabiola colors, azure and cream white, as the fete colors. Thousands of dainty boutonieres, formed of these colors, will be ready for distribution at the grounds.

THE FLORAL PARADE.

An idea may be had of the extent of the floral parade by a glance over a few of the prominent entries:

Mrs. Senator Perkins and Miss May Perkins—Antique oak carriage four-in-hand, decorated with roses, forget-me-nots and yellow and blue ribbons.

Miss Pansy Perkins—White Shetland pony covered with pink roses.

Mrs. R. W. Gorrill—A double carriage drawn by white horses and bedecked with yellow and white marguerites. Four young ladies in yellow costumes will be the occupants.

Mrs. Alexander McBean—An English drag drawn by black horses and decorated with marigolds and black and yellow ribbons.

Grand Marshal W. R. Thomas promises to have his aides a feature of the parade. They will be decked with a floral equipment that will rival Flora's bower itself. The aides are: I. H. Ames, John A. Adams, Ber. Brayton, E. H. Benjamin, Samuel Breck Jr., L. G. Burpee, F. E. Brigham, A. H. Breed, D. D. Barnard, Harry Batner, I. S. Blake, Charles Bon, John A. Brittan, Dr. Blood, Donald Campbell, C. THE WHEELMEN.

The bicycle races, over which much ado is being made with much reason, will be alternated with the horse races. The wheelmen will be among the strongest attractions on the grounds. Never before in the history of wheeling has such an aggregation of famous cyclers been brought together west of the Rocky Mountains. Here will be seen Bald, Osen, Wells, Terrill, Jones, Foster and others of local and wider note. The races will have an immense interest to all the lovers of the wheel, and there are thousands around the bay who will be on hand to cheer the victor and console the vanquished.

Here has been given an outline of tomorrow's festivities. It is enough to fairly convey the extent of the gala day's fete to every one. Such a festival will be a case of "the more, the merrier." It behooves all Oakland to be present and to assist in the entertainment of the thousands who will visit the city tomorrow. Every one is in line for a grand holiday.

FOR THE WHEELMEN'S PARADE.

In connection with the wheelmen's parade tonight, Superintendent A. D. Wilder has ordered a special train for the benefit of the visiting cyclers from San Francisco. It will connect with the 7 o'clock boat from San Francisco, and will come on the Alameda train track to First and Broadway, where it will be met by a committee. The return trip will be made at 10 o'clock.

Tickets of admission to the park and also for the grand stand can be obtained at Taft & Pennoyer's in this city and at Doxey's bookstore in the Palace Hotel building, San Francisco.

The music of the day is to be furnished by the United States First Infantry Regiment band from the Presidio, who are coming here by consent of Colonel Shafter. They will arrive on the 10:30 boat, and will remain until the fete is ended.

Gifts to Fool the Public

The condemning of alum as an unwholesome ingredient in baking powders by the Government authorities as well as by physicians generally, has not deterred manufacturers of such powders from foisting them on an unsuspecting public. Following is a partial list of the alum powders found in the stores:

"Calumet" "Chicago Yeast," "Kenton," "Grant's Bon Bon," "Hotel," "Taylor's One Spoon," "Climax" "Snow Puff," "Snow Ball," "Giant," "Milk," "Crown," "Unrivaled," "Silver Star," "Davis' O K," "Forest City," "Monarch," "K. C.," "Loyal," "Manhattan," "Crystal," "Hatchet," "Home," "Echo," "Perfection," "Rocket," "Town Talk," "Vienna," "White Rose," etc.

It is safe to reject all brands with a prize. All powders sold at twenty-five cents or less a pound are sure to be made of alum. Dr. Wiley, the Government Chemist, in his official examination of baking powders at the World's Fair, threw out all "alum powders," classing them as unwholesome.

DELINQUENT NOW,

Customary Last Rush of City Taxpayers.

Apportionments Will Be Prepared for the Various Funds.

Yesterday was the last day upon which payment could be made on the second installment of city taxes before they became delinquent. Up to 6 o'clock last evening the office of Treasurer Gilpin was besieged with a large crowd of citizens who were a trifle late, but better off by 5 per cent that would have been added to their bills today.

A few belated taxpayers drifted into the Treasurer's office today and were mulcted 5 per cent for their tardiness.

Deputy Poll Tax Collector Foster was still on deck and no city employe escaped without digging up $2 to the rapacious old gentleman, who kept one eye on his garnishes and another on the salary warrants as they were presented by anxious employes.

Yesterday's tax collections were not as heavy as Treasurer Gilpin had hoped. They amounted to $20,187. The total receipts upon the second installment will be footed tomorrow. The clerks are now busy making the totals and clearing up the work preparatory to making an apportionment of money to the various funds, when another payment upon registered warrants will be made. This will probably be done during the early part of next week. The usual monthly work of handling salary warrants and preparing balances is occupying most of the attention of the clerks just now.

Treasurer Gilpin had an extra force at work during the week. They will now be dispensed with.

PERSONAL.

Miss M. Annie Miller and Horace H. Miller will leave next week for a six months tour in Europe.

P. M. Fisher of this city is to deliver an address before the Marin county teachers' institute which is now in session at San Rafael.

The delegates from the First Unitarian Conference, which is to be held on the first three days of May are as follows: J. P. Irish, Rev. G. B. Allen, Mrs. H. A. Fish, Mrs. Flora J. Forrest, Miss E. A. Robbins, Miss Theda Carter, Miss Margaret Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Burrell, Mr. J. P. Garlick, Rev. Mrs. Wilkes, Rev. C. W. Wendte, Madame Wendte, Mrs. William Morris and Mrs. Tripp.

There will be [illegible] tendered to Rev. Mr. Bush tonight, on the occasion of his retirement from the position of assistant pastor of the First Baptist Church.

Mrs. E. Craig of this city is visiting Mrs. J. N. Larkin of Sacramento.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. McClure of Chillicothe, O., have arrived in this city from the East. They will visit relatives in Berkeley.

MUCH TO ENJOY.

Frontier Life Portrayed at the Macdonough.

Good Events Are Billed at the Theaters.

The Oratorio "Elijah" to Be Given This Evening.

The Girl I Left Behind Me was greeted with a large house last evening at the Macdonough, and the many stirring incidents of the drama kept the interest keyed to a high pitch. The company is, in the main, excellent. There is little of the overdrawn, anywhere, during the action of the play, and there is opportunity enough for exaggerated climaxes without going beyond the line of naturalness.

The play, on the whole, is all that its admiring critics have said of it. It is an American drama, with a portrayal of life in a Western military frontier post, that appeals to patriotism without exciting ridicule at cheap sentiment and bombastic utterances. The Indian encounters, the last stand of the beleagured garrison, the thrilling scene between General Kennion and his daughter, the rescue by the Twelfth cavalry, are all parts of one of the most exciting acts that was ever presented to an audience. So carefully is the business and the action handled that it proceeds awakening a thrilling and intense excitement which nearly reaches the breaking point when the happy rescuer comes.

There are some very clever comedy features, and altogether it carries a very meritorious company. There will be only two more performances.

Coming Attractions.

Peter Dailey in A Country Sport, with a clever company of comedians, will be here next Monday and Tuesday evenings.

On Friday evening, May 10th, Herr Fritz Scheel will give a grand operatic concert, in connection with his orchestra of soloists.

The California.

The opening performance of The American Girl, H. Grattan Donnelly's clever play, was given last night at the California to a big house. In the cast are George Osbourne and a strong support, including two wonderful child actors.

The Tivoli.

Offenbach's masterpiece, The Brigands, is the attraction this week at the Tivoli. The opera is one of the great composer's gems and is sung and staged in an excellent manner.

The Orpheum.

The Orpheum is giving its patrons a new bill this week which overflows with novel attractions. There is always something bright and fresh at the Orpheum. Its programmes never weary nor grow stale.

Morosco's

Tom Craven's great English melodrama, with its exciting shipwreck scene, is the attraction at Morosco's this week. It was produced for the first time in the United States. It will prove popular during the week.

"Romeo and Juliet."

Romeo and Juliet, as presented by the charity amateurs at the Macdonough, will be repeated at the Baldwin next Friday night. The travesty scored such an unqualified success that a repetition for the benefit of the Children's Hospital of San Francisco has been granted.

"Elijah"

Mendelssohn's, the grand oratoria, Elijah will be rendered for the first time on this coast at the First Congregational Church this evening in a most impressive manner. The production will be given by the Oakland Oratorio Society, which numbers 250 members. There will be 184 voices in the cast this evening, with an orchestra of thirty-seven pieces. The soloists will be Miss Beatrice Priest, first soprano; Mrs. Eva Wren, second soprano; Mrs. Olive Reed-Batchelder, first contralto; Miss Grace Carroll, second contralto; Alfred Wilkie, first tenor; Henry Fairweather, second tenor; John R. Horton and Harry H. Lawrence, first basses; C. Harding Tebbs, second bass.

There are a few seats yet to be had at Conservatory Hall. More than 800 were sold up to this morning. The officers of the society are:

President, Rev. Charles W. Wendte; vice president, Mrs. Andrew Fine; secretary, Cora W. Jenkins; assistant secretary, Harry Loy; treasurer, A. Mabel Hussey; historian, E. Von Adelung; librarian, H. H. Winslow; conductor, James Hamilton Howe; concert master, Alex T. Stewart; pianist, Blanche Partington; organist, William B. King.

Executive Committee—John L. Howard, Vernon Van Buskirk, A. M. Benham, C. L. Crabtree, John R. Horton.

Guarantors ($100 each)—Q. A. Chase, Hon. George C. Perkins, Mrs. Emma S. Howard, J. L. Howard, Mrs. Isaac L. Requa, James Hamilton Howe, F. M. Smith, W. G. Palmanteer, C. W. Wendte.

The Chorus Committee is composed of the following members: A. M. Benham, chairman, Mrs. Andrew Fine, H. K. Snow, Miss Grace Carroll, J. R. Horton.

The audience this evening will be very fashionable.

THE THALIA LICENSED.

The Testimony Against It Not Deemed Sufficient.

At the session of the Supervisors yesterday afternoon the principal feature was the contest over the granting of a license to sell liquors to James F. Barracks, who runs the Thalia saloon on San Leandro road, near the Fitchburg school.

A protest against the granting of the license had been filed with the Supervisors signed by John G. Skelley, Walter Renwick, N. Johnson, J. M. Moore, E. M. Wood and C. M. Moore. It set forth that the Thalia is not a respectable resort, that Barracks is not a proper person to be given permission to sell liquor, and, finally, that the place is located near the public school and that it endangered the morals of the children, who are obliged to pass it in going to and returning from class.

The protestants were represented at the meeting of the Supervisors yesterday, both in person and by Attorney Meyers. Barracks was represented and had a backing of neighbors and was also represented by his attorney, Thomas F. Garrity.

The Supervisors decided to hear the protest. The protestants placed a number of witnesses on the stand, some of whom testified that the place does not enjoy an irreproachable reputation.

Mr. Garrity also placed people on the stand who testified that the Thalia is a well-conducted and orderly place.

Supervisor Talcott moved that the license be not granted to Barracks. The motion was seconded by Supervisor Johnston. A vote was taken and the result was that a license was granted to Barracks, Supervisors Bailey, Church and Pelouze voting in the affirmative and Supervisors Johnston and Talcott in the negative.

The board then adjourned.

PISTOLS POP.

A Battle Fought on the Streets of Chicago.

Three Negroes Combat With a Policeman.

One of Them Shot Dead and the Officer Barely Hurt.

CHICAGO, April 30.—In attempting to arrest three colored men at Spring and State streets, late last night, Officer Golden shot and killed one of them instantly, but not until he himself had been twice wounded and Officer McDermott had narrowly escaped a mortal wound in the abdomen.

The wounds were the result of a fusillade of bullets between the colored men, each of whom was armed, and the officers, which aroused the neighborhood and created great excitement for a time.

The two colored men who seemed to be unharmed escaped.

The two officers had been told to look out for three colored men who were suspected of having committed several petty burglaries in that vicinity recently.

When the policemen met these three colored men and attempted to arrest them one drew a revolver and placing the muzzle against McDermott's abdomen fired.

The bullet only tore a hole through the officer's clothing, setting it on fire and slightly grazing the flesh.

At this McDermott drew his own revolver. Two of the men then ran across the street and drawing their revolvers began firing at the officers who returned the fire.

Officer Golden followed the third on a run, firing several shots at him which were returned.

Officer Golden's aim was good and the man fell to the pavement with a bullet through his head. He died instantly.

Officer Golden had received two wounds.

Other policemen, attracted by the shooting, came and searched for the other negroes, but could not find them.

Officer Golden was assisted to the drugstore, when an examination showed that one bullet had passed clear through the right thigh and that another had embodied itself in the calf of the left leg.

The wounds were bandaged and the officer taken to the hospital.

It is not thought that his injuries will prove fatal unless blood poison sets in.

Officer McDermott's coat was perforated four times by bullets, and it is scarcely credible that he escaped without injury. The name of the negro killed is not known.

"JUSTICE TO ALL."

A Correspondent Sticks Up for the Peddlers.

Editor Tribune—SIR: By allowing me a short space in your valuable paper to answer an article headed "No Peddling" in your issue of the 26th inst, I believe that I can express the idea of the majority of the residents of this city.

I cannot do otherwise than to consider this a high piece of injustice to the poor producers on our outskirts, who in these hard times find it very difficult to make an existence for themselves and families from the products of a few acres of land in our county.

Now comes a complaint which I can locate (principally) on Eleventh street, between Broadway and Washington streets, merchants who pay no license to conduct their business, asking that a $50 fee quarterly be exacted from the peddlers with whom it is almost impossible to pay the present $15 quarterly license, but do not complain at it.

It seems to me that this is a decidedly greedy, oppressive and one-sided petition on the part of these wealthy merchants to crowd the poor peddler out of existence, who mostly have families to support, by forcing them outside of the center of the city to the boundary of the fire limits. It is difficult enough for them to make a very poor living when allowed to sell their goods in the center of the city. I cannot see how an intelligent Mayor, Council and members of the Merchants' Exchange can find an excuse for wishing such an ordinance enacted, which cannot but force greater hardship on the poor peddlers.

I am not a peddler, but am in favor of equal rights of gaining a living and justice to all. Yours most respectfully,

JOHN T. JORDAN,

No. 962 Washington street.

PUT IN PLAIN ENGLISH.

An Authority on the Weather Contributes to the General Fund of Knowledge.

The most famous American authority on the weather recently said: "The fatality (after the grip) is most marked when the humidity is at its maximum and there is a sudden fall of temperature." That means in plain English that consequences of grip are most deadly when dampness is followed by sudden cold. How often such a condition of weather has prevailed this winter is known by the official statistics of grip.

Prudent people know how to strengthen themselves after the grip. They will observe the usual precaution necessary in our fickle winter, and they will promptly correct any bodily ailment, no matter how small it is. A trifling chill, a cough and fugitive aches in the back and shoulders linger long, sometimes, after an attack of grip.

They will not be followed by permanent weakness if the body is warmed and all its latent energies are roused by that best of all stimulants, Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. Skin, lungs, stomach and bowels are quick to feel the good effects of this whiskey. Those who have been stricken by the grip remember how this stimulant has turned them on the road to health.

It is the crowning merit of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey that it puts the body in a state of defense. Giddiness and headache in the morning and tendency to take cold easily are overcome by this remedy. Strength and buoyancy supplant weakness and depression, so that the dreaded grip leaves no trace behind.

The old saw "forewarned forearmed" would never have lived so long if it were not a gem of wisdom. It applies with great force to the speedy recovery of grip by means of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey.

SITTING AT DR. CHAPMAN.

Spirited Session of Presbyterian Ministers.

There was a lively discussion at the meeting of the Presbyterian Ministerial Union in San Francisco yesterday, which was brought about as a result of the Herron episode. It was decided that hereafter the Programme Committee will not have power to invite visiting celebrities to attend the meetings. The programme must now be made out three months in advance.

Dr. Herron was spoken about by some of the ministers, and finally the union began to discuss Rev. Dr. E. S. Chapman of this city, who has been doing evangelical work for some time.

In the course of the discussion Rev. Mr. Hunter said: "Personally, I do not like Dr. Chapman. I consider him narrow and bigoted. He has nothing but sneers for Yale College. I think the church should strike out and be liberal. Herron and Varley have done a good deal in this line."

In spite of Mr. Hunter's objections it was decided that Dr. Chapman should hold a series of evangelistic meetings in San Francisco in the early fall, and that they should be held under the auspices of his Presbyterian brethren.

Dr. Chapman was formerly pastor of the Brooklyn Presbyterian Church in East Oakland and has lately been evangelizing Los Angeles. During the absence in Europe of Dr. Kummer, pastor of the First Methodist Church of this city, Dr. Chapman will occupy his pulpit.

COTTOLENE.

All that's Yellow is not Cottolene

There's hardly a housekeeper in the country but has heard of Cottolene the new vegetable shortening. It is a strictly natural product; composed only of clarified cotton seed oil, thickened for convenience in use, with refined beef suet—pure and sweet. So composed,

COTTOLENE

Was bound to win, and to drive out lard from the kitchens of the world. When housekeepers wish to get rid of the unpleasant features and results of lard, they should get Cottolene, taking care that they are not given cheap counterfeits with imitative names, spuriously compounded to sell in the place of Cottolene.
It's easy to avoid disappointment and insure satisfaction. Insist on having Cottolene.

CHUCK HOLES.

An Easterner Talks About Our Bad Streets.

They Are a Great Detriment to the City.

His Experiences While Taking a Ride Around Town.

Editor Tribune—SIR: My experience has been, since my limited sojourn here, that your people are peculiarly anxious to get the views of a visitor as to the attractions and prospects of your State. That is my excuse for rushing into print. I have been in your city but a short time, but have been charmed by its natural advantages. As a place of residence it is not surpassed by any locality that I have visited in this country or in Europe. Its homes are pleasant and attractive, its people hospitable, and nature has lavished upon it a soil and climate that render all things possible to those who enjoy the beauty and sweetness of existence. I feel confident that those now living here will yet see the foothills from Berkeley to Haywards dotted with suburban residences, and traversed by drives that will be a constant delight to the resident and the visitor.

Having thus expressed my appreciation of your advantages, and, I trust, established the fact of my sympathy and interest in your progress, I hope I may be excused for indulging a little in the traveler's prerogative of fault-finding. A friend of mine who resides here recently took me for a drive to Haywards The drive was delightful after I once reached the country road While crossing the depression that carries the southern shore of the lake I was in constant fear least the buggy should be smashed and we be spilled to the ground. After ascending the hill upon the east side, the street for fully a mile was not in a fit condition to drive over, and the buggy was in imminent danger of destruction. I have found others of your streets in somewhat similar condition, though they are not so bad.

It is surprising to me at the present day, when every other part of the country is paying so much attention to the construction and maintenance of streets and roads, that I should find this condition of affairs in a city so attractive otherwise. Throughout the southern part of this State I found the streets, and even the country roads, in admirable condition. Throughout the Eastern States the people of the smallest country town would not tolerate the disgrace of such streets. The Eastern visitor, who, like myself, is traveling for pleasure, cannot but receive an impression, perhaps unconsciously, that Southern California is more progressive and a more attractive place to live in when he sees such contrasts. Upon his return home his reports to his friends are necessarily colored by this impression. The Easterner who comes to this State with the idea of buying a home and settling here receives this impression much more strongly and decides to cast his lot in Southern California.

When I expressed these reflections to my friend, he said that there were certain unprogressive fossils who owned the land fronting upon the streets, and under the law these were able to prevent any improvements. If this is the case, it would be a paying investment for the city to buy their land from them, paying any price they may demand, upon the sole condition that they will forthwith emigrate to some more congenial locality. I would suggest that they might find congenial surroundings among the crackers of Georgia or the moonshiners of the Tennessee mountains. AN EASTERNER.

SPECIAL WORK.

Important Matters Come Before the Council.

A Complication Regarding the Grant Case.

Complaints of the Condition of Street Car Tracks.

There was a called meeting of the Council last night, at which all the members were present. The chair was occupied by President Manuel.

RESOLUTIONS.

The following resolutions were disposed of:

Extending the time sixty-four days for the improvement of Twenty-fourth street, between Eleventh and Twelfth avenues, under contract with the Piedmont Paving Company. Adopted.

Extending time, by seventy-five days, for the grading, curbing and macadamizing of Walsworth and Oakland avenues, under contract with the Oakland Rock Company. Adopted.

Extending by fourteen days the time for the sewering of Fourteenth avenue and East Eighteenth street, under contract to Cotton Brothers' Company. Adopted.

THE GRANT CASE.

A communication was received from the City Attorney to the effect that the case of George E. Grant vs. the City of Oakland had been set to be heard in the Superior Court on the 30th inst. The case, he said, involves the title to a parcel of land 100x300 feet near the corner of Sixteenth street and Third avenue, which is claimed by Grant. The communication set forth that the burden of proof devolves upon the city to show that the property in question had been dedicated for public use. There is an abstract of the title to the property on file, but it does not show that the place had been dedicated to public use. Mr. Peirsol said he had hunted around for evidence to show dedication, but had been unable to find any.

Councilman Bassett suggested that more time be given in which to secure the necessary evidence.

Councilman Towle suggested ex-City Attorney Johnson tell what he knows about the matter.

Mr. Johnson said the case had been before the City Attorney's office for about ten years. No record of dedication could be found. Years ago he brought suit to recover the property, but Mr. Chabot, who was then alive, had sworn that he was a tenant of Mr. Grant's, and the court then held that the duty of showing dedication devolved upon the city. Mr. Grant had no title to the property in question save a quitclaim deed he had received from a man named Sullivan, who, in early days, was in the habit of issuing quitclaim deeds to anybody who wanted one and to any piece of property which he might want one on. Mr. Johnson stated further that one of the boundaries of Mr. Grant's own property was mentioned in the deed as the "plaza," which is part of the property under consideration. Mr. Johnson said he had a moral belief that, in early days, the parcel in question had been deeded to the city, but he could find neither written nor oral testimony on the subject. Many of the people whom he had spoken to about the matter thought the property had been dedicated to the city, but were unwilling to swear to it.

On motion of Councilman Marshall, the chair appointed Messrs. Marshall and Bassett as a committee to work with the Board of Public Works in securing evidence touching the city's claim to the property in question.

The City Attorney said he had consulted with counsel for Mr. Grant in the premises and that it was agreed that the case would be continued till May 7th.

SECOND AVENUE SEWER.

Councilman Dow then asked what had been done with respect to the sewer on Second avenue.

Councilman Towle said that the legality of the contract for the work with Cotton Brothers' Company, is now before the courts and that as soon as a decision is reached in the matter the contractors would know what to do in the premises.

STREET CAR TRACKS.

Councilman Dow referred to the fact that complaints are frequently made as regards the manner in which the local street railway companies fail to keep their tracks and the roadway near them in good repair. He said that the Council had adopted resolution after resolution instructing the old Board of Public Works to see that the companies in question complied with the ordinance in the manner specified, but the board had actually accomplished nothing. He felt that the present Board of Public Works would do their duty in the premises, as it was desired of them that they should act because the people especially, in his section of the city, are greatly annoyed over the horrible condition of the tracks and streets along which they are run. He then asked the City Attorney to tell what the Board of Public Works is doing in the premises.

City Attorney Peirsol said the Board of Public Works had had conferences with the Haywards line and horse car people on Twelfth street and had been assured that those companies are willing to make the proposed improvement, but that especially on Twelfth street, near the estuary, they could not perform the work without great loss until the city should repair the thoroughfare to the curbs from a point two feet on either side of the outer rail. Without such repairing the improvement that might be made by the railroad companies would not stand.

Councilman Dow said that the railroad companies have no excuse. They must keep the roadway in good condition. If this could not be done by two feet on either side of the track, then the companies should lay down four or six feet of pavement if necessary. He admonished the Board of Public Works that the Council, by means of the passage of a resolution or ordinance would give that board any assistance they might require in carrying out the wishes of the Council in the respect mentioned.

The discussion was informal and no action was taken because the meeting had been called for a special purpose.

Councilman Capell then called the attention of a filled and offensive cesspool at the corner of Fourth avenue and East Eighteenth street, but no action could be taken for the reason above specified.

LIQUOR LICENSES.

Liquor licenses were granted as follows: D. Donovan, 420 Seventh street; Charles Sulfer and Robert Matter, southeast corner of Ninth and Franklin streets; E. R. Rowland, 553 Broadway; Warnecke & Meichels, 603 Broadway; August Grimm, 850 Franklin; J. J. Carroll, 479 Tenth street; C. C. Potter, 1851 San Pablo avenue; Franz & Wemmer, 412 Eighth street; O. F. Rooney, Oakland mole; C. M. Peterson 1160 Seventh street; Isadore Manuel, 212, San Pablo avenue.

On motion of Councilman Heitmann the Council then adjourned.

HUNT WENT TO JAIL.

The Orator Militant Succumbs to the Police.

Captain F. W. Hunt fell into the clutches of the police last evening and was obliged to appear before Judge Wood in the Police Court this morning to answer to a charge of obstructing the streets. The doughty warrior forgot to secure a permit from Mayor Davie yesterday before giving an oration last night at the corner of Tenth street and Broadway. The captain held forth there about 8 o'clock and had a large crowd gathered about him when Officers Scanlan and Andrews reached that portion of their beat. Hunt was requested to exhibit his permit, but being without one was sent to the City Hall where he left three watches in the keeping of Officer Swain before he went into the jail.

Captain Hunt is very wroth over the arrest, but he will not take any legal steps until the Salvation Army members have fought their case to a termination. There is no doubt, however, in the mind of the orator that his right of free speech was rudely trampled upon by the minions of the law, who escorted him to jail. The captain was not ready to proceed and as no complaint was on file, the case went over until tomorrow.

SUNDAY CLOSING.

Clerks to Confer With the Merchants' Exchange.

The Clerks' Association met last night and appointed a committee, comprising E. Bernstein, Ward Polton and M. W. Isaacs, to confer with the Merchants' Exchange as to the best means of inducing all the merchants of the city to close their stores on Sunday.

This committee will also reply to aspersions which have been cast upon members of the Clerks' Association, through the press, by certain of the merchants who keep their stores open on Sunday.

The Merchants' Exchange will be glad to take hold of the matter, because, certain well informed members say, the greater part of the membership now close their stores on Sunday, and are in favor of observing that day as a day of rest and relaxation.

The exchange members feel that the desired closing can be accomplished with a little persuasion.

COURT CALENDAR.

WEDNESDAY, May 1st.

Department 1, Judge Greene—H. K. Fry vs. J. J. Avilla et al.

Department 2, Judge Frick—No case set.

Department 3, Judge Ellsworth—No case set.

Department 4, Judge Ogden—No case set.

The Humane Society.

The annual meeting of the Alameda County Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children is set by the constitution to take place tomorrow. Owing, however, to the May fiesta the meeting will have to be deferred till later, when an attempt will be made to make the gathering in some respects remarkable. After the routine business shall have been transacted, there will be set speeches by well known citizens and then a reception will be held.

Athletic Turners.

There will be a grand athletic event at the gymnasium of the Oakland Turnverein tonight. There will be present all the members of the local turnverein and their friends, together with the San Francisco, Vorwaerts Mission and Alameda turnvereins. Athletic games and exercises will be indulged in, after which there will be a Kommers in which speeches, recitations, solos and refreshments will entertain both the home and visiting athletes.

Jordan to Lecture.

President Jordan of Stanford University will give a series of three lectures for the Starr King Fraternity on subjects allied to those on which Mr. Herron preaches, but from a rather different point of view, beginning Thursday of this week and continuing on the two succeeding Thursday evenings. The lectures will be given in the Unitarian Church, and the subject of the first one will be "The Disappearance of Great Men From Public Life."

He Stole Shoes.

Charles Emerson, a thoughtful-looking old man, was found guilty of stealing two pairs of shoes from the front of Broadway stores by Judge Wood in the Police Court this morning. Emerson will appear for sentence tomorrow and the glad tidings of the May Day fiesta will have no joy for him.

Labor Lectures.

Lawrence Gronlund lectured at the Manse at Eighth and Wood streets last night on "The Inevitable Coming of Socialism." He will speak at the same place tonight, his subject being the "Evolution of the Labor Movement."

PRACTICAL.

Mayor Davie Trying to Make Both Ends Meet.

How He Will Try to Avoid a Deficit.

Estimates Asked From the Heads of the Departments.

Mayor Davie is seeking to solve the financial problem that is worrying some of the city officials. From the figures recently furnished by Auditor Snow it was made fully apparent that the utmost economy must be maintained in every department of the city government to save the city from a financial deficit at the close of the present fiscal year.

The report of City Expert York also furnished evidence that the city was in a fair way to fall into financial difficulties unless steps were at once taken to diminish expenditures all along the line.

The Mayor has been looking over the situation, and in order to enlighten himself he has had the head of each department furnish an estimate of what will be the actual requirements of his departments for the two remaining months of the fiscal year. These statements are now being called and tabulated by Secretary MacMullan, and they will form a basis of operation for the working out of the Mayor's plan to keep the city in proper shape until the year is ended. The Mayor has given the subject a great deal of attention. He does not believe a deficit will occur if proper attention is given the expenditures at once.

With the estimates of the officials before him Mayor Davie proposes to give them his closest attention and will carefully compare and keep run of all requisitions that are drawn for supplies, etc. The estimates are based in all instances upon the actual requirements of each department for maintenance. Only salaries, horse feed and such absolutely necessary supplies are included. The expenditures will be kept closely in bounds, so far as the Police, Fire, Street and Health Departments are concerned. These come directly under the immediate supervision of the Mayor, acting in that capacity or as a commissioner of the Board of Public Works or of the Police and Fire Commission.

The Mayor firmly believes that the deficit now staring the city in the face can be overcome if careful attention to detail is given. He will personally supervise all expenditures and will endeavor in conjunction with the heads of departments to prevent any shortage. The Fire and Police Departments have been instructed to secure nothing but such articles as are absolutely needed to maintain their respective departments. The same rule will also apply to the Street and Health Departments.

The Mayor has mapped out his plan of campaign for the next two months in this connection and he is confident that there will be little or no increase in the $15,000 hole now existing in the General fund.

BIELE BEATS THE CASE.

Judge Wood, However, Thinks He Should Be Punished.

Robert Biele was examined in the Police Court this morning on charge of assault with a deadly weapon. Biele had an altercation with a conductor on an Alameda electric car over the payment of fare. Robert flourished a pistol during the row and landed in the city prison. The testimony was insufficient to hold him to answer on the charge, but Judge Wood suggested that a modified charge of exhibiting a weapon in a rude manner might be sustained. He believed Biele should be punished for his conduct.

I find the ROYAL BAKING POWDER superior to all the others in every respect. It is purest and strongest.

RIGHTS OF THE BALLOT.

An Important Election Decision in Kansas.

KANSAS CITY, April 30.—At the November elections in Kansas City gross frauds are said to have been committed.

The matter was brought before the Grand Jury, which called on the Recorder of Voters to produce the ballot boxes for their inspection.

The Recorder demurred, and the case was finally taken to the Supreme Court for adjudication.

The court today denied the right of a criminal court to compel the Recorder to produce the ballot boxes.

Giving the Grand Jury a right to inspect ballot boxes, the court holds, would violate the secrecy of the ballot as well as be an infringement of the Constitution.

Raided a Lottery.

Officer Stokes raided a Chinese lottery "joint" at 611 Twelfth street last night and arrested one Chinaman, the keeper of the place.
